A MEMOIR OR NOTICE OF JOHN HARINGTON, ESQ.,

The Founder of the Branch of the Haringtons of Kelston in Somerset.

The gentleman in whose favour this grant of arms was made in 1568, and who is described in it as of Kelston, co. Somerset, was not we think at that date generally resident at Kelston, but in London. Kelston, which had pertained to Shaftesbury Abbey up to the time of the Dissolution of the Religious Houses, was without a mansion suitable for a resident owner ; so until this defect could be remedied, Harington, though owner of the manor, did not reside on it, but in his town house, near the Bishop's Palace at Lambeth. The branch of the family to which he belonged had been sadly impoverished by the attainder, as well of Sir Robert Harington as of Sir James Harington of Brierley, after the fall of the House of York, and victory of Hen. VII. at Bosworth (1485). The subject of this notice was probably born in Stepney, in which district there is some evidence that persons of the name had wharfage property, and to which neighbourhood the sons of Thomas Harington, Rector of Kelston, returned after the decease of their father. London was in those days, it would seem, as now, the field or scene of enterprise in which families of broken fortune sought to repair their losses. And one of the first points which strikes us as worthy of remark in noting the history of John Harington of Stepney is the singular recovery he achieved of something like the old family position, but in a totally different sphere from that of his northern ancestors. Taking into consideration the fall of Sir James Harington from the pinnacle of fortune after Towton (where Hen. VI. fell into his hands) to the depth of distress and ruin at Bosworth, after which battle Hen. VII. wreaked his vengeance on the adherents of Richard, how is it that a descendant of Sir James should be found in favour with Hen. VIII., and afterwards a trusted servant of his daughter Queen Elizabeth ? Through what influence did this change of feeling of the same Royal family towards the Yorkist Haringtons come to pass ? There seems no evidence that the Rutland branch of Haringtons, with Lord Harington of Exton at their head—now most flourishing when the northern Haringtons were most depressed in condition—did anything to help them regain their lost lands from Lord Monteagle, or to restore the fortune of their broken relatives in any other way. The ultimate union of the Roses may, it is true, to some extent have softened the asperity of the early days of Hen. VII., and thus the Haringtons, with their old name and known fidelity to whatever King they professed to serve, have moved back again to Court and courtly favour. But, after all, we cannot but think that the incident in John Harington's career to which we are about to allude, in his alliance with Hen. VIII.'s natural daughter, gave the chief impulse to his fortune. This would probably have been more obvious had his first marriage taken place during the lifetime of King Hen. VIII. But although this marriage did not so take place, it may have been already pre-arranged and known as a coming event before the King's death. Ethelred or Awdrey Malte, the natural daughter of Henry, whom Harington married, was a special favourite with her Royal parent, who placed her for protection and education with a wealthy citizen and merchant tailor of London, named John Malte or Mawlte. This man, in return for acting confidentially in these private matters, received from the King a valuable reward in the shape of a grant, dated 38th Hen. VIII. (1546) of church lands, being part of the spoils of Bath Priory and Shaftesbury Abbey. We must not allude, I suppose, to the irony which is patent in this act of reformation, but simply go on and add that these confiscated lands were to remain to the use of Malte himself for his life, then to pass to the use of his adopted daughter Ethelred and her heirs, if she had any, and if not, to revert to the heirs of Malte. These points in the Memoir will be assured by documents bearing upon them, given in brief. Malte, the reputed father of Ethelred, did not long survive the King, indeed he died a few months after. He died rich, and bequeathed to Ethelred by Will (over and above the Manors of Kelston, Easton, and St. Catherine, all near Bath, which, as shewn above, would now fall to her fortune by the King's provision for her) another manor in Somerset, situate near Glastonbury,—the Manor of Andersey, otherwise Nyland, and now included in the parish of Rodney Stoke. The will of Malte is dated Sept. 10, 1546, and was proved June 7th, 1547, and in the year following we would place as probable the marriage of John Harington and Ethelred Malte in London or its suburbs. The wealthy endowment of his wife would be of prime importance to a man like Harington,—a man of fallen fortune but of lofty aspirations,—a man of decided talent and taste, who could write good sonnets, and (being more or less a friend of the famous composer Tallis) could write a Sanctus too; though, be it confessed, the only music of this kind handed down to us is the extraordinary Black Sanctus to Satan.* He was a man, too, of historic name and family, and now in his present fortune he could fill a place at Court in any capacity in which he might be called upon to serve the Queen.

But let us pursue his domestic career. The union with Ethelred, if happy, was of short duration. The issue of the marriage was an only child, a daughter Hester or Esther, whose birth about 1549 was probably the cause of her mother's early death. Where she was born or baptized is at present unknown. She survived her mother some years, and is spoken of in a deed affecting the Harington property 10th Elizabeth (1568). This is all that we can glean about her history: she would seem to have died unmarried, and thus, ultimately, all her mother's endowments passed to her father, and then from him to his heirs by a second wife. During the minority of his daughter Hester, certainly before 1554, and probably about 1550 (as vide the 'Nugæ' and Harington's sonnets to "sweet Isabella Markham") John Harington married Isabella, daughter of Sir John Markham, Lieutenant of the Tower of London. She was a Lady-in-Waiting on the Princess Elizabeth, and both husband and wife suffered imprisonment in the reign of Queen Mary for their fidelity to Elizabeth.

The date of his death was 1st July, 24th Eliz., at his house in Lambeth. His place of burial (as stated in the 'Mis. Gen. et Her.,' New Series, Vol. II., p. 361) was in the Church of St. Gregory by St. Paul's, London. There is an Inquisition post mortem of his property extant at Wells Diocesan Court under date 18th March, 25th Eliz., the details of which will be given, his son John (afterwards Sir John) being then twenty-one years and upwards.

There seems only to remark further, in concluding this memoir, that the Monumental Inscriptions, Registers, and other data of this branch of the Haringtons, descending from John of Stepney, commence from 1582 in Somerset; all evidences previous to this must be looked for in London and its precincts.

GALWAY, EARL OF.—The arms borne by Henry de Massue de Ruvigny, the worthy son of a noble sire, were—Quarterly: 1st, arg. a fess gu., in chief three martlets sa. on a canton or, a battle-axe of the 3rd; 2nd, gu. a chaplet of laurel or, a chief chequé arg. and az.; 3rd, arg. three mallets gu. On his advancement to the Earldom in 1697, he was granted for supporters "two savages, crowned and girt with laurel, each holding in his hand a club, and on the same arm a shield with the arms of Ireland, all ppr." At his death, æt. 72, 3 Sept. 1720, Lady Russell, at the age of 84, succeeded to his property. Although deprived by Act of Parliament of the Portarlington estate, the leases he had granted to some of the Huguenot exiles for lives, renewable for ever, were not interfered with, but still continue in force. See Smiles' 'Huguenots,' (1870) p. 216–7.

"O tu qui dans oracula," etc. The music of this hymn is described as peculiarly learned and Tallis-like!—a point which I presume will remain a "moot" one among musicians.

EXTRACTS FROM THE REGISTERS OF BURIALS IN THE PARISH OF CHELTENHAM, GLOUCESTERSHIRE.*

[These extracts, arranged chronologically, are illustrative of names and dates in the "Monumental Inscriptions in the Parish Church, Cheltenham, Gloucestershire," which have been published in the last volume. In a few cases, as may be perceived, there are slight discrepancies between the Inscriptions and the Registers; and (not to refer to those persons who were buried elsewhere) the names of some which appear in the former, are not to be found in the latter. This, and the fact that there is not any register forthcoming for a period of nearly twenty-three years (from July 15, 1653, to June 4, 1676), will account for the non-appearance of some names and dates in the following list. With the exception of this break, the registers of baptisms, marriages, and burials are continuous from November, 1558, to the present time; the books are sixty-three in number, and are in good condition.]

Pedigree of the Longs of Semington.

Mr Walter Long of Preshaw, in a memorandum, says —

"Dates from lower parts of Pedigree reckoned upwards could suit exactly for Thomas of Semington to be the son of Richard, son of Robert of Wraxall and Draycot (died 1484), who had the manor of Semington, etc., as well as Wraxall. It is presumed that he, Richard, survived over 1498, and that he was provided for by his father, Robert, and brother, Henry Long, in the manor of Semington, by lands for lives of himself and sons, three lives renewable after the custom of surrenderees we find a Court Roll under Sir Thomas Seymour, Lord Sudley, 1542, renting grants in Semington seems in favour of Thomas Long, and Johanne, and her widowhood, and one of her sons etc, etc Warcup Family.—I should be thankful for information on the following matter: Elizabeth, dau. of Thos. Warcup of Easton Field, Ebor., is said to have married Anthony Lucas of Fenton, Linc. circa 1608, or earlier. What the exact date of her marriage, and had she any children? The Fenton Register mentions Anne as the wife of Anthony Lucas and mother of his children, so possibly Elizabeth Warcup may have been his first wife, and Anne .... his second.—C. H. Lucas.

NOTES.

(1) In the time of Queen Elizabeth a considerable estate in the parish of Stapleford was held by John Brodbent, who obtained a grant of arms from William Camden, Clarencieux, in 1601. He had, however, no male issue, and his only daughter and heiress was married to one Gervase Jackson. (Thoroton's 'Antiq. of Notts,' p. 212.)

(2) An inscription upon a monument in the south aisle (in which part of the church she is presumably interred) refers to this lady as "ex veteri prosapia Ashbyorum de Quenby in agro Leicestrensi oriunda." She was daughter of George Ashby, Esquire, and widow of Gervase Teverey, Esquire, a Justice of the Peace for the county of Nottingham, whose ancestor John Teverey, of Long Eaton in Derbyshire, had acquired an estate in this parish, about the time of King Richard the Second, by marriage with the heiress of the Stapleford family. This Gervase Teverey died August the 31st, 1639, and was buried with his ancestors in the south aisle of Stapleford Church, beneath a large monument adorned with the effigies of himself and his lady, now in a sadly mutilated condition. By his above-named wife he had an only son, John, who died an infant, and three daughters, namely Mary, married to Sir Brian Palmes, of Ashwell, in the county of Rutland, and of Lindley, in the county of York; Elizabeth, who died unmarried in her father's lifetime; and Anne, married to Ralph Huband, of Ipsley in the county of Warwick, Esquire, and died March the 23rd, 1672, in her 59th year. The earlier portions of the registers of this parish have been lost, and the above is the only entry relative to the Teverey family that remains.

(3) A family named Jaques, alias Gamboul, residing at Toton in the adjoining parish of Attenborough, possessed some interest in Stapleford. Richard, one of the younger sons of George Jaques, alias Gamboul, of Toton, gentleman, and Sarah his wife, was baptised at Attenborough March the 30th, 1627, and is probably identical with the above.

(4) This Andrew Palmes is usually described as of Sherborne, in Hampshire. He was a younger brother of Sir Guy Palmes, of Ashwell and Linley, and was uncle of Sir Brian Palmes, who married the coheiress of Gervase Teverey, Esq., as above noted. By Elizabeth, his wife, he had seven sons and three daughters, of whom Thomas, William, and John were all killed fighting for their King at the battle of Worcester; Edward, another son, settled in New England, where he married and had issue; whilst Brian, who appears to have been the youngest son, was an apothecary at Melton Mowbray, in Leicestershire, and was living at that place in 1681, being then married and having three sons and a daughter. This Andrew Palmes appears to have been in his seventy-first year at the time of his decease, and was presumably interred in the Teverey vault. (Nichols' 'Hist. and Antiq. of Leicestershire,' vol. ii., p. 295.)

(5) William Palmes, Esquire (the father), was the third and youngest son of Sir Brian Palmes of Ashwell and Lindley by Mary his wife, eldest daughter and coheiress of Gervase Teverey, Esq. "The Lady Mary," his wife, was a daughter and coheiress of William, sixth Lord Euers, of Wilton in the county of Durham. This William Palmes had succeeded to the Stapleford estates upon the decease of his elder brother, Francis, but in 1668 he obtained a special Act of Parliament, under which he disposed of his Nottinghamshire estates and settled in Yorkshire.

(6) George Jackson was the son of George Jackson of Stapleford, gentleman, sometime Chief Constable for the southern division of the Broxtow Hundred, and was grandson of Gervase Jackson, who married Mary, sole daughter and heiress of John Brodbent, as already mentioned. The registers contain many entries relative to the family of Jackson, which became extinct in the main line upon the decease of John Jackson of Stapleford, gentleman, in 1853.

(7) See his burial in 1727.

(8) Married to Charles, fourth Viscount Cullen. See her burial in 1714.

(9) He was the fifth son of Arthur Warren, Esquire, and resided at Little Marlow, in Buckinghamshire, where he died in 1774. His remains were interred in the south aisle of the parish church of Little Marlow, and the following inscription was placed above his grave :—

> "Under this stone are deposited the remains of James Warren, Esq., the last and only surviving son of Arthur Warren, Esq., of Stapleford, in the County of Nottingham, by Anne, his Wife, Daughter of Sir John Borlase, Bart., who departed this life March y^e^ 29^th^, 1774, ætatis 89."

(10) He died unmarried February the 3rd, 1733, and was buried at Little Marlow.

(11) Arthur Warren, Esquire, purchased Stapleford Hall and a portion of the estate from William Palmes, Esquire, about the year 1670, and settled at Stapleford. According to Playfair ('Family Antiquities,' vol. vii. p. 138, Ap.). Ormerod ('Hist. and Antiq. of Cheshire,' vol. iii. p. 343), and other authorities, this Arthur Warren was descended from William Warren of Caunton, in the county of Nottingham,—a younger son of Sir Lawrence Warren of Poynton, in the county of Chester. There are, however, reasonable grounds for disputing this assertion. Arthur Warren of Stapleford was the grandson of Sir Arnold Waring, of Thorpe Arnold in the county of Leicester, who was knighted March the 4th, 1632. He was son of William Waring, buried at Thorpe Arnold in 1592, son of another William Waring, buried there in 1583, who was nephew of William Waring, merchant of the staple of Calais, whose inq. post. mort. is mentioned by Thoroton. In his will, which is sealed with a merchant's mark, he states that he was born at Tanworth in Warwickshire, and mentions his cousin William Waring, of Berry Hall in the parish of Solihull in the county of Warwick. The Warings of Tanworth bore—Azure, a chevron between three lions passant or,—a coat widely differing from that borne by the Warrens of Poynton, and there is no reason to suppose that there was any connection between the two families. There is no record of any arms in the Stapleford family until those of Poynton were used to a release, dated 1676, by the above-named Arthur Warren. The arms used at the funeral of this Arthur in 1697 were—Checquy or and azure within a bordure sable and over all a canton gules charged with a lion rampant azure. No arms were, however, recognized to the family until 1802, when they were established to Sir John Borlase Warren, Bart., and to the descendants of his father ('Herald and Genealogist,' vol. vii. p. 208). This Arthur Warren, who was a Captain in the Nottinghamshire Militia, and also executed the office of High Sheriff for the county, was buried in a small vault at the east end of the nave, above which the following inscription yet remains :

> "Here > Lies the Body of > Arthur Warren, Esq^r^, > who departed this Life 2^nd^
> November, A. Domini 1697."

(12) Only daughter and heiress of Sir John Borlase, of Little Marlow in the county of Buckingham, Bart., who died in August, 1688, having survived his only son, John, who had died without issue (Lipscombe's 'Hist. and Antiq. of the County of Buckingham,' vol. i. p. 310; vol. iii. p. 607). She married Arthur Warren, Esquire, in 1676, and had issue seven sons and one daughter. Her remains were interred in the same vault with those of her husband.

(13) See his burial in 1770.

(14) See his burial in 1767.

(15) He was educated at Emmanuel College, Cambridge, and graduated as B.A. in 1729 and M.A. in 1734. He was presented to the rectory of Ludgershall, in Buckinghamshire, by his father, Borlase Warren, Esquire, and was inducted into that benefice May the 9th, 1747. He died unmarried in the following year.

(16) See her burial in 1784.

(17) Only daughter of Arthur Warren, Esquire, by Anne his wife, and married Charles, fourth Viscount Cullen, by whom she had, with other issue, a son who succeeded to his father's title and estates.

(18) See her burial in 1794.

(19) See her burial in 1783.

(20) Charles, fifth Viscount Cullen, was the son and successor of Charles, fourth Viscount Cullen, whose wife was the only daughter of Arthur Warren, Esquire (as above mentioned). His wife, who was thus his first cousin, was the eldest daughter of Borlase Warren, Esquire, and Anne his wife. Her baptism is not recorded in the Stapleford registers, and has not been found.

(21) She was the only daughter of Sir John Harpur, of Calke Abbey in the county of Derby, Baronet, by Anne his wife, second daughter of William, Lord Willoughby of Parham, and was married to Borlase Warren, Esq., in 1702, and had issue five sons and six daughters. Her husband, who died in 1747, was buried at Little Marlow.

(22) John Borlase Warren, Esquire, was the eldest son and heir of Borlase Warren, Esquire, by Anne his wife. His baptism has not been found. Bridget Rossell was the youngest daughter and coheiress of Gervase Rossell, Esquire (the last male heir of the ancient family of Rossell, of Radcliffe-upon-Trent), by Frances his wife, daughter of William Green, of Thundercliffe Grange in the county of York, Esquire. Gervase Rossell dissipated the greater portion of his estates, and after his decease his widow kept a boarding house at Wirksworth, in Derbyshire. Mrs. Warren survived her husband (see his burial in 1763), and afterwards married the Reverend Graham Chapell, LL.B. She died May the 1st, 1785, and was buried in the chancel at Orston, in Nottinghamshire.

(23) John Borlase Warren, elder son of John Borlase Warren, Esquire, and Bridget, his wife, succeeded to his father's estates in 1763. In 1774, a few months after attaining his majority, he was elected M.P. for Great Marlow, and was created a Baronet May the 20th, 1775. He was subsequently elected for Nottingham, and became a member of the Privy Council, and was likewise Groom of the Bedchamber to H.R.H. the Duke of Clarence. His eminent services as a naval officer are well known. He attained the rank of Admiral of the Red, and was rewarded for his valour with the Grand Cross of the Bath, and with other orders of knighthood. He was married December the 13th, 1780, to Caroline, third daughter of General Sir John Clavering, by the Lady Diana his wife, daughter of John, first Earl de la Warr, and by her he had two sons, both of whom died in the lifetime of their parents, and three daughters. Admiral Sir John Borlase Warren died at Greenwich Hospital February the 27th, 1822, and his remains were interred at Stretton Audley, in Oxfordshire. Lady Warren survived her husband for some years, and died at Stapleford Hall December the 21st, 1839, in the seventy-ninth year of her age.

(24) Only daughter of John Borlase Warren, Esq., and Bridget his wife. She married Augustus Parkyns, Esquire, by whom she had several children, and dying June the 21st, 1821, was buried in the south aisle of St. Peter's Church, Derby, where there is a mural tablet to her memory.

(25) See his burial in 1829.

(26) Benjamin Price Withers, of Westbury in the county of Buckingham, Esquire, by his will, dated in 1771, recites several deeds between himself, the said Benjamin Price Withers, and Anne his wife. John Borlase Warren, Esquire, the Honourable Borlase Cockayne, Arnold Warren, Esquire, and the Reverend James Warren, under which the manor or royalty of Westbury was settled upon his descendants for ever. (Lipscombe's 'Hist. and Antiq. of the County of Buckingham,' vol. iii. p. 142.)

(27) Edward Tutin was an apothecary residing in Bridlesmith Gate, in the town of Nottingham. Catherine Rossell, who was baptised at Wirksworth April the 9th, 1725, was one of the daughters and coheiresses of Gervase Rossell, Esquire, and sister of Bridget, the wife of John Borlase Warren, Esquire. The issue of this marriage was an only daughter.

(28) Eldest son and heir of Borlase Warren, Esquire, upon whose decease, in 1747, he succeeded to the Stapleford estates. He was for some years a Justice of the Peace for the county of Nottingham, and was High Sheriff in 1751. His remains were interred in a vault at the east end of the south aisle in Stapleford Church.

(29) Third son of Borlase Warren, Esquire, and Anne, his wife. He died unmarried.

(20) Second son of Borlase Warren, Esquire, and Anne his wife. Also died unmarried.

(31) Youngest son of Borlase Warren, Esquire, and Anne his wife. He was educated at Emmanuel College, Cambridge, and took his degree as LL.B. in 1738, and was Rector of Stretton Audley, in Oxfordshire. In 1748, upon the decease of his elder brother, Charles, he was presented to the Rectory of Ludgershall, in Buckinghamshire. He died a bachelor.

(32) See her marriage in 1802.

(33) Second son and fourth child of Sir John Borlase Warren, Bart., and Dame Caroline his wife. He died young.

(34) Third daughter and youngest child of Sir John Borlase Warren, Bart., and Dame Caroline his wife. She also died in the lifetime of her parents.

(35) These three ladies, the unmarried daughters of Borlase Warren, Esquire, and Anne his wife, are buried in a vault at the north-east end of the nave, near to where the pulpit now stands. A large oval tablet, inscribed to their memory, is placed on the north wall of the nave, above the vault.

(36) George Charles Sedley, Esquire, was the eldest son of Henry, third Lord Vernon,—then the Hon. Henry Sedley—who had assumed the name and arms of Sedley in 1779, upon his marriage with Elizabeth Rebecca Anne Sedley, heiress of Sir Charles Sedley, of Nuthall Temple in the county of Nottingham, Bart. In 1813, upon his father's accession to the title, he assumed the family names of Venables-Vernon, and succeeded as fourth Lord Vernon in 1829. He died November the 18th, 1835. Frances Maria, his wife, was the eldest daughter and eventually sole heiress of Sir John Borlase Warren, Baronet. In 1826 she assumed the name of Warren, and after her decease (which occurred on the 17th of September, 1837) her only son, George John, fifth Lord Vernon, assumed for himself (but not for his issue) the name and arms of Warren only, —both of them so doing in compliance with the will of Elizabeth Harriott, Lady Bulkley, the sole daughter and heiress of Sir George Warren, of Poynton, in the county of Chester, the last male heirof his line. The presumed relationship between the families, already referred to, was thus recognized. The present Lord Vernon does not bear the name of Warren, but his younger brother, having succeeded to the estates of his great-grandfather in Nottinghamshire and Oxfordshire, took, in compliance with his will, the names of Borlase-Warren before those of Venables-Vernon, by royal license dated June the 4th, 1856. (Burke's 'Peerage and Baronetage;' 'Herald and Genealogist,' vol. vii. p. 208.)

(37) Younger son of John Borlase Warren, Esquire, and Bridget his wife, and the last surviving male representative of his family. He died a bachelor, and was buried in the vault at the east end of the south aisle in Stapleford Church.

TANNER.—I should be much obliged to any correspondent who would give me information concerning the early part of the Tanner pedigree. It appears that the three brothers, Anthony, William, and Laurence Tanner, married three sisters (query whether daughters of a John Fuller, who left More House to Will'm Tanner?). In Berry's 'Sussex Genealogies' the Fuller pedigree is given, but I cannot find a John Fuller mentioned with three daughters, one being Sarah. More House was left (see Horsfield's 'Sussex,' p. 227) to a Mr. John Fuller by Frances, the sole heiress of John Middleton, Esq., of More House. She married Robert Day, Esq., and died s.p. in 1764.

CRABB.—Charles Trelawney of Coldrinnick, St. Germain's, Cornwall, died without issue in 1764; the name and estate were then inherited by his cousin Henry Darell, who also died without issue; then by Darell Crabb, the son of his cousin Frances, the wife of John Crabb of Plymouth, Esq., who also dying without issue in 1795, the name and estate then passed to the grandson of another cousin, Anne, ancestor of the present possessor.

I am very desirous to find out the arms and descent of the above John Crabb; probably he came of the family of that name at Castlewich, near Callington. (Harl. Pub., Cornwall Visit., 1620.)

Alice Crabbe, in 1682, married Saml. Cory, of Holsworthy, Devon, Esq. Was she of the same family or related to William Crabbe Mayor of Bristol in 1676?

Any information wil be thankfully received.

Corliss.—George Corliss, or Corlis, of Devonshire (probably of Exeter) emigrated to America about 1638, and settled at Haverhill, Mass. Information relative to his family is desired. Please address, Capt. A. W. Corliss, 8th U.S. Infantry, Yarmouth, Cumberland Co., Maine, U.S.

THE MONUMENTAL INSCRIPTIONS OF THE FAMILY OF HARINGTON, CO. SOMERSET,

AS WELL OF THE DAUGHTERS AS OF THE SONS OF THE HOUSE, WHICH MAY BE FOUND IN THE CATHEDRAL OF BRISTOL, THE ABBEY OF BATH, AND IN SEVERAL OTHER PARISH CHURCHES NEAR THOSE CITIES.*

M. I. on a tablet at west end of Kelston Church, surmounted by arms of HARINGTON impaling LEY OF TEFFONT EWYAS, DORSET, as figured in 'Misc. Gen. et H.,' Vol. I. (New Series), p. 352:—

Diones Harington late wife of John Harington Esq^r^ and daughter of the R^t^ Hon^ble^ James Earle of Marlburgh, who died the 8^th^ of August
Annoq. Domini 1674.

[Note.—This unusual name (representing, I presume, Dyonisia) was introduced into the Ley family by the marriage of Henry Ley, father of the Earl, who became possessed of the Manor of Teffont by grant from Hen. VIII. in the 37th year of his reign, and married Dionysia de Mayne. He was buried at Teffont 1574.—F. J. P.]

Inscription on a tablet in the wall of the churchyard near the Harington tombs and vaults:—

Hic jacet Georgius Harington
Generosus Filius Tertius Natu
Johannis Harington Militis
Qui obiit 7^o^ die Decembar (sic)
Anno Domini 1665.

[Note.—I have some grounds for believing that this gentleman resided at Fieldgrove, in the parish of Bilton, and died there, but was brought to Kelston to rest with his fathers.—F. J. P.]

On a marble tomb in Kelston Churchyard, west of the tower:—

ARMS.—Quarterly 1*st and* 4*th.* GIBBES OF BRISTOL AND LONDON. 2. HARINGTON. 3. SPECOT OF NORTH DEVON AND CORNWALL.

Here lyeth the body of Harington Gibbes of the City of Bristol Merchant who departed this life the 7^th^ day of October
1732 aged 50 years.
He was son of Henry Gibbes Esq., sometime
Alderman of the said City,
By Elizabeth his wife, who was daughter of John Harington of this Parish Esq. and Mary his wife, daughter of Peter Speccott of Thornbury Co. Devon Esq.
This tomb was erected by Dioness Gibbes, his sister, as a testimony of her great affection: and to perpetuate the memory of her dear Brother.

The above is on the north side of the tomb, and then on the south side is inscribed—

Here lieth the Body of Diones Gibbes of the City of Bristol who departed this life the 4^th^ day of August 1760.

* Communicated by the Rev. FRANCIS J. POYNTON, M.A., Rector of Kelston.

Monumental Inscriptions and other Memorials of Harington and allied Families, from Marshfield Church, co. Glo'ster.

In the North Aisle at Marshfield Church.

Arms.—Harington and Gibbes.

Here lieth the body of Elizabeth Gibbes
Relict of Henry Gibbes Alderman and Merchant of the City of Bristol; and eldest daughter of John Harington Esq. of Kelston Co. Somerset who departed this life Oct^{r} 12th
A.D. 1723 aged 67.

[Note.—This last memorial is of special value, as there is no baptismal entry of this lady in the Kelston or Corston Register 1567 nor thereabouts.]

Near this place lyeth the body of Mary Gostlet widow of John Gostlet Esq^{r} and daughter of John Harington Esq^{r} of Kelston in the County of Somerset by Lady Dionissa Ley d^{r} & coh^{s} of the Right Hon^{ble} James, Earl of Marlbrough, who departed this life Oct^{r} 27th
Ann. Dom. 1698 aged (?)*

Near this place lyeth the body of John Gostlet Esq. who departed this life January 24th 1692 in the 67th year of his age.

[Note.—It appears from the above that Mary, the daughter of John Harington, Esq., of Kelston (the Parliamentarian M.P. for Bath), only survived her husband six years. I have learned from family memoranda that this marriage was without issue. She was baptized at Corston, Somerset, 1628, where her father resided till after the death of his mother, the Lady Mary, in 1634. John Gostlett, being in the 67th year of his age when he died in 1692, must have been born 1625-6; and his wife Mary, being bapt. 1628 and dying in 1698, attained the age of 70. From observation of these dates, it would seem that Benjamin Gostlett, whose wife's surname is not known, but whose dau'r Helena married John Harington, Esq., of Kelston, son of John, the Parliamentarian, in 1678, was brother and probably younger brother of the above John Gostlet, and not his son. This family is mentioned in Fosbrooke's 'Gloucestershire' as having purchased the lands in Marshfield once held by the Abbey of Keynsham, Somerset.]

On a marble monument there :—

Arms.—Long impaling Harington.

Interred near this place lieth the body of Dionysia widow of Calthrop Long of Whaddon in the County of Wilts Esq.
and daughter of Jn^{o} Harington Esq. of Kelston in the County of Somerset who departed this life Dec^{r} 4th 1744
aged 86 years.

[Note.—He was Calthrop Parker at the time of their marriage. They both executed a lease of property at Instow (in Devon), in the name of Parker, 27th July, 1709 (to which Elizabeth Gibbes was also a party); but on 20th May, 1716, they executed as C. and D. Long. Calthrop Parker (Long) was her 2d husband. She was previously the wife of Henry Long, Esq. of Stanton Prior, co. Somerset (married at Kelston, 1682). Her mother was Mary Specot (Harington).]

The Table of Benefactions records the following bequests of Mrs. Dyoness Long to the church and parish of Marshfield :—

"Imprimis To the Vicar of this place for the time being an estate lying in the parish of Mangotsfield called Cleave Hill of the yearly value of one hundred pounds or thereabouts—provided he preaches or causes to be preached two sermons on every Lord's day in this Church, and reads or causes to be read on Wednesday and Friday in every week Prayers in the said Church." (This estate was purchased in the year 1731.)

* It should be seventy years.—F. J. P.

" Item Towards the maintenance of six poor Widows an estate lying in the parish of Iron Acton in this County (Glos'ter) of the yearly value of 20 pounds or thereabouts, purchased in the year 1731.

" Item To a Charity School towards teaching and Clothing twenty Boys, if so many can be had, an estate lying at Frampton in this County, of the yearly value of twenty-five pounds or thereabouts, purchased in the year 1731.

" Item The interest of nine hundred pounds lying in New South Sea Annuities for the use of the two last mentioned charities."

There was also given to this Church (Marshfield) by Colthrope Long, Esq., and Dyonisia his wife a set of communion plate, consisting of two large flagons, one large cup with a cover, and two large plates.

KELSTON MONUMENTS RESUMED.

An Inscription which would seem to have been upon a flat stone in Kelston Church in the time of Collinson, the historian of Somerset, but is now (1877) no longer extant, and has never been seen by the present Rector :—

Here lyeth the Body of Dorothy Wife of John Harington Esq^{r} and Daughter of William White of Little Somerford in the County of Wilts, who died July 4th A.D. 1726
Aged 42.
"We shall rise again."

A monument on record as having once been in Kelston Churchyard, but no longer extant, nor remembered in situ by the oldest inhabitant (1877). A marble table supporting a Bible :—

Near this place lyeth the body of D^{r} Edward Harington a faithful and diligent servant of his God, who entrusted him with Five Talents, the improvement of which was his constant care, for, so far as human nature would permit, he followed the Pattern of our Blessed Lord and Master, instructing the ignorant, comforting the afflicted, and healing the diseased. Indeed he had the virtues both of Head and Heart, which made him highly esteemed and beloved, and as greatly lamented at his Death, which was the first of August 1757.

His unhappy widow, sensible of his merits and her own great loss, has ordered this emblem (The Holy Bible) of his daily study to be erected.

On a tablet in the porch over the north door, Kelston :—

Near this Place lieth the Body of Alice, the wife of Th^{os} Facknaham
of
Marshfield in the Co. of Gloucester Daughter of John Harington Esq. of this Parish
Who departed this life
the 2^{d} May 1742
Aged 71 Years.

[Note.—This lady was previously married to Mr. Edward (? Coward, the writing of marr. entry is indistinct) Chetwynd. The Rev. Thos. Fecknam succeeded Mr. Wm. Wallis as Vicar of Marshfield in 1686, and himself died in 1704.—Vide Atkyns's 'Gloucestershire,' p. 286, as to Fecknam.]

In the churchyard of St. Catherine's, near Bath, on an altar tomb near the chancel door, is this inscription :—

Near this stone lyeth the body of John Fackenham of the Parish of Marshfield son of the Rev. T. Fackenham and Alice his wife, daughter of John Harington of Kelston Esq^{r}.
He died May 3^{d} 1745
Aged 52.

for having taken the Cavalier's Protestation, and for exhorting others to it." ..... "He also had a temporal estate of £80 a year in London, which was likewise seized and put under sequestration." (Vide Walker's 'Sufferings of the Clergy,' part ii. p. 327.) Walker details the outrages from which George Pierce and his family suffered, and the privations they underwent. How long he survived the Restoration was unknown to Walker, but is above recorded. He returned to Tiverton, and became a D.D. He was an especial benefactor to the poor, and a man of singular diligence and industry in the ministry, and of great temperance and sobriety. (Vide also Harwood's 'Alumni Etonenses,' 1797).

* Educated at Eton, 1628.—It is stated by Harwood that he "was brother to the unfortunate and worthy George Pierce (of the year 1622)." Their father had twenty-three children by his 2nd wife, some of whom were educated at Eton and King's Coll., Cambridge, through the bounty of K. James. This Robert was a schoolmaster in Ireland.

† In the 'Alumni Etonenses,' under A.D. 1631, Car. I. 7, Harwood writes that this Henry Pierce, A.M., "was wounded at Bridgewater, and died on his passage to London."

‡ Administration was granted on the estate of Theobald Pearce of Richmond 1 May, 1656, to the relict, Sarah.

§ The Rev. John Weston, M.A., Oxon., was the only son of Dr. John Weston, D.C.L., Canon and Treasurer of Christ Church, Oxford; grandson of Dr. Robert Weston of Weeford, co. Stafford, D.C.L., Fellow of All Souls, Oxon, and the renowned Lord Chancellor of Ireland temp. Eliz., and great grandson of John Weston of Lichfield [who was descended through the family long seated at Hagley, near Rugeley, from the ancient and knightly house of Weston of Weston-under-Lyzard, co. Stafford], by Cecilia Nevill, daughter of Ralph, Lord Nevill of Raby, and sister of Ralph Nevill, who succeeded his grandfather as 4th Earl of Westmoreland. At the commencement of the Great Civil War, John Weston was the Rector of All Hallows, Lombard Street, London, and, as Newcourt records, "was for his loyalty sequestered by the rebels." He is mentioned by Walker in his 'Sufferings of the Clergy,' and Lloyd in his 'Loyal Sufferers' tells us that "because he (Weston) walked uprightly and would not creep or crouch using no Arts to gain them but pious Living and painful Labouring and because his smart Preaching made some galled back wince, they persecuted and imprisoned him." He did not survive to benefit by the restoration of the living of which he had been deprived, but died A.D. 1660. By his wife Martha, above named, he had, with other children, John, who died unmarried, and Henry, 2nd son, who married Mary, daughter of John Buckler of Radipole, in Dorsetshire, and who acquired Lane House and other property in that County, which have been retained by the family, and are now held by William Henry Purcell Weston, his direct descendant.

* The Astleys of Hill Morton, one of the best families in Warwickshire, whose pedigree goes back to the time of King John.

THE DENNYS,

Earls of Norwich, Barons Denny of Waltham, and Baronets of Ireland.

The lineage of this very ancient family is given at length in Archdall's revised edition of 'Lodge's Peerage of Ireland' (vol. i., p. 298, ed. 1789), and by Sir Bernard Burke in his 'Peerage and Baronetage of Great Britain and Ireland.' Traditionally it claims for a founder a knight who rendered good service to Charlemagne, but Lodge begins the pedigree with John Denny, who served Henry the Fifth in the French wars, and who, with his son John, was slain in battle and buried in France. Fourth in descent from the elder brother of this last-mentioned John was Edmund Denny of Cheshunt, Baron of the Exchequer and Knight, who died in 1520, leaving with other issue a daughter Joice Denny, who marrying William Walsingham, was by him mother of Sir Francis Walsingham, Secretary of State temp. Elizabeth, and Anthony born in 1500, the well-known favourite of Henry the Eighth. He was knighted and made a Privy Councillor and Groom of the Stole to that king. Fuller tells us in his quaint language that "alone of all the courtiers Sir Anthony Denny was bold and faithful enough to acquaint King Henry truly with his dying condition, to dispose his soul for another world." The learning and virtues of Sir Anthony Denny have been commemorated in the verse of Surrey and in the Latin prose of Roger Ascham. He married, says Lodge in his Biographies of Royal and Illustrious personages, "a lady of ancient lineage and great piety," Joan daughter of Sir Philip Champernoun, of Modbury, Devonshire, the aunt of Sir Walter Raleigh and Sir Humphrey Gilbert, the hero of Longfellow's ballad. In a curious and beautiful epitaph on Sir Anthony Denny amongst the Harleian MSS. in the British Museum he is described as a—

> "Mæcenas to the learned, an anchor to relygion, > To these an open haven that were for Christe opprest;"

and from the narration of Anne Askew, it appears that Joan Lady Denny was one of the friends and helpers of that noble-minded martyr during her imprisonment. The Champernoun sisters appear to have been amongst the first who ventured to protect the persecuted in Devonshire under Henry the Eighth (v. Edwards' Life of Raleigh). Joan Lady Denny left by Sir Anthony, with other issue, two daughters, Mary, who married Thomas Astley, Groom of the Chamber, and Honora, who married Thomas Wingfield, grandson of Sir Richard Wingfield, Kt. Mareschal of Calais, Privy Councillor and Ambassador and Knight of the Garter, who by his marriage with Catherine, dowager Duchess of Buckingham and Bedford, was great uncle to Henry the Eighth. In 1522 that king granted to Sir Richard the castle and manor of Kimbolton with other manors and several priories, all of which were inherited by his grandson Thomas above mentioned. He had issue, by Honora Denny, a son, Sir Edward Wingfield of Kimbolton, whose grandson, Sir Edward Maria Wingfield, sold that ancient mansion to the ancestor of the Duke of Manchester. Sir Anthony Denny, besides these daughters, had also two sons, of whom it is only here necessary to mention two, viz.:—I. Henry, who married first the daughter of John Lord Grey of Pirgo, coheir to Henry Duke of Suffolk, and by her had no issue, and secondly Honora daughter of William Lord Grey of Wilton, and had with other issue a son and heir Edward, created Baron Denny of Waltham in 1605, and Earl of Norwich 24th August, 1616. Edward Denny Earl of Norwich married Lady Anne Cecil, daughter of the Earl of Exeter, by whom he had an only child and heiress Lady Honora Denny, who married James Hay, Earl of Carlisle, and left an only son, James, Earl of Carlisle, who married the daughter of the Earl of Bedford, and died s.p. II. Edward, fifth and youngest son of Sir Anthony Denny by Joan, dau. of Sir Philip Champernoun, went to Ireland with his connexion Lord Grey and his cousins Raleigh and Gilbert, and served gallantly against the Irish and their Spanish and Italian allies. To quote again from Fuller, "Sir Edward Denny was dubbed a knight banneret on the field of battle, and by God's favour, Queen Elizabeth's bounty, and his own valour, achieved a fair estate in the county of Kerry in Ireland, at this day enjoyed by his descendants." This estate of about seven thousand acres was portion of the immense forfeited Palatinate of Gerald, 16th Earl of Desmond, and contained the Earl's chief castle of Tralee, and several smaller castles in the west of Kerry. Sir Edward Denny married, like his father, a lady of old west of England stock, Margaret daughter of Piers Edgcumbe, Esq. of Mount Edgcumbe, ancestor of the Earls Mount Edgcumbe. Margaret Edgcumbe had been Maid of Honour to Queen Elizabeth, and soon after her marriage she accompanied her husband to Ireland, where a fierce rebellion raged. She was, with her two young children and a small garrison of the Queen's troops, at Tralee on the west coast of Kerry, when in September, 1588, the ships of the Spanish Armada were driven thither. Sir Edward Denny was absent in Dublin, and the position of his wife amidst the half-subdued wild Irish, all devoted to Spain and Catholicism, was far more perilous than that of her father in the "Edgcumbe's lofty hall" of Macaulay's fine ballad. She was however equal to the occasion, and the few Spaniards who were able to effect a landing in Dingle and Tralee were made prisoners, and at once hung by her orders at the latter town. Lady Denny and her husband appear to have remained in Kerry until 1589, and to have then, with their young children, returned to England in the ship of the famous sea rover, George Clifford, Earl of Cumberland, which had put into Dingle for water and provision on her perilous voyage homeward from the Azores (v. Hakluyt). Sir Edward Denny died on the 13th of February, 1599, and was buried in Waltham Abbey, Essex, under a fine altar tomb erected by his widow. In a recess above the tomb is a slab bearing a long and quaint inscription, to the memory of the knight, and, according to old histories of the county, a small stone tablet was formerly attached to the marble pillars of this recess, on which these lines were inscribed:—

"Learn curious reader, ere you pass,
What once Sir Edward Denny was,
A Courtier in the Chamber—a Soldier in the field,
Whose tongue could never flatter,
Whose heart could never yield."

Two marble effigies, a knight and lady, lie on the tomb itself, and on the stone pillow beneath the lady's head are carved these lines from the Book of Job:—

"All the daies of my appointed time will I wait untill my change come."

From this it is evident that the widowed Margaret Lady Denny intended that she should be buried with her husband, but this intention was frustrated, probably by the disturbed state of the country when she died in the midst of the great Civil War of the seventeenth century. The "days of her appointed time on earth" were long and changeful, and she was probably the sole survivor of that brilliant ring of fair women and brave men which encircled the throne of the last of the Tudors. Of Sir Edward Denny's distinguished kindred, Gilbert had perished at sea in a manner befitting his mother's pious and noble race, Grey and Raleigh on the scaffold, through the malice of Spain and the perfidy of James the First, that king had passed away to his account, and his son was a prisoner to fall under the axe in less than a twelvemonth; when Margaret Lady Denny, the ex-maid of honour to Elizabeth, died at the age of eighty-eight years, and was buried not with her husband at Waltham, but in the church of Bishop's Stortford, in Hertfordshire. The brass which marks her resting place, near the altar, is still in good preservation, and bears the following inscription:—

"Here Lyeth interred the truelie honor'd The Ladye Margaret Dennye descended of the ancient familie of Edgcumbe of Mount Edgcumbe in Cornwall,—a Mayd of Honor in Ordinarie to Queen Elizabeth of blessed memorie, then marry'd to Sir Edward Dennye, Kt. Groom of her Majesty's Privy Chamber; She departed this lyfe April 24, 1648, Aged 88 yeares, and in the 48th yeare of her widowhood."

Several monuments to her younger children, and their Hertfordshire connexions, are to be seen in the church.

Her eldest son Sir Arthur Denny, Kt. seems to have returned to Ireland at the beginning of the seventeenth century. He married Elizabeth daughter of Miles

Forest, Esq. of Huntingdon, and sister of Sir Anthony Forest, and, dying at his mansion house of Carrignafeely, near Tralee, in the county of Kerry, on the 4th of July, 1619, left an only son and heir, aged fourteen years and three months, as appears by an inquisition taken at Tralee, 18th April, 1622, and preserved in the Public Record Office, Dublin. The wardship of Edward Denny, during his minority, was granted to Sir Robert Loftus, eldest son of Lord Loftus of Ely, Lord Justice of Ireland in 1636-40, and ancestor of the Lennard Barretts of Bell House, Essex, and the Lords Dacre. Edward Denny attained his majority in the year 1626, and the family genealogy for a hundred and twenty years after is preserved with tolerable fulness (and perfect accuracy as far as it goes), in an old MS. volume, half diary, half register, in the possession of his lineal descendant the present Sir Edward Denny, Baronet, supplemented by various entries on the fly-leaves and margin of a yet more curious family relic, a black-letter Bible of the early part of the seventeenth century, which by a well-nigh miraculous succession of Providences escaped destruction in the great Irish civil wars of 1641 and 1689, when Tralee Castle was in the hands of the Irish, and innumerable churches and Bibles were burnt all over the island. The original Desmond Castle, which was granted to Sir Edward in 1587, had been so dilapidated in the wars of that time that it was uninhabitable, hence the family resided for nearly fifty years at the manor house of Carrignafeely before mentioned. But when Sir Edward Denny, the ward of Loftus, attained his majority, he rebuilt or restored the old Castle of Tralee, as appears by the old diary. It begins with the following entries, written by him in a very clear, fine hand for the time:—

"I was marryed in Roper's Rest House to Ruth Roper in Lent being the (illegible) 1625.

"I finished this great Castell and came with my mother to live in itt upon y^e^ 22^d^ of December 1627.

"Margarett Denny my daughter was born y^e^ 25^th^ of March 1627, being Wensday and dyed thursday sennight after Whit Sunday being early in y^e^ morning, her Godmother were y^e^ Ladye Honora Fitz Maurice and my mother the Ladye harris,* Sir Valentine Browne her Godfather.

"Monday y^e^ 21^st^ of September 1629 between 11 and 12 o'clock in the day Arthur Denny was borne, his Godfather was Donough O'brian deputy of the Lord Presydent S^r^ W. S^t^ Leger and David Earle of Barrymore who was here, his God mother was my mother.

"The 20^th^ of November 1629 my wyfe and I began housekeeping in this greate Castell."

Roper's Rest House (which seems to be an Anglicised version of Rast Haus) was, in 1625, the residence of Sir Thomas Roper, Lord Baltinglass, father of Lady Denny and collateral ancestor of Lord Teynham. Part of it, with a high antique roof and massive chimney stacks, still stands in the suburbs of Dublin, amidst a crowd of warehouses, tanyards, and other vulgar companions unknown to the knightly mansion in its better days. There are some very curious legends connected with it. Honora Fitz Maurice, the Godmother of the short-lived child Margaret Denny, was the wife of the nineteenth Lord Kerry, who was buried in the church of St. Giles's in the Fields, London, on the 31st of January, 1660. His wife was the daughter of Sir John Fitz Gerald of Cloyne, said by Archdall to have been "the richest commoner of his time." Honora Lady Kerry had, with other issue, a daughter Margaret married to Christopher Roper, Lord Teynham, and a son whose son and successor the twenty-first Lord Kerry, created Earl of Kerry in 1722, married Lady Anne Petty, sister of the Earl of Shelburne, and the friend of Swift, and was by her ancestor of the present Marquis of Lansdowne. Honora Lady Kerry and Anne Countess of Kerry (née Petty) are both buried in Ardfert Cathedral, in Kerry (v. 'Journal of the Royal Historical and Archæological Association of Ireland,' July, 1876.) Sir Valentine Browne, mentioned in the above entry, was the ancestor of the present Earl of Kenmare.

BEDFORD FAMILY.—Can any of the readers of the 'Miscellanea Genealogica' give information respecting the Yorkshire family of this name, first mentioned as of Hull from early in the fourteenth to end of the fifteenth century, and of Dewsbury from about the commencement of the sixteenth to the eighteenth century? As the Bedfords of Dewsbury were probably descended from the Hull family, I shall be glad of information that may lead to the connexion, or that will in any way be useful in tracing the descent of the family, especially with regard to John Bedford, born in 1609, who was the younger son of John Bedford of Crownest, and who it is presumed resided after his father's death at Smythey Brook, near Dewsbury.

Elizabeth the Wife of Benjamin Haryngton of Corston Esq. and daughter of William Lyde‡ of this Parish, Gent.
Changed a frail life, etc. etc.
ye 12th Dec^{r} An^{o} Do: 1693.

* Communicated by the Rev. FRANCIS J. POYNTON, M.A., Rector of Kelston.

† This is the editor of the 'Nugæ Antiquæ' of Harington; he died 1793, vitâ patris, at the early age of thirty-seven years.

‡ The Will of Elizabeth (Lyde) Harington is (Box 147) G. C. P., dated Nov. 20th, 1693. She was her husband's first wife; he married secondly Elizabeth Bailey (of whom see "after" on M. I. at Corston, and note thereon). Both Harington and his wife, Lyde, were barely of age when they married. He was baptized at Corston 1673, and after his marriage went to reside at Knighton Sutton, his wife's father's home. For the Lydes are an old family of Somerset, having considerable property at Chelwood, Stanton Wick, and Sutton in the parish of Chew Magna about this date (1693). A direct descendant of William Lyde of Sutton (who was born 1576, and died 1620), viz. Lionel Lyde, was created Baronet Oct. 13th, 1772, but died s.p. 2nd July, 1791. He was owner of the manor of Ayott St. Lawrence, Herts, and is now represented there by Lionel Ames, Esq.

The Lyde residence at Sutton is now a farm-house, and has become the property of Sir Edward Strachey, of Sutton Court, Bart.

Elizabeth Harington née Lyde's will cites articles of agreement on marriage, dated Sept. 25th (these are virtually her will), "made between John Harington the elder, of Kelston, Esq., and Benjamin Harrington my husband, eldest son (i.e. surviving son) of said John Harington, on one part; and Joseph Langton, of Newton St. Loe, Esq.; my father, William Lyde the elder, of Knighton Sutton; my brother, William Lyde the younger, son of William Lyde the elder, of London, Gent.; Samuel Prig (or Trig), of Stanton Drew, Clerk; Robert Kening, of Kelston, Clerk; and me, the said Elizabeth Harington, by the name of Elizabeth Lyde, daughter of said Residue to my brother Wm. Lyde, executor; to my sister-in-law, Rebecca Harington, my best dresses, etc."—Proved by Will. Lyde, June 2nd, 1794.

* This should have been eldest surviving son; Benjamin was the first son of his father's third marriage with Alice Snow. The eldest son by his first wife Mary Specot, viz. John, died vitâ patris, and is buried at Kelston. (M.I. has been given before). After his marriage with Miss Bailey, Benjamin purchased Corston Manor of his father, and residing there, transferred the eldest male line to Corston, whilst the eldest son of the father's fourth marriage, and his heirs, succeeded to the original family seat at Kelston. This is curious, and worthy of note in the history of the family.

The old manor house, the residence of the Haringtons at Corston, is now used as a farm-house. It has a spacious entrance hall, with garden court in front. In the rear is an old gateway leading to the church, and it is reported traditionally that on a stone removed from that gateway was once the date 1627. The house is in substantial repair, but denuded of any Harington traces, such as arms or stained glass, or ornamental work of any sort. The rooms are large, have stone floors down stairs, and are half wainscoated. It is said (I know not with what truth) that a sketch of this manor house was given in the 'Illustrated London News' some years ago. It seems to be later than the time of Elizabeth; is, perhaps, of the time of Charles I. It was used as a boarding school at the close of the last century, to which the Poet Southey was sent at the age of six years; and he alludes to it at some length in his 'Recollections.' Of the features impressed on his memory a few still remain; for instance, the balls on the pillars of the entrance gates, and some of the trees of the avenue. It was purchased from the Haringtons by Joseph Langton, Esq., of Newton Park, whose daughter and sole heir (Bridget) married Colonel William Gore, of Barron Gurney, who subsequently took the additional name of Langton, and in his representatives it still remains.

† By the Register of Corston he was buried 28th November, a slight discrepancy probably caused by a confusion of his day of death and burial. Say—died 28th November, buried 1st December, 1711.—F. J. P.

[1] Elizabeth's mother was Sarah Jones, of the family of Jones, of Stowey House, benefactors to several parishes in that neighbourhood, and notably to Newton-St.-Loe, Stowey, and Chew Magna. The same family became subsequently Jones-Burdetts, and under that name are well known. Mr. Wm. Jones Burdett, younger brother of Sir Francis Burdett, M.P., died 1840.

* He was fourth son of six by his father's fourth marriage; the two younger than he being Robert and Edward. He graduated from Corpus College, Oxford.

† This lady's maiden name was Bush. She was the daughter of Samuel Bush of North Stoke and Bitton, by Elizabeth his wife, daughter of Francis and Elizabeth Goodman of Upton Cheney, parish of Bitton. This information was given me by the Rev. H. T. Ellacombe of Clyst St. George, and many years Vicar of Bitton. I would add that the family of Bush is widely scattered in the district. They are to be traced at Doynton, Tracy Park, Upton Cheney, North Stoke, and Kelston, besides being very numerous in Bitton; and members of the family are settled both in Bath and Bristol.—F. J. P.

Parkinson, R.N.—William Hammond, of St. Alban's Court, co. Kent, married 1692, Elizabeth, daughter of John Kingsford, of Oxney, co. Kent. His sister Anne Hammond married Dr. Wotton, whose daughter Anne married William Clarke, of Haghmon Abbey, co. Salop, Chancellor of Chichester Cathedral, 1770: their son, Edward Clarke, afterwards Rector of Buxted, married 1763, Anne Grenfield, of Guildford, co. Surrey, by whom he had four children,—J. S. Clarke, D.D., Chaplain to King William y^{e} 4th; E. D. Clarke, the traveller, afterwards Rector of Yeldham, co. Essex, died 1822; George Clarke, Capt. R.N., drowned in the Thames in 1805; and one daughter, Anne, who married Captain Parkinson, R.N., one of Admiral Lord Nelson's officers. Can any of your readers inform me to what family this Captain Parkinson belonged? C. J. B.

* This lady died in Exeter, at the house of her brother, the Rev. the Chancellor of Exeter Cathedral, but is buried at Kelston.

† This monument was surmounted by Arms—Harington and Stocker.

We believe this Benjamin Harington was a younger son of Francis Harington (son of John Harington, Esq., of Stepney and Kelston), and was therefore a nephew of Sir John Harington, Knt., and not a direct descendant, although the arms, as described by Collinson, have no mark of difference for a second son. Sir John had no son named Benjamin, and any lower descendant from his line would be out of date with the M.I.

HYETT.

William Henry Hyett of Painswick House, Stroud, co. Gloucester, formerly M.P. for Stroud. Born 2 September, 1795. He married 25 October, 1821, Anne Jane, daughter of Joseph Seymour Biscoe, Esq.

Mr. Hyett, on succeeding to the estates of Benjamin Hyett of Painswick, assumed in 1813 the surname of Hyett, in lieu of that of Adams. He died 10 March, 1877, and was buried at Painswick.

He was succeeded by his only surviving son, Francis Adams Hyett, born 18 November, 1844, who married 12 July, 1870, Ellen Maria, daughter of Charles Carpenter, Esq. of Brighton, and has issue three daughters.

Armytage Pedigree.—Who was the Mr. John Armytage who was brought up at Brussels by Lady Mornington, and was taught with Wellington by M. Goubert there?

Penzance. G. B. Millett.

Ficklin Family.—Wanted information relative to the Ficklin family. They lived during the last century at or near Hadleigh in Suffolk, and intermarried with the family of Farewell, whose pedigree I am also anxious to trace. The arms of Ficklin are described to me as Azure on a saltire argent 5 bezants, but I should be glad of some confirmation. Beta.

Collier Family (Vol. II., p. 187).—I am endeavouring to work up a pedigree of Sir George Collier, Knight, born 11 May, 1732 (? 1730), Knighted 27 January, 1775, and was then described as of Froyle, co. Hants.; Vice-Admiral of the Blue; M.P. for Honiton, 1784. Sir George Collier married, and had issue. He died 6 April, 1795, and was buried at St. Marylebone Parish Church 16 April, 1795. Lysons speaks of the tablet to his memory in St. Marylebone Church, from which it appears he was aged 65. He had a brother, Theodosius Benjamin Collier, who married, and died 1803 at Bath, leaving issue. Sir George Collier had an uncle, Benjamin Collier, of Red Lion Square, London, who married Lætitia, youngest daughter of Mark Weyland. Benjamin Collier had property in Suffolk, which he left to his great nephew, George Collier, son of Sir George Collier. Benjamin Collier died 12 March, 1791, and was buried 21 March, 1791, at Groton, Suffolk. I cannot discover the names of the brothers and sisters of Benjamin Collier, or the names of his parents, neither do I know which of Benjamin Collier's brothers was Sir George Collier's father.

GRANT OF CREST AND CONFIRMATION OF ARMS TO NICHOLAS MOSLEY, ALDERMAN OF LONDON, 1592.*

To all and singler as well Nobles, as others, to whome these Presents shall come, Robert Cooke Esquire, alias Clarencieulx Principal Herauld and King of Armes of the South, East, and West Partes of this Realme of England from the Ryver of Trent Southwardes sendeth Greetinge in our Lord God everlasting. Whereas aunciently from the begininge the valiant and vertuous Actes of excellent Persons have been commended to the World with sundry Monumentes and remembrances of their good desertes, emongest the which the chefyest and most usuall hath been the bearinge of Signes in Shildes called Armes, which are evident demonstracions of prowes and valour diversly distributed according to the quallities and deseartes of the persons meritinge y^e^ same; which order as it was prudently devised in the beginninge to stirre and kindell the heartes of men to the imytacion of vertue and nobleness, even so hath the same bene and yett is continually observed, to the Intent that such as have done commendable Service to their Prince or Country in Warre or Peace might thereby receave due honor in their lyves, and also leave the same in Succession to their Posteritie for ever. And being required by Nicholas Mosley of the City of London Esquire and Alderman of the same, the Sonne of Edward Mosley of Hough'send in ye county of Lancaster Gentillman, which Edward was son of James Mosley gentilman, which James was sonne of Jenkyn Mosley of the same place and County gentilman, to make Searche in the Registers and Recordes of myne Office for the auncient Armes of that name and Family whereof he is descended, Whereupon I have made Search accordingly, and doe find that he may lawfully bear, as his Ancestors heretofore have borne, these Armes hereafter followinge, that is to saye, the first for Mosley, Sables, a Cheveron between three Battle axes silver, the Second for† . . . . . ., Gold, a Fess between three Eglets displayed Sables, and so quarterley. And for that I find no Creast or Cognoysance to the same Armes belonginge, as to many ancient Armes there is none, therefore, at the Request of y^e^ said Nicholas Mosley, I y^e^ said Clarencieulx Kinge of Armes have added and assigned unto his auncient Armes this Creast or Cognoysance hereafter specifyed, that is to saye, Upon the Healme, on a Wreathe Silver and Sables, an Eagle display'd Ermynes, Mantiled Gules, doubled Silver, as more plainly appeareth depicted in the Margent hereof; which Creast or Cognoysance I the said Clarencieulx King of Armes, by virtue of myne Office, and by power and auctoritie to me commytted by Letters Patentes under the Great Seale of England, doe give, graunte, ratyfie, and conferme unto the said Nicholas Mosley Esquire, and to his posteritie for ever, so that he and they the same with all Furnitures and Ornaments thereunto belonginge shall and may use, beare and shewforthe in all places and at all times hereafter, according to the auncient Lawes of Armes, without lett, impediment, or interruption of any person or persons whatsoever. In Witnesse whereof I the said Clarencieulx King of Armes have hereunto subscribed my name, and likewise putt the Seale of myne Office, the xvij^th^ daye of Februarye, in the yere of our Lord God 1592, and in the xxxv^th^ yere of the Reigne of our most gracious Soueraigne Lady Queene Elizabeth.

Mary Long was buryed Nov. ye 24th 1742.

Marriage.—James Class and Mary Long* both of this Parish were married March 26, 1778.

As to the age and state of the Register, it goes back to 1572 with the entries of Baptisms, Marriages, and Burials entered in different parts. There are no Weddings entered between 1642 and 1653, nor between 1656 and 1662. Under the Weddings 1653, is the following appointment of John Long to be Marriage Registrar.

"I doe approve of John Long for Register of the Parish of Stanton Prior, chosen by the Inhabitants thereof for this Parish, and he was accordingly sworn the 10th day of Jan: 1653 by me

"Rob: Long.

"ffebruary ye
"ffirst 1653."

In 1670 there is entry of a "Briefe for captived seamen by the Turks." Coll. Thomas Long gave 5s, and Long Esq. 1s, and Matthew Long 3d.

In 1672, 1673, 1680, Matthew Long was Churchwarden.

In 1680, to a Collection made "for the redemption of Captives out of Turkey," Thomas Long Esq. gave £1, Robert Long Esq. 5s, Matthew Long 6d, and John Long 2d.

In 1689, "A Brief was got at for the Swiss Protestants," to which Robert Long gave £4 and Matthew Long 1s.

(The whole Parochial Collection was £5 12s 10d.)

In 1695, Robert Long Esq. gave "ye sum of four pounds towards ye Briefe for ye fire of Warwick."

* This Mary Long signed the entry with a "X" in lieu of signature. From which incident, coupled with observation of the Pedigree of Long, published in the June number of 'Miscellanea Genealogica et Heraldica,' i.e. comparing the names which occur in it with the additional ones that are given here, it may fairly be inferred that these extra names were Longs at Stanton-Prior, coeval indeed with those of the Pedigree, but in a humbler sphere of life; and that the name has been handed down in the parish to much later date by the latter and poorer Longs.

WILL OF ROBERT LONG, 1669.

In the name of God Amen. I Robert Long* of Staunton Prior in the County of Somersett Esquire being of a sound and good memory for which I render to Almighty God the praise and honour yett minding my age and mortality doe this eight and twentyeth day of January in the yeare of our Lord God one thousand six hundred ninety and six make and declare this my last Will and Testament in manner following hereby revokeing all former Wills by me made ffirst and principally I bequeath my soule to God my Creator with hopes of eternall life by his infinite free grace and mercy thro the meritts and mediation of my alsufficient and alone Saviour Jesus Christ And my body I comitt to the earth to be buryed in such manner and place as my Executrix herein after named shall thinke fitt Alsoe I give unto the Poore of Staunton aforesaid Ten pounds And Ten pounds to the poore of Priston to be disposed of at the discretion of my executrix And whereas I have by deed dated the eleaventh day of November last past granted and assigned unto my son in law Thomas Bere† of Huntsham in the County of Devon, Joseph Langton‡ of Newton Park in the said County of Somersett and Colthrop Parker§ of London Esq[rs] and to William Webb of the City of Bath Gentleman All that my yearly rent or sum of ffoure score pounds granted by S[r] Robert Vyner‖ Baronett unto my brother Thomas Long¶ Esq[r] since deceased and to his Heires and Assignes for ever and issueing and payable out of the hereditary Revennes of Excise to and for the severall uses in the said Deed menc'oned and expressed I doe hereby confirme the

* Robert Long, third son of Henry Long of Whaddon, Wilts, and of Priston, Somerset, by Rebecca Bailey, daughter of Christopher Bailey.

Robert's wife is set down in Burke and other printed works as Alice Coward, daughter of Thomas Coward of Wilton. (?) Any information upon this family of Coward, if published in 'Miscellanea Genealogica et Heraldica,' would oblige and interest several of its supporters, as also would an answer to the question, if this Robert Long be not the same with the M.P. for Somerset, 1654, 1656?

† Thomas Bere, the second husband of Mary, Robert's daughter; she married firstly Geo. Stedman of Midsummer Norton, Esq., co. Somerset.

‡ The line of this Joseph Langton ran out in daughters and coheirs; we believe they were two only surviving at the time of his death, March 17th, 1719. He was then in the 82nd year of his age, and was buried at Newton St. Lo in the Church. His sons (of whom Henry is mentioned further on in this Will), and all his daughters, except Ann, and (perhaps) one other, died in the lifetime of their father. Ann married, firstly, Sir Geo. Cobb of Adderbury, Oxon; secondly, her cousin, Joseph Langton, Esq., of Brislington, son of Sir Thomas Langton, Knight. From this marriage came Joseph Langton of Brislington and Newton St. Lo, who dying 10th February, 1779, ætat. 72, left a daughter and sole heir, Bridget, by his second wife. Bridget married Col. William Gore of Barrow-Gurney, Somerset, who added to Gore the name of Langton, was M.P. for East Somerset for many years, and dying in London 14th March, was buried at Newton on the 26th March, 1847. From him the present family of Gore-Langton of Newton Park descends. The name Bridget was brought into the family of Gore by the marriage of Bridget Harington, fifth daughter of Sir James Harington, Bart., of Ridlington, with Sir John Gore of Gilston, Herts; it was brought to the family of Gore-Langton by Bridget Langton, as shewn above, whose mother (second wife to Joseph Langton) was Bridget Glanville, daughter of Evylyn Glanville, Esq., of Sinclair, co. Kent.

§ Colthrope Parker, afterwards Parker Long (see 'Miscellanea Genealogica et Heraldica,' Vol. III., No. 5, pp. 60, 61.) He married Dionysia, the widow of Testator's only son, Henry Long, 1682.

‖ Sir Robert Vyner of London, Bart., 10[th] May, 1666, died s.p. 1688. The Testator's grandfather had a cousin, Mary Long, married to Henry Viner of Castle Combe, so probably the London Viners came from Wilts.

Strengfellow Notes (Vol. II., p. 545).—Frances Strengfellow of Parish of Camberwell, co. Surrey, Widow, signed her will 17 May, 1738. She names grandnephew Henry Vognell; grandnieces Christiana Frances Vognell and Elizabeth Vognell. Testatrix had property at or near Croydon, co. Surrey, and at or near Warfield, co. Berks. Gift to poor of village of Openshaw, in the parish of Manchester, where her late husband, the Rev. William Strengfellow, was born, and a gift to poor of the parish of Warfield, co. Berks, where testatrix was born. Testatrix names Mary, widow of John Strengfellow, and their son and daughter, James Strengfellow and Frances Strengfellow; late husband's cousins, Elizabeth and Sarah, daughters of William Strengfellow, deceased, brother of Joshua Strengfellow, testatrix's late husband's heir-at-law; late husband's cousin, Hannah Shuttleworth; John Strengfellow of Coleman Street, Barber, his wife, his sister Hannah Strengfellow, his children William and Frances Strengfellow; .... wife of Capt. Warden and her sister, Elizabeth Sumner; testatrix's God-daughter, Catherine Warden; Samuel and Mary Patteson; daughter of .... Pitt of Kensington; Thomas Boardman, pewterer; Susannah Strengfellow, sister of Captain Strengfellow; cousin William Hercy, his wife, and his sister Mrs. Parminton (? Parminter); cousin Frances Langley; cousin Mary Miller, wife of .... Miller, weaver; cousin Thomas Boddington, weaver, and his sister .... Sedgley; cousins Richard and Sarah West; son and daughter of late cousin Ann Mitchell; ... Hamlett; Agar Legg, his brother .... Agar, and his sister .... Legg; Frederick Vognell; Henry, Ann, Sophia, and Amelia, son and daughters of Anthony Furstenan; God-daughter Christian Toderhurst, and her sister Mary Toderhurst; and Miss Ann Hercy. Appoints as executors Henry Vognell of London, merchant, and John Welles of Abchurchyard, London, Gent.

Codicil dated 15 Aug., 1739, names Thomas Quincy of Walbrook, London.

Further codicil dated 20 January, 1742. Administration with will annexed, granted 13 Nov., 1747, to Christiana Frances Pakenham, heretofore Vognell, wife of George Edward Pakenham or Packenham, John Welles, the surviving executor, first renouncing.

Tablet in church of St. Dunstan in the East, London, to memory of Rev. William Strengfellow, successively Curate, Lecturer, and Rector of St. Dunstan in the East, appointed Rector 1698; died 19 June, 1731, aged 73 (intestate). Also to memory of his widow Frances, daughter of William Boddington, of this City, merchant, who died 25 August, 1747, aged 69.

William Boddington the father of Frances, wife of Rev. William Strengfellow, at page 545 of Vol. II., should be given as the son of William Boddington, whose wife's name is undiscovered, and grandson of William Boddington of Brinklow. The Rev. William Strengfellow died s. p., and therefore the marriage of his supposed daughter Frances with Frederick Vognell, as given at Vol. II., p. 545, is entirely incorrect. Is anything known of this family of Strengfellow?

Reginald Stewart Boddington.

THE DENNYS,

Earls of Norwich, Barons Denny of Waltham, and Baronets of Ireland.

Donogh O'Brian, the godfather of Arthur Denny born in Tralee Castle 21st of September, 1629, was grandson of the first Earl of Thomond. He married Honora, daughter of Richard Wingfield, ancestor of Lord Powerscourt, and from this marriage descends the present Lord Inchiquin. The Wingfields of Kimbolton, as we have seen, were nearly related to the Dennys. Donogh O'Brian and Sir Valentine Browne (who was sponsor to Margaret Denny, born in 1627) were both Roman Catholics. Their intimacy and connection with the Wingfields and Dennys are a few out of many proofs to be found in the bye-ways of history, family records, and genealogies, which "distinguished" writers over-mindful sometimes of the "dignity of history," as the phrase goes, are too apt to ignore, shewing that the Irish and Anglo-Irish of different creeds lived on excellent terms with one another in the early part of the seventeenth century, before the "thorough" policy of Strafford and continental influences revived racial and religious strifes. The next entries in the old diary or register kept by Sir Edward Denny are as follows:—

"Ye 25th March, 1630, I began chapters* after dinner and suppers.

"Monday, ye 15th of November, 1630, Edward(a) Denny was borne between six and seven at night; his godfathers were William Steere, Lorde Bishop of Kerrye, and Sir Charles Harrys, Knt., his godmother Mrs Joane Crosbye.

"Ye 20th of Aprill, 1632, being fryday betweene six and seven of the clock in the morning, Anthony Denny(b) was borne, his godfathers were Mr Robert Blennerhassett and Ensign John Wyse, his godmother Mrs Anne Baden.

"Anne Denny(c) was borne uponn Sunday night att one of ye clocke ye 28th of Aprill, 1633, her godmother Mrs 'Hassett for the Lady Baltinglas, and Mrs Steere ye Bishop of Kerry's wife, her godfather Sr Walter Crosbie.

"Thomas Denny(d) my sonne was borne upon Wensday morning, betweene nine and tenn o'clock, ye 16th of July, 1634, att Roper's Rest House neare Dublin, his godfathers the Lord Viscount Baltinglas and Sir Charles Coote, ye Ladye tresham his godmother.

"Ye 23d of July, 1633, ye Lord Viscount Wentworth came to Ireland to governe ye Kingdom as Deputie. Many men feare.

"Elizabeth Denny(e) was borne uponn thursday early in the morning, about six o'clocke, ye 25th of Februarie 1635, her godmother my mother and my cosen Martha 'Hassett, her godfather Mr Edmond Harrys.

"Lucius Denny(f) was born uponn Wensday at break of day being ye 21st of June 1637, his godfathers were ye Deane Gray and Mr Thomas Denny his godmother Mrs Vauclier.

"William Denny(g) was borne on teusday morning ye 11th of September 1638 his godfathers William St Leger and Anthony Stoughton Esquires; the Deane's wyfe Mrs Gray his godmother.

"Ruth Denny(h) was borne on Monday ye 13th of September (between six and seven o'clock in the morning) 1641 her godmother my sister in law Mary Roper and Mrs Barbara (illegible) and Philip Percivall."

This record of his youngest child's birth in September, 1641, was the last entry made in the old MS. volume by Sir Edward Denny, the great-grandson of Sir Anthony. The three words "many men feare," following the note of Wentworth's arrival, have a sad significance read by the light of subsequent events in this, as in many another family history. In 1634 Sir Edward Denny was High Sheriff of Kerry, and from that year until 1641 he and Sir Valentine Browne, before mentioned, represented the county in parliament. In 1639 Wentworth, in order to raise money for the King, compelled Sir Edward, and several other Kerry landowners, to take out new letters patent, confirming them in the possession of their estates, and to pay heavy fines. A clause in Denny's letters (and a similar one, I believe, appears in the rest) bound him to bring in on his estate within a twelve month, under pain of forfeiture, eight free tenants of the "British race and blood," in addition to those already planted there. The carrying out of this clause would, of course, involve the eviction of great numbers of the Irish of the native blood, who had been for several years living peacefully as tenants on the estate. It revived, in fact, the old odious distinctions (which were gradually dying out, and which a statute of James the First had ostensibly abolished) between the Anglo-Irish, that is, the Irish descended from English colonists of Ireland, and the Irish descended from the Celtic inhabitants before 1172, or the "mere Irish," as they were contemptuously styled in legal and common parlance, until the beginning of the seventeenth century. Sir Edward paid the fine for his new letters patent, but it is very doubtful that he ever carried out the clause respecting the new tenants. The twelve months allotted to him in which to do so were hardly over before the island was filled with rumours of coming trouble, and in six weeks after he had made the above entry of his daughter's birth it was once more in open rebellion.

Sir Edward Denny and Sir Valentine Browne, the Protestant and the Catholic members for the county of Kerry, were both of the King's party in Ireland, but that party was divided against itself. Sir Valentine was a loyal Catholic, while Sir Edward Denny belonged to that section of the Cavaliers who are described by Macaulay as fighting "not for an intolerant Church and a tyrannical King, but for the old English banner which waved over their ranks, and for the altars at which they had received the hands of their brides." He sent his wife and young children to England, and leaving his Castle of Tralee to be defended by his stepfather, Sir Thomas Harris, and a chosen band of two hundred Irish and English tenants, he joined Sir William St. Leger, Lord President of Munster, who was maintaining the royal cause in Waterford county. A letter in one of the pamphlets of the year 1642 in the King's Library, British Museum, mentions Sir Edward Denny as a Captain commanding four hundred soldiers in a skirmish near Dublin. The letter is said to have been written by the Earl of Antrim to his connexion the Earl of Rutland. We have no further account of Sir Edward Denny's movements, nor any record of the time of his death. Meantime his Castle of Tralee was closely besieged by the Irish Catholic forces. A number of Protestants from the town of Tralee and the country around it, amongst them two clergymen of the Reformed Church, the Reverend Nathaniel Harrison and the Reverend William Fell, and a surgeon named Elkanah Knight, crowded for shelter into the old fortress, which was badly provisioned. The food and water ran short, while the besiegers received fresh reinforcements, and laid the country under contribution. Dr. Elkanah Knight, with his hands full, assisting in the defence and attending the daily increasing number of sick, found time to keep a journal of events within and outside the walls of the castle from day to day; and this very curious and interesting record, which threw much light on one or two points in the history of the rebellion of 1641, about which there has been much disputing, was amongst the Denny family papers until the last dozen years, when it appears to have been borrowed by some one who "forgot" to return it. If recovered, it would be well worth the attention of the Historical Manuscript Commission, but I fear the chances are small of its being returned to its lawful owner. The siege lasted nearly two years, and might have lasted longer, but that the brave commander of the little garrison, Sir Thomas Harris, died, worn out with fatigue and ceaseless anxiety, and poisoned by the corrupt water. When the besieged found themselves quite destitute of ammunition and food, they surrendered upon quarter, and on delivering up their arms were allowed to pass to the north side of the county, where they were protected, for a time at least, by Colonel David Crosbie in a little island fortress near the mouth of the Shannon. The Castle of Tralee was partly destroyed, and the church and town ruined and plundered. Two memorials of the church, however, were spared by the insurgents, the old grey marble font, presented to it in 1623 by the Provost of Tralee, John Curlestone, which remains to this day as perfect as when it was first placed within the sacred building, and the old black-letter Bible already alluded to (v. ante, p. 76). The steel plaques remain with holes pierced in them, through which a chain was passed to fasten the volume to the reading desk in the aisle. It is probable that this is the only one of the English Bibles printed before 1641, and used in the country churches of Munster, which escaped destruction in that calamitous year. Both font and Bible were destined, however, to pass unscathed through another great civil war, as we shall hereafter see.

M. A. H.

(a) Edward Denny, whose birth is here recorded as the second son of Sir Edward Denny by Ruth, daughter of Lord Baltinglas, married Lady Katherine Barry, daughter of David, first Earl of Barrymore, by Lady Alice Boyle, dau. of Richard first Earl of Cork (v. Lodge's Peerage, revised by Rev. Mervyn Archdall, vol. i., p. 298, ed. 1789). Edward Denny left issue by Lady Katherine two sons, Barry and John, who died unmarried a captain in the army. Barry Denny, eldest son, M.P. for Tralee in 1697, married Catherine, dau. of Sir Boyle Maynard, Knt., of Curryglass county Cork, and had issue Edward, M.P. for Doneraile in 1695, died s. p., and Anne, married the Rev. Maurice O'Connor, and had issue Barry, Catherine, and Jane, who married, as we shall hereafter see, her cousin, the Reverend Barry Denny. William Steere, the godfather of Edward Denny, was Bishop of Kerry, or rather of Ardfert and Aghadoe, from 1628 to 1637. The following is from the Book of Funeral Entries in the Record Tower of Dublin Castle:—"The Right Reverend Father in God William Steere, late Lord Bishop of Ardfert and Aghadoe in y^e^ County Kerrye, was second sonne of William Steere, Parson of Barmesby (sic) by London in Kent, in y^e^ Kingdom of Englande. He tooke to wyfe Elinor, daughter of Randall Maynwaring, second sonne of Sir Randall Maynwaring of Peever in Cheshire, in y^e^ said Kingdom of England, Knt., and relict of William Gunn of Lymerick, parson, by whom the said Lorde Bishop had no issue. The s^d^ Lorde Bishop departed this mortall lyfe at Ardfert, y^e^ 21st of January, 1637, and was interred in y^e^ Cathedrall Church of Ardfert aforesaid. The truth of these premises is testified by the subscription of the said Ellinor, relict and executrix of y^e^ said Bishop, who hath returned this Certificate into my office to be there recorded. Thomas Preston, Ulcester King of Arms, 23^d^ May 1638." Sir Charles Harris, the second sponsor of Edward Denny, was the grandson of Sir Thomas Harris of Corworthen, Devon, who had married Elizabeth, widow of Arthur Denny and daughter of Miles Forest, Esq. (v. ante, p. 76). Joan Crosbie, the child's godmother, was the younger daughter of Colonel David Crosbie of Ardfert, second son of John Crosbie, Bishop of Ardfert from 1600 to 1621, ancestor of the Earls of Glandore (extinct), of Sir John Crosbie, Bart., of William Talbot Crosbie, D.L. of Ardfert Abbey, and in the female line of Lord Dacre. Joan Crosbie married Gerard Ryeves, son of James Ryeves by Alice daughter of Captain Thomas Spring (ancestor of Lord Monteagle), and had a son Thomas Ryeves (who went to France with the Irish regiments after the surrender of Limerick in 1691, and died in exile), and three daughters. Alice married William Carrig of Coolmines in Clare, and had a son, whose daughter married . . . Finucane of Ailrue in Clare; Catherine married Francis Brudenell of Limerick, and died without issue; and Elizabeth married Walter Langdon, son of Walter Langdon by Catherine Hickson. This last mentioned Walter was son of Nathaniel Langdon, Dean of Ardfert before 1641." (MS. Genealogies by Captain John Blennerhassett, written between 1688 and 1736.)

(b) Anthony Denny died unmarried. His godfather, Robert Blennerhassett, was the first settler of his name at Ballyseedy in Kerry, and the ancestor of Arthur Blennerhassett, now of Ballyseedy, High Sheriff of that county; of Rowland Ponsonby Blennerhassett, at present M.P. for the same; and of the Blennerhassetts of Riddelstown in Limerick county. Robert Blennerhassett was M.P. for the then newly-created borough of Tralee in 1613. Mrs. Anne Baden, the godmother of Anthony Denny, was the wife of the Dean of Ardfert. (MS. 1688, Diocesan Records, 1633. State Papers.)

(c) Anne Denny died unmarried. Her godmother, Mrs. 'Hassett, was the wife of Robert the Blennerhassett mentioned in the preceding note, and the daughter of Jenkin Conway, of Castle Conway, or Killorglin, County Kerry. Sir Walter Crosbie was the eldest son of Bishop Crosbie, and the ancestor of the Crosbie, Barts., of the Queen's County.

(d) Thomas Denny died unmarried. His godfather, Sir Charles Coote, was the first baronet of his name, ancestor of the Earls of Mountrath (extinct). Lady Tresham was, I believe, a niece or sister of the Lord Baltinglas.

(e) Elizabeth Denny married John Blennerhassett of Ballyseedy (marriage settlements dated 1654), grandson of Robert Blennerhassett, mentioned in note (b), and son of John Blennerhassett by Martha Lyn. John Blennerhassett left issue by his wife, Elizabeth Denny, two sons and a daughter, viz.:—

1. Arthur, married Anne, daughter of Sir Boyle Maynard, and died s. p.

2. John, married Margaret Crosbie, and was by her ancestor of Arthur Blennerhassett, Esq., present owner of Ballyseedy and High Sheriff of Kerry (son of Charles Blennerhassett, Esq., by Mary Anne, daughter of John Hickson, Esq., D. L. of the Grove, county Kerry), of Lord Headley, and of Jemmett Browne, Esq., of Riverston, county Cork, and Cornwall Gardens, London. This last-mentioned gentleman is the representative in the female line of the elder branch of the Blennerhassetts of Ballyseedy, descended from John Blennerhassett, eldest son of John by Margaret Crosbie above mentioned, who married his cousin, Jane Denny, as hereafter mentioned.

3. Ruth, only daughter of John Blennerhassett and Elizabeth Denny, married first (before 1677) Thomas Browne of Gurteendrohid, county Cork; and secondly, her cousin, Thomas Blennerhassett, son of Arthur Blennerhassett by Mary Fitzgerald of Ballynard, county Limerick, and had two daughters; Sarah, married Richard Hall, son of Rev. John Hall, Prebendary of St. Finbarr's, and Mary, married George Rowan, and had with other issue two sons, 1. John Rowan, married Sarah, daughter of James Leslie of Tarbert House, county Kerry, and sister of James Leslie, Bishop of Limerick and Ardfert from 1756 to 1770, and had a son George, married Jane Usher, of Mount Usher, county Wicklow (v. Mrs. Delany's 'Letters and Memoirs'), and a daughter Mary, married Rev. Edward Day, Rector of Tralee in 1758, and had a son, Rev. James Day, Rector of Tralee in 1809, and Vicar-General of Ardfert, who by Margaret, daughter of the MacGillicuddy of the Reeks, hath with other issue three sons, Reverend Edward Day, Rector of Kilgobbin, married and had a numerous issue: James Leslie Day, Major in the Bengal Army, died s. p.; John Sealy Day, Captain in the 87th Regt., served throughout the Peninsular and Burmese Wars, and died s. p.; and Sarah, married John James Hickson, and had surviving issue; James married his cousin, Deborah Godfrey Day, and had issue; John died unmarried; and Mary Agnes Hickson. 2. George Rowan, second son of George Rowan and Mary Blennerhassett before mentioned, married Margaret, daughter of Richard Chute of Chute Hall, and had with other issue a son George, who married . . . Gorham, and had with other issue a son William, who married his cousin Letitia, daughter of Sir Barry Denny, Bart., as hereafter mentioned, and had a son Rev. Arthur Blennerhassett Rowan, D.D., Archdeacon of Ardfert, who by his wife Alicia, daughter of Peter Thompson, Esq., had a son William, now of Belmont, county Kerry, married twice, and has issue, and two daughters, Anne and Ora. Martha Hassett, the godmother of Elizabeth Denny, was the wife of John Blennerhassett, eldest son of Robert, the first settler at Ballyseedy; Martha Hassett was the niece of the mother of Mary Forrest, the mother of Sir Edward Denny. (MS. Pedigrees of the Seventeenth Century, Marriage Settlements, and Diocesan Records.)

(f) Lucius Denny died unmarried. His godmother, Mrs. Vauclier, was the wife of a Captain Edward Vauclier, an officer of Huguenot descent, serving in the English army in Ireland, who had settled in Kerry. His deposition, detailing his sufferings and losses in 1641-2 at the hands of "Walter Hussey of Castle Gregory, O'Sullivan More of Dunkerron, Florence MacCarthy, Esquires, Daniel MacMoriarty, Garret Fitz James Gerald, Christopher Hickson of Knockglass, gentlemen," and other "Papists and rebels" (as he styles them), is in Trinity College Library, Dublin.

(g) William Denny. According to Archdall, in his revised edition of 'Lodge's Peerage,' vol. i., p. 300, note, William Denny married in 1664 Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Clarke, Esq., and died in 1665, and his widow remarried in 1671 the Rev. Richard Synge of Cork. Sir William St. Leger, godfather of William Denny, was the son of Sir Warham St. Leger, the brother officer of Raleigh, Gilbert, and Sir Edward Denny (the elder) in the Elizabethan wars, and the grandfather of the first Viscount Doneraile. Anthony Stoughton was the ancestor of the family of his name, now of Owlpen, Gloucestershire, and Ballyhorgan, county Kerry.

(h) Ruth Denny died unmarried. Her godfather, Philip Percival, was the ancestor of the Earl of Egmont. (v. Archdall's 'Lodge,' vol. ii., p. 238.)

EXTRACTS FROM THE PARISH REGISTER OF ILKLEY, IN THE COUNTY OF YORKSHIRE, AND DEANERY OF CRAVEN.*

The register commences in 1597. The following extracts relate chiefly to the family of Langfellow, sometimes written Langfelley, and once or twice Longfellow, one of whom emigrated to America towards the close of the seventeenth century, and became the ancestor of the poet, Mr. Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

The late Vicar of Ilkley, the Rev. John Snowdon, by whose permission I made these extracts, and my grateful sense of whose kindness I wish here to record, had in his possession a letter from Mr. Somerby, a friend of the poet, written in April, 1858.

I gather from it that William Longfellow, the American settler, emigrated to Newbury, Massachusetts; that he there married Anne Sewell, 10th of November, 1676; that he became an officer in the Essex regiment; and that he was drowned at Cape Breton in 1690, being upon an expedition against the French and Indians.

* Communicated by HUGH F. BOYD, Esq.

His children were William, Stephen, Anne, Elizabeth, and Matthew. I venture to hope that some American genealogist will send you the descent from them down to the present time.

I hoped that I had found the baptismal entry of the settler in William, son of Francis Longfellow, who was baptized the 10th of November, 1650; but on turning to the burials, I find William, son of Francis Longfellow, was buried the first of September, 1654. The register from 1650 to 1656 is miserably defective, and there is an absolute cessation of entries from 1656 to 1674.

I give also a few extracts relating to a branch of the Hebers of Marton, settled at Hollinghall in the parish of Ilkley—vide Whitaker's 'Craven,' p. 71. It will be seen from a glance at the pedigree that either the wife of Reginald Heber did not die in 1615, or that he married a second time subsequently to that date.

The original Plate is now in the possession of Edward King, Esq., of Lymington.

GEORGE AND ROGER HARINGTON, ALDERMEN OF BRISTOL. WERE THEY MEMBERS OF THE KELSTON FAMILY?

Having already given the monumental inscriptions of all undoubted Haringtons of Kelston which may be found in Bristol and the neighbourhood, it becomes necessary now to speak of a monument to Harington extant in the city of Bristol which has not been included in the Kelston category, and to discuss the grounds on which it has been rejected from the good company of the others. The monument referred to is set up in St. Peter's Church, Bristol, at the east end of the north aisle, where the organ is now fitted in (1878). It is a mural one, of somewhat costly character, on which are represented an alderman and his lady, both kneeling at a desk in prayer beneath an arched canopy, with this inscription:—

> "To the Memory of the Worshipfull Mr. George Harrington Sometime Mayor and Alderman of this Citie, who departed this life the Second of Janvarie 1639."

This gentleman was Mayor of Bristol in 1617; and it is recorded of him, during his mayoralty, that he went through the city trying the weights and measures, and removed all that were faulty. Moreover, he tried all the colliers' sacks, cutting to pieces those that did not hold their measure. Again, that when butter had been dear, he bought it out of the ships that were outward bound, and had it sold in the market at a reasonable price to the poor. We learn from his Will that his wife (the lady who kneels with him as above described), was named Thomazine, and was left his executrix; and from a legacy being left in it to his brother's children, and no mention made of any of his own children, we safely conclude he died without issue.

But to pass on to the real point under discussion. Was he a Harington of Kelston by extraction or not? Has any wrong been done to his memory in rejecting him from being a member of that house; and that more especially when we may see from the notes of the family, collected by Dr. Henry Harington of Bath some eighty years ago, that the Doctor was disposed to admit the Mayor to his family connection? We say, then, that George Harrington, Mayor of Bristol, was not a Harington of Kelston. Firstly, because his monument is surmounted by arms, or something akin to arms, which are not the arms of Harington of Kelston; indeed, they no nearer resemble them than a barrel is like a true-lover's knot; and few persons, I presume, would contend for the closeness of that resemblance. George Harrington was a wealthy brewer by trade (and so was his brother Roger Harrington, in the parish of Temple, Bristol). The Arms on his monument look like a chevron between three tuns. This is scarcely Harington of Kelston, 1568!

Again, if a Harington of Kelston, he must by his date (a mayor of Bristol in 1617) be descended from John of Stepney. And à fortiori his brother Roger, who died in 1600 (a married man), must have been, at latest, of the same generation as Sir John Harington, Knt. (i.e., the son of John of Stepney), who died in 1612. But who has ever heard of such brothers of Sir John Harington as Roger and George? And what is more, this George Harrington leaves his "brother John"* by his will (1638) £20, when Sir John of Kelston had long been dead. This altogether militates against his family connection with Sir John. But some may inquire, How did Dr. Henry Harington treat the possibility of some family connection existing with him? Well! he supposed that George Harrington, the Mayor of Bristol, might have been the son of Francis Harington, younger brother of Sir John. But the Doctor does not appear to have had any knowledge of the perplexing "Roger" of this case, the other brother, who, dying a married merchant in 1600, could never have been the son of Francis younger brother of Sir John, who died in 1612. Now that Roger and George were brothers is clear from their Baldwin relationship,† and other points disclosed in their wills. On these grounds then we have excluded the Bristol Haringtons from the Kelston stock, but shall heartily appreciate the gift of any new data on the point, whichever way it may lead. As a general confirmation of our argument and case, the wills of Roger and George Harrington are subjoined in brief.

* The Registers of Witton, though very imperfectly kept, contain a great number of entries of the name of Bentley between 1600 and 1700. The family of Bentley of Cound [whose pedigree appears in the 'Miscellanea Genealogica' for August, 1878] is supposed to be descended from the Bentleys of Staffordshire in the seventeenth century.

STAFFORD.—In the church of St. Bride's, Fleet Street, London, there is a mural monument commemorating Mr. Carey Stafford, many years Master of the Glass Manufactory in White Friars. He died Aug. 14, 1778, aged 54. The shield of arms above the inscription may be thus described: Quarterly—1 and 4. Argent on a bend sable three roses of the field. 2 and 3. Or on a chevron gules three bezants. I should be glad to know whether there are any representatives of this family.

Gybbon Query.—I should be much obliged if any correspondent would give me information concerning the pedigree of Gibbon or Gybbon. They seem to have held lands in Rolvenden, co. Kent, as early as 1340. The Hole estate in Rolvenden temp. Henry VIII. became the property of this family, in which it continued until about the end of the last century, when it passed into the Monypenny family. (Hasted, vol. iii., pp. 86, 87, 88). There was also a branch of this family at Pumphouse in Benenden (an adjoining parish), the representatives of which are now living at Cheriton, Lucas County, United States, who trace their descent to Edmond Gibbon of Benenden, co. Kent, England. I wish to find how the Gybbons of Pumphouse were connected with those of the Hole.—There were two other branches of this family, one of Frid in Bethersden (which, according to the same authority, was a younger branch of those of the Hole), and the other of Westcliffe (which was also a younger branch of those of the Hole; Berry's 'Kentish Genealogies,' 410). Berry gives at length the pedigrees of both of these branches, but altogether leaves out the family from which they are admitted originally to have sprung.

Charles Neve.

Benenden, Staplehurst.

Beanlands of Morton, co. York.—Since the beginning of the sixteenth century there has been settled a family of the above name in and around the village of Morton in Skyrack, co. York. In the York Registers is the will of John Benlande of Morton 154—, Allan Beanlandes of Morton 1564, his wife Isabelle Beanlande 1570, his son Christopher 1589, etc. Prior to John, no mention whatever of the name in any Yorkshire papers have I been able to find. From Christopher the registers of the parish church of Bingley contain a complete descent, with several branches settled in the same parish, of the Beanlands of Morton down to the beginning of the present century. Now the only trace of any family of this somewhat singular name that I have been able to find is in connection with Herefordshire, Gloucestershire, and the Welsh Marches. In 'Plac. de quo Warr.,' p. 250, Rot. 8—"et Johannes Benlonde et alii undecim jur' in recordo nominati," etc. This is with reference to the rights of Abbot de Hayes to some land at Wynchcombe, co. Gloucester (temp. Ed. I.). Again, from 'Rot. Originales,' temp. Edw. III.—"Johannes de Banlande de Botelsford capellanus." And in 'Calendarium Inq. post mort.,' pp. 145–8, among the list of tenants of "Johannes de Mowbray dux Norfolc' dominus de Mowbray," I find, under "Hereford et March, Wall"—"Perschenet et Herkerdeston i. feod. milit' per Matheum Beenland."

Is there any trace of the name existing now in these counties? Can any of your subscribers give me further, or rather earlier, notice of the Yorkshire family? I believe two of the name are in the list of Craven men who fought at Flodden. What were their names? It is quite within the bounds of possibility that during the Wars of the Roses some individual of that name may have been stranded in Yorkshire after one of the great battles (e.g. Towton) and settled in that county.

That all of the name now existing in Yorkshire have originally come from the Morton stock is, I think, from the registers, pretty evident. The members of this family were of that class of yeomen and small landowners so common in the West Riding of Yorkshire. Any information will be very acceptable to "Ultimus Suorum."

Ebenezer Collier admitted as one of the Sworn Clerks in Chancery 2 March, 1710, and surrendered his appointment 8 January, 1723.

James Collier of March gave Communion plate to that Church, Sept. 1752.

A portrait is given in 'Naval Chronicle,' vol. xxxii., page 265, etc. (1814), of Sir George Collier, Knight, Vice-Admiral of the Blue.

According to one account, Sir George Collier married his first wife 3 September, 1763, at St. James's, Westminster.

Christian Meyer, Merchant, married 2 April, 1767, Miss Herman. See Gent.'s Mag.

In Dutch Church, Austinfriars, lie buried besides those of the family of Meyer before given, Christian Meyer, who died 7 June, 1799, aged 74; also Hannah, his widow, who died 30 November, 1799, aged 74.

In the 'Topographer and Genealogist,' edited by John Gough Nichols, F.S.A., etc., vol. iii., Mr. Thompson Cooper, of Cambridge, gives a long account of the family of Collier of Darlaston, co. Stafford, who entered their pedigree in the Visitation of co. Stafford, 1663.

The family of Collier of Steeple Langford, co. Wilts, is referred to in Hoare's 'History of Wiltshire,' and one of this family is named at page 269 of the 'Westminster Abbey Registers,' edited by Col. J. L. Chester, etc.

Sir Edward Collier, Admiral, J.P. and D.L. co. Worcester, K.C.B. 1865, of Blockley, born 1783, died 5 August, 1872.

Sir George Ralph Collier, Capt. R.N., K.C.B., was created a Baronet 23 July, 1814, but died s.p. 21 March, 1824. See Burke's 'Extinct Baronetage.'

Families of Collier have long been resident at Witney, co. Oxford; at Blockley, co. Worcester; Plymouth, and Grimston Hall, near Plymouth.

I seek for information as to any families of Collier, and particularly as to that whose short and imperfect pedigree is given here.

A CRITICAL EXAMINATION OF THE GENEALOGY OF MASTERTON OF THAT ILK, PARKMILL, ETC.

Published in Douglas's 'Baronage of Scotland,' and Crawfurd's 'Memorials of Alloa.'

This pedigree is a good instance of the way in which fact and fiction are interwoven, and notices of several different families thrown into one so as to compose a long pedigree.

Crawford begins by the statement that the Mastertons of Parkmill "were probably the most ancient landed proprietors in Clackmannanshire, the traditional account of their origin being that one of the chief architects at the building of the Abbey of Dunfermline obtained from Malcolm Canmore the lands of Masterton, in Fifeshire, from which he and his posterity assumed their surname."

The church of the Holy Trinity and St. Margaret, at Dunfermline is believed to have been founded soon after the marriage of Malcolm and Margaret; the Abbey probably dates from the reign of their son David.

Malcolm IV. (1153-65), granted the lands of Ledmacdunegil, afterwards called Masterton, as formerly held by Magister Ailricus cementarius, to the Abbey church of Dunfermline. Ailric's designation has perhaps formed the ground of the fable of the architect, and it is evident that the lands not being then called Masterton could not have given a name to their owner.

The first we find is

I. Hugo de Villa Magistri, who about 1250 witnesses a charter of Petrus de Rupe; there is nothing to suggest a descent from the cementarius.

II. William de Maystertun, son and heir of Hugh, in 1272 enters into an agreement with Symon Abbot of Dunfermline as to the multures of his lands of Maystertun, he being a vassal of the Abbey; in 1278 and later, he is a witness to several charters, and in 1296 as "William de Meistreton del Comté de Feyf," he swears fealty to Edward I.

III. Duncan de Maysterton in 1316 witnessed the homage of Duncan, Earl of Fife, to the Abbot of Dunfermline, for lands held of the Abbey.

IV. Symon de Maysterton, in the reign of David II. (1329-71), witnesses the resignation of the lands of Wythker to the Abbey by Alan de Lybirton.

V. John de Maisterton was dead 23 March, 1419, when his son and heir

VI. William de Maisterton has sasine of the Villa de Maisterton, as formerly held of the Abbots of Dunfermline by his ancestors. In 1540 James II. granted to the Abbot and Convent of Dunfermline a Charter of Confirmation of all their possessions, including Mastirtone, the gift of King Malcolm. 1455, William Maistertoun was a Canon of Cambuskenneth; in 1471, Thomas Mastertoun was a member of that chapter, and at an earlier period John Mastertoun was a monk there.

VII. William Maistertoun was on an assize at Dunfermline, 1491.

Of these seven successive owners of Masterton, the only one mentioned in the published pedigree is (II.) William, and his homage to King Edward; there is, however, a statement which seems to be quite groundless, that William Masterton of that Ilk in 1442 "made a donation to the Abbey of Dunfermline out of his lands of Masterton pro salute anime sue;" this is not to be found in the chartulary. He is stated in the Baronage to have been father of Alexander Masterton of that Ilk, whose son and heir John Masterton had a crown charter in 1528 of the Mains of Bothkennar in Stirlingshire, to him and Grizel Mure his spouse.

The charter is merely to John "filio et filio et haeredi Alexandri Masterton" not of that Ilk. Crawford calls his wife "Dame Grisel Mure of Glenderston," but she could not be a daughter of that family, the first of which was at this time a youth.

There is not only nothing to connect these Mastertons of Bothkennar with the family of that Ilk, but their succession can be traced, and it differs from the alleged pedigree making them ancestors of the Parkmill branch. Thus,

Alexander Masterton.

John, and Grizel Mure his wife, 1528.

Robert.

John, portioner of Bothkennar, 1579. Married Marjory Forrester.

George, writer in Edinburgh in 1662, was heir to his father's lands at Bothkennar, and also succeeded to his mother in property in the same parish.

George, was served heir of his father in 1697, and died in Sep. 1709.	Adam Masterton, of Bothkennar, heir of his brother, and the last of that family.

The Mastertons of Masterton probably sold or lost their ancient patrimony at or shortly before the Reformation. A great part of the Fifeshire lands of the Abbey of Dunfermline are included in a charter to Mr. John Pitcairn of that Ilk, among them Maistertoun. In the rental of the Abbey lands, 1561, it is set down at £26 6s. 4d., and why the Mastertons should figure among the Barons of Scotland at all it is not easy to see.

They held the lands from which they took their surname as vassals of the Abbots of Dunfermline, and Parkmill, the property for about two centuries of the family claiming to represent the older race, was not held of the Crown at all, but under the Earls of Mar.

The lands of Masterton soon passed out of the hands of the Pitcairns, and were feued out in small portions, Robert Lundy getting one fourth, and persons of the name of Mudie, Durie, Kent, Stenhouse, Kellok, and Cunnand, each one eighth.

The descendants of some of these retained their shares for several generations, but the greater part of the lands about the middle of the seventeenth century belonged to Sir Henry Wardlaw of Pitreavie, baronet, who in 1675 founded an almshouse in the village of Masterton for the support of four widows, each of whom has a room, £2 a year, and half a boll of meal monthly.

Masterton now belongs to Miss Caroline Augusta Madox-Blackwood of Pitreavie, and is a farm of 338 acres rented at £600.

But while the main line thus disappears, we find persons of the name acquiring parts of the possessions of the Abbey of Dunfermline.

Robert Maisterton and his wife have a charter of two salt pans, probably about 1570, and in 1588 he has a lease of his part of the teinds of the lands of Balsusny and Smetoun.

John Walwod and Grizel Maisterton his wife have a feu charter before 1583 of half of the lands and mill of Touch; their descendant is the present Allan Maconochie-Welwood of Pitliver and Meadowbank.

In 1594 James Masterton was one of the surviving monks of Couper Abbey.

Molesworth.—William Molesworth, Esq., 3rd son of Robert Viscount Molesworth by Letitia his wife, sister to Richard Earl of Bellamont, by his will dated in 1769, after referring to other children, adds the names of two daughters, i.e., Elizabeth, wife of Richard Holmes, Esq., of Dublin, and Julia, the wife of Captain Herbert. Information as to the descendants (if any) of these marriages will be esteemed a favour.

Cuthbert Mitford married Mary, daughter and heir of Christopher Wharton of Ufferton in y^e^ County of Durham, and had issue Robert Mitford. They both dyed in one day at Mitford, leaveing only y^e^ said Robert.

Aug^{t} 1686, about four a clock in the morning at Burne, his great uncle Lyonell Vaine, Esq., and his grandfather John Asheton, Esq., godfathers, and Philadelphia Mitford his great grandmother, godmother.

John Mitford,* second son, was born at Burne July 9th 1687, about two a clock in the morning, S^{r} Henry Herbert, Baronet, and . . . . . godfathers, and his Aunt Crow, godmother.

Edward, the third son, was born at Burne Dec^{r} 4th 1689, about seven a clock in y^{e} morning, his great uncle Edw^{d} ffleetwood, Esq., and his great uncle George Vaine, Esq., godfathers, and . . . . . godmother.

Humphrey, the fourth son, was born at Burne the seventh day of ffeb^{y} 1690, about two a clock in y^{e} morning, his great uncle W^{m} Mitford and his uncle George Mitford, godfathers, and . . . . . godmother.

Elizabeth, only daughter of the said Robert, was born at York June 7th 1696, about five a clock in the afternoon, S^{r} Humfrey Herbert, Bart., godfather, her grandmother Asheton and her great aunt Betty Vaine, godmothers.

William, youngest son, was born at Burne ffeb^{y} 10th 169$\frac{8}{9}$, about two a clock in the afternoon, W^{m} Rawstorne of Preston in Lancashire, Esq., and W^{m} Reeveley of Newby Wisk, godfathers, and his Aunt Stradling, godmother. (In another copy, his Aunt Redman, godmother.)

(In another handwriting.)

Robert Mitford, the eldest son, married Mary, one of the daughters of S^{r} Richard Osbaldeston, late of Osbaldeston in Lancashire, but now of Hunmanby near Scarborough, in Yorkshire, and has issue four sons and three daughters (to wit) Robert, Philadelphia, John, ffrances, Humphrey, Richard and Mary.

John, second son, apprentice to S^{r} George Merttins in Cornhill, London, Banker, and married a daughter of S^{r} George's, and has one son and one daughter, Robert and Philadelphia.

Edward,† third son, dyed at ffort S^{t} George in India in his first voyage to the East Indies.

Humphrey, fourth son, dyed very young.

Elizabeth married one Pomfret of Lond^{n}, wine marc^{ht}.

William, the youngest, married a Lady in Petworth in y^{e} County of Sussex, where he resides.

Lascelles Family.—In the Pontefract Registers there is an entry of the marriage in 1715 of the Rev. Francis Lascells to Hannah, fourth daughter of the Rev. Samuel Drake, Vicar of Pontefract. By this marriage there were several children, Thomas, Francis, Hannah (subsequently married to the Rev. John Sturdy), and two other children. The Rev. Francis was buried at Pontefract 19 April, 1753, and the Hon. (?) Col. Thomas Lascelles was buried 4 Nov. 1751. I am wishful to ascertain to what branch of the Lascelles family these persons belonged. On referring to the Lascelles Pedigrees, to which I have access, I find first in Jones' 'Harewood,' Daniel Lascelles of Stank was born in 1655. By his first wife he had George (born 1681), Henry (born 1690), Francis, said to have died young (born 1674, i.e., when his father was 19!), Thomas, also said to have died young (born 1688). In Foster's 'Yorkshire Pedigrees,' Francis is said to be born in 1664, or when his father was 9 years old. A similar mistake occurs in Whitaker's 'Leeds.' I suppose that these two entries really mean that Francis was born in 1684. Can it be that these are the two gentlemen whose deaths we have recorded in the Pontefract registers? G. W. T.

* In a later handwriting a note is added to the MS. of 1666, viz., "dyed in London, 1743."

† Note in MS. of 1666: "Edward Mitford was bound apprentice y^{e} six of Augst 1703, to an East India Merch^{t} and dyed y^{e} first Voyage at China."

* On the flat stone which covers her grave, Robert Andrews is simply styled "Revd." Query whether he did or did not ever take his Doctor's degree. We think not.

† The Otway Maynes were of Bellevue, Kent.

‡ The Hon. Matilda Villiers was buried at Kelston, July 29, 1820. This is from the Register, as she has no monumental inscription to her memory at Kelston.

A CRITICAL EXAMINATION OF THE GENEALOGY OF MASTERTON OF THAT ILK, PARKMILL, ETC.

Alexander Masterton and Catherine his wife obtained a feu charter of their lands of Beath, called Masterton-Beath, and of four-sevenths of the lands of Grange; Alexander seems to have been son of Robert of Beath, and father of Andrew of Beath, living in 1593. Adam Maistertoune, probably of this family, is a witness 1568.

Before 1669 Masterton-Beath had been acquired by Wardlaw of Wester Luscar, but Easter Grange was retained by Adam Masterton, probably son of the above-named Andrew. In 1662 John Masterton was served heir of his father Adam in the lands of Easter Grange, and about 1673 Adam Masterton of Grange (? son of John) registered arms, Argent, a chevron between two crescents in chief, and a mullet in base gules, on a chief azure an eagle displayed or; crest, a dexter hand holding a scymetar proper; motto, Pro Deo et rege. In 1690 he appears as tutor of John Philp, nephew and heir of Mr. John Philp, minister of Queensferry, who had died in 1688 a prisoner in the Bass, having been deprived of his benefice and fined in 1681.

We now come to the modern family of Masterton of Parkmill, which has been set up as representative of Masterton. 1646 is the first appearance of them in the Acts of Parliament.

I. Alexander and Janet Couston his wife had in 1547 a charter of the lands of Millerwood and Cumlybank, afterwards called Parkmill, in the county of Clackmannan, from John Lord Erskine; they are also stated to have been infeft in the lands of Bad in Perthshire, in 1544.

II. Ronald Masterton of Parkmill had a charter from John, Earl of Mar, 1570; married Marjory Bruce, of the Clackmannan family, daughter of Robert of Lintmill. Gilbert Masterton, who figures 1595–96 as a dependant of the Earl of Mar, was probably of this family. Mr. John Colville writes to Robert Bowes that he is to be there one of these days with Highland men from Mar; and later David Foulis advises Lord Burleigh that Gilbert is not presently in England.

III. Robert Masterton of Parkmill 1599, a member of the Committee of War, 1646, married Agnes, daughter of John Douglas of Rennieston in Fife.

IV. John Masterton of Parkmill was Sheriff Depute of Clackmannanshire, and a member of the Committee of War 1648; Robert, bailie of Clackmannan, is at the time on the Committee, and may have been his brother. John, who had a charter of Parkmill in 1632, married Mary, daughter of Mr. William Lindsay.

V. Francis Masterton of Parkmill, a graduate of Edinburgh University 1663, also Sheriff Depute of the county, appears as a Commissioner of Supply 1667-1704; married Christian, daughter of John Keirie of Gogar, in the parish of Blairlogie, and county of Perth, of a family originally belonging to Alloa, who had a grant of Arms 20th June, 1673: Argent, a fess counter-embattled between two cinquefoils in chief, and a cross crosslet fitchée in base gules. Crest, a hand holding a rose slipped proper; motto, Virtute Viget.

John Keirie, then designed "Servant to the Earl of Mar," married Isobel, daughter of Mr. John Craigingelt, minister of Alloa. Francis Masterton also registered arms about the same time; Argent, a chevron gules and a chief azure; crest, A stag courant, bearing on his attyre an oakslip fructed proper; motto, Per ardua.

The history of the variations of the arms of the family is nearly as singular as the construction of their pedigree.

The seal of William appended to his Deed of Homage, 1296, bears a lion rampant; the next authority is an illuminated MS. of the middle of the sixteenth century, which gives, Argent, a chevron gules, on a chief of the second a crescent or.

The seal of Robert Masterton of Bad, appended to a resignation of the lands of Keir in favour of Edward Brown, 1588, has an eagle displayed, impaling a chevron with a crescent in chief, or on a chief. This Robert of Bad does not fit into Sir Robert Douglas' pedigree at all, as it is stated that Alexander of Bad, 1544, had one son Ronald, and one daughter.

A later MS. has, Mastertoune of that Ilk, Per fess azure and argent, in chief a crescent, or, and in base, a chevron gules, impaling or, an eagle displayed sable.

Sir James Balfour has, gules, a unicorn trippant argent armed and unguled, or; while Porteus 1661 gives, argent, a chevron, and on a chief gules three crescents of the first.

Francis and Christian had issue,

1. Charles.
2. John, Merchant in Edinburgh, father of Colonel James Masterton, M.P. for the Stirling Burghs. It is added in Burke's Landed Gentry, that James acted as Aide-de camp to H.R.H. the Duke of Cumberland at Culloden, and had a sister Katherine, who married James Laurie of Burngrange, and had issue.

VI. Charles Masterton of Parkmill graduated at the University of Edinburgh 1697, married his cousin Mary, daughter of John Keirie of Gogar and Catherine his wife, daughter of Mr. Robert Wright, minister of Clackmannan, by Mary Craigingelt, whose sister was wife of John Keirie of Gogar,

They had issue a daughter Katherine, who married James Christie, writer in Sterling, and one surviving son.

VII. Francis Masterton of Parkmill and Gogar who married Margaret, daughter of James Graeme, of Braco co. Perth, and Katherine his wife, daughter of Sir William Stirling of Ardoch, Bart., and had issue.

Charles.
James.
Katherine.
Mary.

Thus far Douglas, who makes Francis the tenth in succession from William, living in 1422 inclusive. Crawford adds that the last of the family, John, died at Leyden at an advanced age and childless, about the end of last century, and that Parkmill became the property of the Mar family. Francis in 1720 was, along with his uncle Francis Keirie, served heir of provision general of his grandfather John Keirie, younger of Gogar; in 1747 he was served heir general of his father, Charles of Parkmill; in 1764 he was served heir of provision general of his cousin Edward Wright, of Kersie, co. Stirling, M.D., son of James Wright of Kersie and Janet, daughter of Mr. Robert Wright, minister of Clackmannan; finally, in 1766, being then styled of Gogar, he was heir of provision general of his cousin Mary, daughter of Mr. Robert Wright, minister of Culross, who was brother of Mrs. Wright, of Kersie, and of Mrs. Keirie of Gogar.

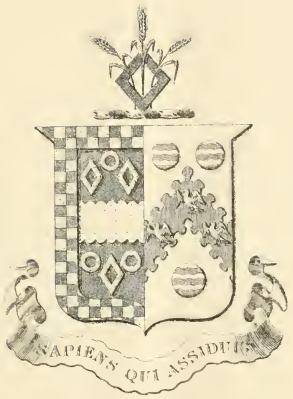
Francis had apparently succeeded to Gogar after the death of his uncles Charles Keirie of Gogar and Francis Keirie.

Francis Masterton, of Parkmill and Gogar, registered over again in his own name, 21 July, 1777, the arms recorded a hundred years before by his ancestor, and died 1795, in his 79th year; his widow died in 1806.

In 1791 James Masterton, Merchant in Madeira, was served heir of his brother Charles of Aucklandskyes, in Perthshire, Captain 31st regiment of foot, who died in June, 1789; these might be the two sons of Francis.

John Masterton of Braco, Perth, who has been stated to be a son of Francis and Margaret Graeme, married Anne Amelia Murdoch, who died 1806.

James Masterton of Braco Castle (their son?) had an only daughter Margaret Seymour, who married in 1823 Captain Elliot, eldest son of the Right Hon. Hugh Elliot, Governor of Madras.



James William Mitchell.

Other persons of the name were Dewar Masterton, Advocate, who married in 1789 Helen, only child of Sir John Gibson, of Pentland, Bart., and died without issue in 1797, aged 31.

John Masterton, glazier to the King, had an Act in his favour in 1681 declaring that he should be free from all taxes, stent, etc; the name appears a hundred years before this in Edinburgh, borne by merchant burgesses of good position.

There are also lands in the county of Edinburgh named Masterton, and it is possible that they may have given name to a family in that quarter, who, however, never were owners of the estate. Robert I. granted a charter of half Masterton, near Newbottle, to the Abbot and Convent of Newbottle, on the resignation of Nigel de Carrick and Marion his spouse, and of Gilbert de Aytoun and Ada de Rossine his spouse; a subsequent charter conveyed the patronage of the church of Masterton to the Abbey. David II. granted half of Masterton to Walter Dispensa; Masterton was included in the great estate which was acquired by Mark Ker, last Abbot of Newbottle, as a hereditary barony, and was held by his descendants the Earls of Lothian till the middle of the seventeenth century, when it belonged to Thomas Meggat and descended to his heirs.

Cromwell Desbrow.—A boy bearing these very distinctive names was at Merchant Taylors' School in 1684. He might perhaps be the same as Cromwell Desborow (son of Benjamin, the 7th son of Colonel Desborow and Jane Cromwell), who died 4 March, 1717–18, in his 44th year, and was buried in the Abbey Church, Bath. More probably he may be identified with Cromwell Disbrowe of Bombay, administration to whose effects was granted in 1730 to Platt Disbrowe, his brother, and further administration in 1757 to Mary Desmadryl (wife of John Charles D.) sister of deceased, on behalf of Cornelia Disbrowe, widow, mother of deceased. I should be glad to learn more of Cromwell Desborow, and also of Thomas Desborow (born Aug. 1644), who entered M. T. School in 1652.

That said Sir Richard Gresham K^t^ died on 21 Feb. 3 Ed. VI., that Sir John Gresham K^t^ is his son and heir and was of the age of thirty-four years at the time of the taking of this Inquisition.

Bentley of Staffordshire.—The following facts may assist any inquirer into the early history of this family:—Shaw ('Hist. of Staffordshire,' ii., 93) says, "The first we meet with is Gervase de Bentley, who had issue Roger de Bentley, who by a deed without date grants to Roger his son and his heirs all Bentley, etc." No authority is given for the statement that Gervase was father of Roger. He might have been predecessor of some other family, and some genealogists, after the manner of compiling pedigrees formerly, have set him down as father. The pedigree of Bentley is unbroken and authoritatively made out from the first Roger. Wm. de Bentley, who died 4 Edw. I., leaving William, a son and heir, æt. 21, mentions "Roger avus suus temp. John" (Testa de Nevill). To all this must be added the important fact that Robert de Broc, Marshal of the King, gave to Roger Helias alias de Bentley, temp. Ric. I., his lands in Nether Shugborough, co. Warwick (Shaw, ii., 93). In the Heraldic Dictionaries three bends are given as the coat of Helias. One of the coats of Bentley was Azure, a mermaid Or (Dugdale's 'Warwickshire,' p. 351), and existed in Kineton Church, co. Warwick. Now in connection with this coat these facts are remarkable:—Byron, who early bore three bends, had for crest a mermaid. The mermaid was the ancient coat of Prestwick of Prestwick, co. Lancashire. In 1301 we find Adam de P., John de P., Sir John Byron and others witnesses to a charter granted by Thomas de Grelley (which family also bore three bends). Furthermore, 1322, Richard Fitz Elias was manucaptor of Robert Byron, Knight for Rutlandshire. And 20 Edw. I. Sir John Elyas, with Sir John Byron and other knights, were named in a commission of inquiry (Hundred Rolls).

Sir Roger Alis, temp. John, descended from Sir Wm. Alis, who in Domesday is mentioned as the tenant in capite of Ellatune olim Auditon hodie Allington, co. Hants, in South Stoneham parish, it is probable is the same person as "Roger Helias alias de Bentley;" for Alis was often spelt Elias and fitz-Elias, and his benefactor or grantor De Broc was connected with the Hampshire families of Croc, Bendinges, etc. Now the mermaid was the coat of the Hampshire family of Wallop. Mathew de W. was witness to a charter of Wm. Alis temp. Hen. II. (Record Office Augmentation Deeds, C 33). Roger Alis, 1217, had seisin of lands in Welhope. Again, the mermaid is on a seal of Wm. Brewer, temp. John, and is figured in Mr. Moule's 'Heraldry of Fish.' This was a Hampshire family.

This interesting badge, device, or crest of the mermaid was also borne as a coat of arms by the Shropshire family of Giros at an early period, and is quartered by Corbet (Harl. MSS. 1396, and Add. MSS. 21,017). Two mermaids appear as supporters on the seal of Thomas de Berkley, who died 1361, and on the seal of James de B., who died 1463. The mermaid, as crest or as a charge, was also borne by a dozen other families, and more than once in both senses by families of the name of Elys and Ellys. And the unique crest of a naked female was very early borne by the ancient family of Elys, of Kiddall Hall, near Leeds, supposed to be derived from Alis of Hampshire, and early written fitz-Elias, Eliz, etc.

CHURCH NOTES AT GRASMERE, WESTMORELAND.

Taken September 3rd, 1878, by CHARLES JACKSON.

(Concluded from p. 146.)

TO THE MEMORY OF WILLIAM WORDSWORTH,
A TRUE PHILOSOPHER AND POET, WHO, BY THE SPECIAL GIFT AND CALLING OF ALMIGHTY GOD,
WHETHER HE DISCOURSED ON MAN OR NATURE, FAILED NOT TO LIFT UP THE HEART TO HOLY THINGS.
TIRED NOT OF MAINTAINING THE CAUSE OF THE POOR AND SIMPLE;
AND SO, IN PERILOUS TIMES WAS RAISED UP TO BE A CHIEF MINISTER, NOT ONLY OF NOBLEST POESY,
BUT OF HIGH AND SACRED TRUTH.

THIS MEMORIAL IS PLACED HERE BY HIS FRIENDS AND NEIGHBOURS, IN TESTIMONY OF RESPECT, AFFECTION, AND GRATITUDE.
ANNO MDCCCLI.

Below the above is a medallion likeness of the poet.

Michael Knott Esq. of Rydall, died August 28th 1772, aged 76 years. Susannah, wife of Michael Knott, died December 16th 1767, aged 56 years. Edward, son of Michael Knott, died November 2d 1766, aged 25 years.

In the Burial Ground of this church are deposited the remains of JEMIMA ANNE DEBORAH, second daughter of
Sir Egerton Brydges of Denton Court, Kent, Bart,
She departed this life at the Ivy Cottage, Rydal,
May 25th 1822, aged 28 years.

This memorial is erected by her husband Edward Quillinan.

These vales were saddened with no common gloom
When good Jemima perished in her bloom;
When, such the awful will of Heaven, she died
By flames breathed on her from her own fireside.*
On earth we dimly see, and but in part
We know, yet Faith sustains the sorrowing heart;
And she, the pure, the patient, and the meek,
Might have fit epitaph could feelings speak;
If words could tell, and monuments record,
How treasures lost are inwardly deplored,
No name by grief's fond eloquence adorned
More than Jemima's would be praised and mourned:
The tender virtues of her blameless life,
Bright in the Daughter, brighter in the Wife,
And in the cheerful Mother brightest shone,—
That light hath passed away—the will of God be done.

* She died from the accident of her dress catching fire.

In memory of Octavia Kearsley, daughter of John Kearsley Esquire of Manchester, who departed this life at Ambleside September 8th 1827, aged 41 years. Her mortal remains are deposited in the burial ground of this parish. Through life she was much beloved and respected by her numerous relatives and friends. Her affectionate mother, in remembrance of her filial piety, hath caused this tablet to be erected.

To the memory of Mrs Lœtitia Pritchard, late of Croft Lodge in the township of Loughrigg, in this parish, who died on the 18th day of January A.D. 1827, in the 71st year of her age. Her life was devoted to the offices of Charity, the claims of Friendship, and the duties of Religion.

(Medallion likeness.)

Sacred to the memory of Elizabeth, wife of the late Archibald Fletcher Esqre, Advocate of Edinburgh. She was born on the 15th of January 1770, and died at Lancrigg, in this parish, on the 5th of February 1858.

"Her children arise up and call her blessed."

Proverbs, C. xxxi., v. 28.

Within the Communion railing are four hatchments of the Fleming family:—

1. Gules, a fret argent. Crest.—A snake nowed holding in its mouth a garland. Motto.—Pax copia sapientiæ.
2. Same, with, on an escutcheon of pretence, HOWARD, with sundry quarterings.
3. Same in a lozenge.
4. Same, with, on an escutcheon of pretence, FLEMING quartering HOWARD, etc.

The poor box bears the the date of 1648. Two old oak chairs within the rails: on one, I.L. 1677; and the other M.B. 1703.

The first page of the oldest register is illegible, but it appears to commence in or about 1570.

Benefactors.—Edward Partridge of Grasmere, and others. 1680. Rev. John Ambrose, rector. 1680. Anthony Dawson of Grasmere. 1796. William Waters of Thornyhow. 1807. William and Eleanor Waters of the same. 1812. Mrs Dorothy Knott of Ambleside. 1817. Vincent G. Dowling esq. 1852. John Watson of Winterseeds in Grasmere, yeoman.

There are no inscriptions on the floor of the church, which up to 1840 consisted merely of the bare earth, and this it was the custom to strew with rushes immediately after the hay-harvest in each year. From this practice arose the village festival of the "Rush-Bearing," which takes place annually on the last Saturday but one in July.

The Church, which is of great antiquity, is dedicated to St Oswald, and the present rector is the Rev. Henry M. Fletcher.

In the Churchyard are memorials for:—

Louisa Ann, wife of James Wrigley esq. and only dau. of John Clark Langmead esq. and Louisa Ann his wife, of Plymouth. May, 1812.

Octavius Kearsley, Sept. 8, 1827, aged 4.

Rev. Thomas Jackson, rector of this parish, 13 Dec. 1821, aged 65.

THE DENNYS,

Earls of Norwich, Barons Denny of Waltham, and Baronets of Ireland.

The County of Kerry, after the taking of Sir Edward Denny's Castle in 1642, continued entirely in the hands of the Irish Catholics until 1650, when it was reduced for the parliament by Ludlow, Sir Hardress Waller, and Colonels Le Hunte and Sadlier. Sir Edward Denny seems to have died before the latter year, and his son and heir, Arthur, born in 1629 (v. ante pp. 76 and 113), submitted outwardly at least to the Cromwellian Government. He was just twenty-two years of age when he married the Lady Ellen Barry, daughter of David, first Earl of Barrymore, by the Lady Alice Boyle, daughter of the first Earl of Cork, and began another page of the old diary (which his father had left off keeping in the memorable autumn of 1641), with the following entries:—

"Ye Ende of one Generation and ye Beginning of another."

"I was marry'd upon ye 9th of September, 1651, to the Lady Ellen Barry daughter to ye Earle of Barrymore.

(Signed) "Arthur Denny."

"Edward Denny, my heire, was born att Castle Lyons uponn ye 10th of Februarie 1652, between eleaven and twelve o'Clock in ye Morning, his godmother ye Lady Broghil,(a) his godfather ye Earle of Cork(b) and Mr Percy Smith.(c)

"I began to keep howse in this greate Castell of Tralye, November (illegible) 1653.

"Arthur Denny(d) was born att Castle Lyons ye 2d of Jannary att 2 of the Clock on Wensdaye morning, 1660, his grandmother was Martha Countess of Barrymore, his godfathers ffrancis Lord Viscount Shannon and John Jephson of Moyalloe Esq.

"William Denny(e) was born att Tralye January 16th, 1663, his godfather was William Lord Baron of Kerry and John Blennerhassett Esq. ye son of Robert Blennerhassett and Mrs Honora Stoughton, my sister Elizabeth 'Hassett his godmother.

"Ellen Denny(f) was born att Tralye, Aprill 3d 1665, her godfathers were my brother Lucius Denny and my cosen Francis Lynn, her godmothers Mrs Isabella Vauklier and Mrs Joane Comyns."

This is the last entry made by Arthur Denny. He was High Sheriff of Kerry in 1656, and was returned M.P. for the county in the year after the Restoration. On the death of his first wife, Lady Ellen Denny, he married in or about 1670, Frances, daughter of Sir Richard Kerle or Kyrle, by whom he had no issue. He died in March, 1672, and was buried with his first wife in the family vault in Tralee Church. His eldest son Edward made no entries in the old MS. diary, so that I cannot fix the dates of his marriage and of the births of his numerous children. In the fly-leaf of the old Bible mentioned at page 115, there is the following entry made, apparently, by the Rev. William Stanford, the then Rector or Curate of Tralee.

"1686. The 7th of January died in Traly, that worthy and ingenuous Gentleman, Arthur Blennerhassett, Esq. of Ballyseedy, one of his Majestye's Justices of the Peace, and was buryed in Ballycarthy, being the Parish Church where his family are interred, to the great Griefe of all that knew him being a Gentleman of exquisite parts."

This Arthur Blennerhassett was the eldest son of John Blennerhassett, who had married in 1654, Elizabeth Denny (v. ante, p. 115, note e), and therefore the first cousin of Edward Denny, eldest son of Arthur and Lady Ellen. Edward Denny in his father's lifetime, or soon after his death, married Mary daughter of Sir Boyle Maynard, Knt. of Curryglass, in the county Cork. One of the sisters of Mary Maynard had married the above mentioned Arthur Blennerhassett, who died s. p. probably at the castle of his cousin and brother-in-law, while another sister married Barry Denny, son of Edward of Castle Lyons, mentioned at p. 115, note a. Within little more than two years after the rector of Tralee had made the above record of Arthur Blennerhassett's untimely death, and while Edward Denny's children were still young, another great civil war broke out all over Ireland, and at once, as in 1642, the Roman Catholic party became dominant in Kerry. A great number of Protestants, as Macaulay and Froude have told us, fled from the country to England, dreading a repetition of the miseries of 1641–2; but a few, Edward Denny amongst the rest, remained, seemingly reluctant to desert the cause of James the Second, although they had good reason to fear that its success would prove their ruin. The name of Edward Denny is not mentioned in the black list of thirty-two Kerry estate owners who were marked down for attainder by the Irish Convention of 1689, unless they submitted by the 10th of August or 1st of October in that year to the Stuart king, but that of Barry Denny appears in it. Edward Rice and John Hussey were the M.P.s for Tralee in 1689, while Nicholas Browne, ancestor of Lord Kenmare, represented the County. The Jacobites continued in possession of Kerry until 1691, when Brigadier Levison with seven hundred Williamite horse entered it, and was opposed by the troops under Lord Brittas and Sir James Cotter. The latter was a neighbour and old acquaintance of the Maynard family in Cork, and it appears that Edward and Mrs. Denny (née Maynard) opened a negotiation with Sir James, giving him a sum of money on his promising not to destroy Tralee Castle. There was nothing strictly speaking dishonourable to either party in the proposal or acceptance of such an offer, as Edward Denny had remained neutral in the civil strife, and had not been attainted by the Convention, which would have gained nothing by the destruction of his castle. He appears to have left it, probably to place his wife and children in safety at Cork or Dublin, and the Reverend William Stanford remained in rather a perilous position, watching over his Church and the few Protestant parishioners who had not been able to leave the little town. The following entries in the fly-leaves of the old Bible tell the state of affairs in Tralee in 1689–1691 graphically enough:—

"Traly Church Bible, 20th May, 1689, being then put into my custody.—W. S.

"Ye 2d of September, 1691, the Castle of Traly, the seat of that worthy, constant, and loyall gentleman, Edward Denny, Esq., was burnte by Colonel Rutte, by order of Sir James Cotter, who was then Governor of the County Kerrye, after he had received a good sum from Madam Denny to save it, and engaged his Hand and Faith to the performance thereof, but he not like a Gentleman broke his engagement."

"The Destroyer is destroyed and we are preserved, so they that sow in Tears shall reape in Joye.

(Signed) "William Stanford."

The last entry was probably written in October, 1691, when Brigadier Levison's troops, having been reinforced by a detachment sent by Ginkel from Limerick, and some volunteers from that county, headed by the Hon. William Fitz Maurice, ancestor of Lord Muskerry, and second son of the 20th Lord Kerry (by Constance dau. of William Long of York), reduced Kerry for King William. Smith, in his 'History of Kerry,' published in 1758, a work to which Macaulay expressed himself indebted, says that Tralee Castle and town were burned by Captains Navarre and Houlahan, serving under Sir James Cotter,(g) and that Ginkel ordered them to be hung, but that they were pardoned at the intercession of Edward Denny. The following entry was made in the old Bible by him on his return to Tralee:—

"This Bible was preserved by the care of William Stanford all the tyme of the War, more especially when this Town was burnte in Augnst and September, 1691. Given under my hand this 10th of October, 1691. Tralye. County Kerrye."

(a) Lady Broghill was the Lady Margaret Howard, daughter of the 2nd Earl of Suffolk, (grandson of the 4th Duke of Norfolk) who had married Roger Boyle (fifth son of the 1st Earl of Cork), created Lord Broghill at the age of six years and Earl of Orrery by Charles the Second. He was the grand-uncle of the infant heir of Arthur and Lady Ellen Denny, for whom his wife stood sponsor.

(b) Richard, 2nd Earl of Cork. He was brother of the Earl of Orrery, Lord Broghill of the preceding note, and therefore his godson's grand-uncle. He married Lady Elizabeth Clifford, daughter and eventually heiress of Henry, Earl of Cumberland, and granddaughter maternally of Robert Cecil, Earl of Salisbury, whose nicce Lady Mary Cecil had married Edward Denny, Earl of Norwich (v. ante, p. 74). Richard, Earl of Cork, was created Earl of Burlington in 1663. His great grandson Richard, 4th Earl of Cork and 3rd Earl of Burlington. claimed and was allowed the Barony of Clifford, but dying without male issue, the English Earldom expired, while the Barony devolved on his daughter Charlotte, who married the 4th Duke of Devonshire, for whose third son by her the Earldom of Burlington was revived, while the Irish Earldom of Cork passed to the great-grandson of Roger, Earl of Orrery, Baron Broghill above mentioned.

(c) Percy Smith of Ballynytray, in the County Waterford, was the nephew maternally of the first Earl of Cork. (v. Burke's 'Landed Gentry.')

(d) Arthur Denny died unmarried. Castle Lyons, where he and his elder brother were born, was the mansion of the Earls of Barrymore. In 1789, Archdall describes it as still "a stately fabric in the county of Cork;" but the ruinous prodigality of the two last Earls caused it and most of the ancient possessions of this long-descended family to pass away to strangers. Hooker's translation of Cambrensis, dedicated to Sir Walter Raleigh, describes the Barrys as then, in the seventeenth century, "in nothing degenerate from their first ancestor (Philip De Barry of 1172), noble and valiant gentlemen who for their fidelity and good sense were advanced to honour, and made Viscounts; but would to God," he adds, "they were not so misled, rooted, and altogether seized in Irishrie, their name and honours onlie beinge Englishe, alle the reste for the most parte Irishe!" Martha, Countess of Barrymore (the 2nd wife of Richard, 2nd Earl), the child's godmother, was however an Englishwoman, the daughter of Henry Lawrence, Esq., an English Roman Catholic, who seems to have been an agent of Glamorgan's, and who played a curious part at the siege of Tralee Castle in 1642, of which I shall have more to say hereafter when giving some papers found on him at the time he was made prisoner by the garrison. Lord Shannon, the child's godfather, was the 6th son of the 1st Earl of Cork, and John Jephson of Moyalloe (Mallow) was his son-in-law, and the ancestor of the present Sir Denham Jephson Norreys, Baronet, of Mallow Castle.

(e) William Denny died unmarried. His godfather William, 20th Lord Kerry, was father of Thomas, created Earl of Kerry, ancestor of Lords Lansdowne and Orkney. John Blennerhassett (who died unmarried) was the son of Robert Blennerhassett of Littur, county Kerry (younger brother of the owner of Ballyseedy), by Honora Stoughton, grand-daughter maternally of Dermot O'Brien, fifth Baron of Inchiquin. From this Robert and Honora descends in the female line Rowland Ponsonby Blennerhassett, Esq., M.P. for Kerry. The wife of the fifth Baron of Inchiquin, Dame Ellen Fitz Gerald of Cloyne, was the great-great-granddaughter of James Fitz Gerald, 14th Earl of Desmond; thus the present M.P. for Kerry above mentioned descends from the extinct Earls of Desmond and the O'Briens, Lords Inchiquin. Elizabeth 'Hassett or Blennerhassett was the wife of John of Ballyseedy, mentioned at p. 115, note e.

(f) Ellen Denny married John Carrique, Esq., of Glandine, county Kerry. Francis Lynn seems to have been a relative of William Lynn, who married Mary Forest, sister of the wife of Arthur Denny (v. ante, p. 76) and Mrs. Vauklier, or Vauclier, was probably the daughter of the Huguenot officer mentioned at p. 116, note f.

(g) It is but fair to Sir James Cotter to observe that he was very probably unable to restrain his troops from burning the Castle of Tralee. The two Captains whom Smith mentions as its destroyers were strangers, one a Frenchman. Sir James was included in the Articles of Limerick, and the Parliament paid for the rebuilding of the castle.

She died Nov. 19, 1742, aged 22. Adjoining is a marble tablet to her father and mother: he ob. 22 July, 1744, aged 53; and she 31 Jan. 1765, aged 68. Near to is another to Mary, wife of Mr. Wright Serjeant, dau. of Henry Dove, esq. died 24 Aug. 1750, aged 25, and her husband, 14 Feb. 1787, aged 59. She was the eldest dau. of Henry Dove, esq. (bur. at Tinwell, Rutland, 3 Oct. 1766), descended from Tho. Dove, Bishop of Peterborough, d. 30 Aug. 1630. She was b. 26, bapt. 28 Dec. 1724, at Castor, and was mar. 26 May, 1750, to Wright Serjeant. I may add that Langham and Barleythorpe are but a short mile apart.

In hopes of a blessed resurrection here lyes the body of John Prowse, late of this Town of Axbridge Esq^{r}. His father was John Prowse Esq^{re}, who died in June 1688, and lies buried in the Parish Church of Compton Bishop, Nephew and Heir of William Prowse Esq^{re}, whose Monument is seen in this Church; and his mother was Anne eldest daughter and coheiress of Roger Newborough of Barkley in this County Esq^{re}. He had two wives, his first was Margaret daughter of William Bragge of Sadborough in the County of Devon Esq^{re}, who died in Child-bed in December 1702, and was buried at Compton Bishop. And his second was Abigail daughter of George Lord Bishop of this Diocese, by whom he had Thomas, yet living, his only child. He had the Honour to serve the Queen in his County as Justice of the Peace and Colonel of the Bath Regiment, and to be unanimously elected Knight of the Shire for the Parliament called in the year 1708. MONUMENTAL INSCRIPTIONS AT WILFORD, NOTTINGHAMSHIRE.

Communicated by Captain A. E. Lawson Lowe, F.S.A.

Upon a large mural monument on the north wall of the chancel (now concealed behind the organ):—

Near this Place
Lieth interred the Body of
The Rev^d^ John Woods,(a) M.A.
Late Rector of this Parish and of Cortlingstock, in this County.
He married Catherine the Daughter of John Bridges, Esq^r^, of Barton,
In the County of Northampton,
By whom He left two Daughters.
He died Feb^y^ 29^th^, 1752. Aged 73.
She died Jan^ry^ 29^th^, 1732.
Aged LII.

Arms.—Quarterly, 1 and 4. Argent, an eagle with wings expanded sable, preying upon an infant swaddled of the last, banded or, face proper. 2 and 3. Gules, three ancient drinking-cups argent—for Risley. Crest.—Upon an oak tree vert, fructed or, a raven sable. Motto.—Fato prudentia Major.(b)

Upon another mural monument on the opposite side of the chancel:—

Near this place
Lies y^e^ Body of y^e^ Rev^d^ Henry Woods,(c) M.A. late Rector of Lambley & of Stanford,
In this County, who died March y^e^ 24^th^, 1755
In the 66^th^ year of his age.

* Bedford, in his 'Blazon of Episcopacy,' gives these arms to Bishop Hooper; but Cassan, in his 'Lives of the Bishops of Bath and Wells,' says Hooper had "no right to arms, none being recorded at the Heralds' College, London, at Ulster's, or Lord Lyon's offices." He died in 1727. For Monument, see 'Gentleman's Magazine,' vol. lxii., p. 596.

As he fulfilled his Ministerial Charge with great Sufficiency and Credit, so was he in other important Relations of Life not less eminent.
He was a kind Master, an obliging Neighbour, an affectionate Friend and an agreeable Companion.
But above all He adorned the Married State, in which he lived near Twenty Years, in the most perfect Union and Harmony with Her who, in memory of One so dear to herself and so much esteemed by others, caused this Monument to be erected A.D. 1755.
By his side lies his Infant Son.

Also the Remains of Sarah Woods
Relict of the Rev^{d} Henry Woods.

ARMS.—As upon the last-named monument.

Upon a floor-stone on the south side of the chancel:—

Here lyeth Interred y^{e}
Body of Henery,
Son of y^{e} Revnd Henery
Woods([d]) and Sarah his Wife, who departed
This Life December 29,
Aged 2 Years.
1736.

([a]) "Mr. John Woods, Clerk, Rector of this Parish, buried March 5th, 1752."—Parish Register. He was the eldest son of Hamlet Woods of West Leigh, and afterwards of Risley, co. Lancaster, Esq., by his marriage (at Winwick, May the 23rd, 1678) with Elizabeth, only daughter of John Risley of Risley, Esq. In 1702, he inherited the Risley and Broseley estates under the will of his cousin, John Risley, Esq., who died that year, and was buried at Winwick (vide 'Misc. Gen. et Heraldica,' Vol. II., p. 275). In 1732, the rectory of Wilford having become vacant by the death of the Rev. Benjamin Carter, he was presented to that benefice by Sir Robert Clifton, Bart., and he also held the rectory of Cortlingstock, now called Costock. There are entries in the Wilford registers of the marriages of his daughters and coheiresses; namely, "Mr. Richard Arnold, Clerk, Rect^{r} of Thurkinson (Thurcaston) in the County of Leicester and Mrs. Catherine Woods of this Parish married Nov. 6. 1735," and "Mr. Joseph Milner, Clerk, Rector of Barton, and Mrs. Elizabeth Woods, of this Parish, married by License May 30, 1750." His wife appears to have been interred elsewhere. as no entry of her burial is to be found in the Wilford registers.

([b]) These arms are those of the Risley family, which appear to have been assumed by the children of Hamlet Woods, Esq., and Elizabeth his wife. In the Visitation of Lancashire made in 1665, the arms of the Risleys of Risley, in that county, are described by Sir William Dugdale as—Argent, a tree sable with a raven perched thereon. It is, however, doubtful if such arms were ever borne by the family, though their crest was a raven perching upon an oak tree. In the second and third quarters, birds seem to have been not unfrequently substituted by the Risleys themselves for the peculiar charges which appear upon the arms on the monuments at Wilford. The seal of John Risley, Esq., who died in 1682 (an engraving of which is given in the 'Misc. Gen. et Heraldica,' Vol. II., p. 274), furnishes an example of this.

([c]) "Mr. Henry Woods, Rector of Lambley, buried 29th March, 1755."—Parish Register. He was a younger brother of the above-named John Woods, and the fifth son of Hamlet Woods, Esq., and Elizabeth his wife. Besides Lambley, he was also rector of Stanford, near Loughborough, to which benefice he was presented by Charles Lewis, Esq., in 1722. His widow survived him for upwards of thirteen years, and her interment is thus recorded in the Wilford registers: "Sarah, Widow of the late Rev^{d} Henry Woods, Rector of Lamley in this County, buried in the Chancel June 29th, 1768."

FROM AXBRIDGE CHURCH.

Sacred to the Memory of Thomas Prowse Esq^re^, the only son of John Prowse and Abigail his Wife. He was five times unanimously chosen Knight of the Shire for the County of Somerset, and discharged his duty in Parliament with ability, integrity and honour. Though frequently solicited he never could be prevailed on to accept any office in the State. He loved his Country, and thought he could better serve it in his private independent Station. He was perfectly from Vanity or Ambition, not conscious himself of those accomplishments and that distingnished merit which acquired for him the Esteem of all who knew him. And ever attentive rather to promote the Interest and Happiness of others than his own, He knew how to suffer Adversity or to enjoy Prosperity with the same truly Christian Spirit and to make the proper use of both. He was blessed with many opportunities of doing good, and met with uncommon returns of Gratitude from those of all ranks who experienced his generous Friendship and extensive Charity. No Flattery shall stain his Monument, but it would be unpardonable to lay down in Silence one who was an Ornament and a Blessing not only to his Family, but to his Country. After a long series of ill-health and patient suffering, in sure and certain hope of a blessed Resurrection, he calmly resigned his Soul into the Hands of God on the 1^st^ of Jan^y^ 1767, aged 59. Few have lived so greatly beloved or died so universally lamented. He married Elizabeth daughter of John Sharp Esq^re^ of Grafton Park in Northamptonshire, and by her had Eight Children, six of whom lie buried near him :—Eliz^th^, born Oct. 30^th^ 1736, died Jan^y^ 21^st^ 1742 ; Elizabeth, born March 10^th^ 1744, died March 19^th^ 1746 ; Charles, born Jan^y^ 21^st^ 1747, died June 15^th^ 1756 ; Susan, born May 29^th^ 1742, died Feb^y^ 17^th^ 1758. John, who inherited his Father's Virtues, soon followed his beloved Sister. He died Feb^y^ 27^th^ 1758, in the 24^th^ year of his age. George, the only surviving son of Thomas Prowse, died Aug^t^ 25^th^ 1767. After a blameless life of Thirty years, he married Elizabeth† daughter of the Rev^d^ D^r^ Thomas Sharp, Archdeacon of Northumberland, but had no child. Elizabeth, relict of Thomas Prowse, died June 18^th^ 1780, aged 68. Her praise is anticipated by the above Memorial, composed by herself to the merits of her Family. She left this small space to be filled by her surviving Children, who complying with her desire forbear any other Tribute to the Piety and Virtue of which her Life and death exhibited the most shining example.

[Thomas Prowse was Recorder of Wells from 1745 to 1752, when he resigned ; also Recorder of Axbridge.]

In memory of Mary, the eldest sister of Dame Elizabeth Mordaunt, and co-heiress with her of the property of their family. She was married in 1783 to the Rev^d^ John Methuen Rogers (afterwards Rector of Berkley), and was buried there in the year 1800. Considerable estates in that place and its vicinity belonged to her, to which also Lady Mordaunt's grandson, now a minor, is heir. In these two sisters (whose paternal and maternal ancestors were D^r^ George Hooper, Bishop of this Diocese, and D^r^ John Sharp, Archbishop of York) their own family name of Prowse became extinct, but the Christian virtues that adorned the lives and characters of each, and the use they made of the ample means they inherited for being " rich in good works," bespoke them worthy of so respectable an ancestry, and will embalm their memories in general esteem.

In memory of Dame Elizabeth Mordaunt, Widow of Sir John Mordaunt of Walton in the county of Warwick, Bart., whom she survived 20 years. She was the youngest daughter of Thomas Prowse, Esq^re^, and Elizabeth his wife, and dying at Hampstead on the 6^th^ October, 1826, was buried at Walton on the 14^th^ of the same month, aged 77. This lady, in whom terminated a long line of highly respected ancestry, possessed within herself a character far superior to all that names or titles on monumental tablets can bestow. It was that of a sincere Christian, acting on genuine Christian principles in all the relations of life. Her peculiar characteristic indeed was that of unbounded liberality without ostentation, to such of the poor as were most proper and deserving objects of her bounty. On her decease a fair inheritance in this vicinity and in Northamptonshire devolved to her grandson Sir John Mordaunt, Bart.

On a flat stone in the chancel is a partially obliterated inscription to the memory of William Prowse, who died in June (or July) 1677.

On another.

Here lyeth the body of Mary davghter of John Prowse of this parish Esq^re^ who dyed the Fovrth day of April in the eighth Moneth of her age Anno Dom. MDCLXXXI. And also the body of Thomas Prowse, son of the said John, who dyed the Fovrtenth day of September in the yeare aforesaid and in the Third yeare of his age.

Here lies the body of John Prowse Esq^re^ of this parish, who died in the year 1688, as also of Anne* his wife, daughter and co-heiress of Roger Newborough of Berkley in this county, Esq^re^. She died in the year 1740. They had seven children, Newborough, Thomas, William, and Mary, died young, Elizabeth in 1725, and Ann in 1729, and are all buried in this church. John, their second son, who succeeded his father, lies buried at Axbridge. Margaret, his first wife (daughter of William Bragg of Sadborough in the county of Devon, Esq^re^), was buried here with a still-born daughter in the year 1702. Thomas Prowse, Esq^re^, only son of the aforesaid John Prowse, erected this monument to their memory in the year 1751.

Arms.—Prowse impaling Newborough.

Wells Cathedral (in Cloisters).

In hope of a blessed resurrection near this place rests the body of Abigail, daughter of Richard Guilford, Gent., and wife of D^r^ George Hooper, late Lord Bishop of this Diocese. She lived 46 years and had 9 children, of which two sons and five daughters dying young, were buried in the Church of Lambeth, Surrey. She died Sept^r^ 24^th^, 1726, in the 71^st^ year of her age. Near her lyeth the remains of Rebecca, her youngest daughter, who died June 4, 1716, in the 21^st^ year of her age. As does also the body of Charles Guilford, Gent., her brother, who died in April, 1707, in the 42^nd^ year of his age. Erected 1728 by Abigail Prowse, their fourth and only surviving daughter.

Wells Cathedral.

Here lyeth the body of M^rs^ Mary Prowse, wife of Charles Prowse† of Croydon in this county, Esq^re^, and daughter of Thomas Carew, late of Cannington, Esq., who departed this life 3^rd^ day of May 1733, in the 30^th^ year of her age.

NOTES ON THE FAMILY OF ANDREWS.*

The following genealogical memoranda relating to the Andrews family are copied from a Book of Common Prayer, printed at Cambridge by John Hayes, Printer to the University, 1683.

I.

On the outside of the cover are stamped in gold the initials J.A. within a wreath. Inside is written,—

"This Book was Given me by my Dear mother M^{rs} Elizth Andrews.
Rob^{t} Andrews."

And by the side of the armorial bookplate of Robert Andrews (a facsimile of which is here given), is written this further memorandum marking the devolution of the Book of Prayer to the hands of William Long, Esq., of Wrington, co. Somerset, through Elizabeth Hare Joliffe, his late wife, who received it from her aunt, i.e. from Elizabeth Nott, sister to Diana Joliffe. The last named were both of them granddaughters of the above Robert Andrews.

II.

Then secondly upon the fly-leaves of the same book are entries made as follow:—

"September 3^{d} 1726. I Robert Andrews was married at Eccleston church near Eaton in the County of Chester (by the Rev^{d} M^{r} Aubury) to Marg^{t} Pigot second Daughter of Robt. III.

Thirdly, on the plain leaves at the end of the same Book of Common Prayer the entries made are :—

Robert Andrews of the Inner Temple Gen.t

"My son Thomas dyed July 2d 1729 aged 5 Months & 4 days of the Small Pox & was buried the 3d of July at night in St. Giles' Churchyard under a Window on the South Side.

"My Daughter Margaret died Novr 18th 1731 of Convulsions at Putney about nine in the Morning and was buried in the Churchyard at Putney on Saturday the 20th of the same month. Aged 4 mos wanting 1 day.

"My son Richard died Jany 31st 1734 in Grosvenor Street aged 3 days, & was buried in the best burying Ground belonging to the Parish of St. George Hanover Square Febr 1st 1734.

"My Daughter Mary died July 23d 1735 at Nurse in Markett Street Westminster & was buried in the new burying ground belonging to the parish of St. John the Evangelist Westmr July 25th 1735 aged six months wanting 5 days.

"My daughter Jane died at Nurse at Putney in the county of Surry Sept. 6th 1737 aged 7 weeks & was buried in the Churchyard at Putney near her sister Margaret on Thursday the 8th of the same month.

"My Daughter Maria Charlotta dyed ffebr 24th 1742 in Grosvenor street aged 3 weeks & 4 days & was buried in the best burying ground belonging to the parish of St. George Hanover Sqr on 26th of same month.

"My Dear Dear Daur Eliz: was married to Mr Thos Partington eldest son of my late worthy ffriend & her Godfather Edward Partington of the City of Chester Gent: July 10th 1754 to whom she brought a son in July 1755, who died in the month, as did its dear Mother on the 2d day of August following to the unspeakable Grief of her Parents. She was buried in my vault in Hanwell Churchyard the 9th Day of the same August, & her little infant removed from the place where it was interred & put into the same vault with her."

Here follow in a different hand six entries (doubtless the writing of Catharine Andrews afterwards Nott):—

"(1.) My dear Father died at his house at East Acton in the County of Middlesex on Saturday ye 27th Day of August 1763 and was interred on Friday the second of September in his own Vault at Hanwell.

"(2.) My dear Mother died May ye 23d 1779 in Grosvenor st. & was buried on the 28th Day of same month in my Father's vault in Hanwell Churchyard.

"(3.) My dear Sister Margaret Ashcroft died April 10th 1782.

"(4.) My Sister-in-law Sarah Andrews, wife of my Brother the Revd Robert Andrews died in April 1785 at St. Omer* in France and was buried there.

"(5.) My dear Brother Robert Andrews died of a Paralytic stroke on Monday March ye 25th 1793 at 12 o'clock at night, at his house at Great Ealing Middx. & was buried on Tuesday April 2d in the Vault at Grosvenor Chapel.

"(6.) My sister Diana Andrews died of a long & painful illness on Thursday May 8th 1800 at half-past nine in the morning at her house at Great Ealing Middx. and was buried on Friday May 16th in the Family Vault at Hanwell."

Here is again a change of handwriting, and the family obituary is continued by Elizabeth Nott (dau'r of the preceding writer) as follows:—

"My dear Mother Catherine Nott late Andrews died after a long & painful illness on Friday Augst 8th 1817 at 4 o'clock in the morning at Bathford near Bath where she went for change of air and was buried on Friday Aug. 15th in Bathford churchyard, near the south side of the Chancel. The last survivor of the Family."

In the same hand is stated: "Omitted to be entered—Catherine Andrews married June 29th 1766 to Captn John Neale Pleydell Nott, R.N. of Braydon, Cricklade, Co. Wilts who was killed in action while Commanding the Centaur off Martinique, West Indies Apl 1791."

* The Rev. Robert Andrews, as I have been informed, was previously Rector of Great Ealing, Midx.; but about this time either resigned the living, or retired from the active discharge of its duties, adjourning to St. Omer, where his two youngest children were born, and where, as we see from this entry, his wife (née Sarah Hawkins, dau'r of the 1st Bart. of Kelston) died.

MONUMENTAL INSCRIPTIONS AT WILFORD, NOTTINGHAMSHIRE.

Communicated by Captain A. E. Lawson Lowe, F.S.A.

Upon another tablet on the north wall of the chancel:—

Upon a plain marble slab on the south side of the chancel:—

To the memory of the late
Revd Owen Dinsdale, M.A.(f) son of George Dinsdale, Esqre, of Nappa Hall,
in the County of York.
He departed this life
November 5th 1818, aged 78, having been Rector of this Parish upwards of 37 years.

The east window of the chancel is filled with modern stained glass, representing the Resurrection, and along the bottom of the window runs the following inscription:—

"Ad Dei Gloriam et in piam memoriam Thomæ Thorp, A.M. per annos xlvi hujus ecclesiæ Rectoris qui obiit die xxvo Februarii mdccclxiv. æt. lxxiv. Hanc fenestram vitilis ornavit H. J. Peach, A.M., ecclesiæ de Tutbury Vicarius."

A window on the south side of the chancel has been filled with stained glass as a memorial of the poet Henry Kirke White, who resided for a time at Wilford, and expressed a wish that his burial-place should be in this churchyard. At the west end of the chancel, near the chancel-arch, is a good medallion bust by Halle, simply inscribed:—

Henry Kirke White
Born 1785 + Died 1806.

On the pavement, near the reading-desk, is a large slab (now partly hidden beneath the pews), which bears the following inscription:—

Here lie ye Bodies of Gervase Handley, Gentn(g), and Katherine his Wife. Also ye Bodies of their Son Gervase and two Daughters, Katherine and Dorothy. Ye last departed this Life November ye 12th, 1724. Aged 74 Yeares.

In the south aisle, upon a small lozenge-shaped tablet:—

Near this Place lie the Remains of Ann Cradock,
Relict of Joseph Cradock, Esq^{r}([h])
of Leicester, who died the 18th day of Sep^{r} 1774.
Aged 56
Years.

Upon a large marble tablet in the same aisle:—

"Near this Place lies the Body of William Lee, Gent., who departed this Life February 8th, 1792, in the 84th year of his Age. Also the Body of Elizabeth Catherine Lee, Daughter of the above by Ann his Wife, who died February 26th, 1792, in the 48th year of her Age. In the same Vault are deposited the Remains of Sarah Lee, Relict of the above Will^{m} Lee. She died May 4th, 1793, in the 73rd year of her Age.

Upon a floor-stone:—

To the Memory of Richard Handley, Gent.,([i]) of Wilford, who died 23rd Jan^{ry}, 1740. Aged 48. Also Tho^{s} Hodgkin([j]), of Nottingham, who died May 9th, 1805. Aged 68 Years. Likewise Three Sons([k]) and One Daughter of Tho^{s} and Mary Hodgkin. Also Richard Son of Tho^{s} and Mary Hodgkin who died June 25th, 1807, in the 29th Year of his Age. And Dorothy Daughter of Tho^{s} and Mary Hodgkin who died Feb. 19th, 1810. Aged 33 Years.

Upon a large brass plate, at the west end of the south aisle:—

To the endeared memory of Henry Smith, Esq^{re}, of Wilford House, 3rd son of Samuel Smith, Esq^{re}, M.P. of Woodhall Park, Herts. Born December 12, 1794. Died February 7, 1874. Also of his beloved wife the Lady Lucy Smith eldest daughter of Alexander, 8th Earl of Leven and Melville. Born January 26, 1794. Died December 23, 1865. One in the Lord they lived for the Glory of God and the welfare of His Church. While renouncing all merit of their own and having a deep and abiding sense of their sinfulness by the blessed teaching of the Holy Ghost, they enjoyed through His anointing the most firm confidence in the Sovereign Grace and Love of God in Christ toward them. And having perfect peace through the cleansing of the blood of Jesus they died resting on the Covenant Faithfulness of the Triune Jehovah.

Also to the memory of their children. Robert Melville. Born May 3, 1827. Died April 15, 1828. Lucy Jane. Born July 6, 1828, who fell asleep in Jesus May 14, 1842. Marianne. Born July 30, 1829. Died May 6, 1830. Their bodies lie in the family vault beneath the centre of the nave.

Upon a tablet in the north aisle:

In affectionate remembrance of George Barnard who departed this life September 28th, 1849 in the 43rd year of his age.
Also of Elizabeth Ann wife of John Cox, of Wilford and sister of the above George Barnard who departed this life January 6th, 1852
Aged 67 years.

In this aisle is an ancient sepulchral slab, apparently of the fifteenth century, bearing an incised cross entwined with a scroll. There are also two old alabaster slabs near the north door, exhibiting traces of incised effigies with marginal inscriptions. Upon one of these slabs the date—"vijth day of December, 1582"—alone is legible; whilst upon the other—"iii day of October"—is all that remains.

In the churchyard, at the east end of the chancel, upon the upper slab of a large square monument:—

In Memory of Thomas Wybert, Gent. ([l]) who was thirty years Gentlem^{n} to Thomas
Duke of Norfolk
Earl Marshall of England
Ob: 7 Decemb., 1735.
Æt. 65.
Requiescat in Pace.

Upon a square monument, enclosed by iron railings, on the south side of the church:—

Here lieth the Body of John Deane, Esq^{re}, ([m]) who from the year 1714 to 1720 commanded a ship of War in the Czar of Muscovy's service; after which, being appointed by his Britanick Majesty Consul for the Ports of Flanders and Ostend, He resided there many years
& by his Majesty's leave retired to this village in y^{e} year 1738,
Where he died August the 18th, 1761.
In the 82nd Year of his Age.
His Lady, Sarah Deane, lies here also interr'd
Who departed this Life August the 17th, 1761. Aged 81.

Upon a large stone slab, underbuilt with masonry:—

Here Lieth the Body of Phebe Slack([n]) who departed this Life Aug^{t} the 27th, 1737.
Aged 26 years.

Upon another monument:—

Sacred
to the Memory of John Cox, Esq^{re}, who departed this life
on the 10th of May, 1831
in the 62nd year of his age.
As a Man and a Christian he was unostentasiously upright and sincere; as a Husband faithful and affectionate; his Wife, who deeply laments her loss testifies her affection and soothes her sorrow by this brief memorial of his virtues.

On the outside of the chancel, beneath the east window, are two slate slabs thus inscribed:—

This Tablet commemorates the many virtues and the early loss of a beloved wife and mother the premature orphanage of her surviving children and the anguish of her bereaved husband.
Eliza,
the wife of Charles Robinson, of Wilford and daughter of Richard Wells, of Nottingham.
She died February 14, 1836, aged 36 years.

Here also lie the remains of Charles Espin Robinson, their first-born child, and Ellen Sutton Robinson, their only daughter;
the former died March 13, 1831, aged 20 months;
the latter died at the age of 10 months on the third day after her lamented mother and lies buried in her arms.

Sacred
to the memory of an affectionate and much-beloved parent
Charles Robinson, (e) who for upwards of thirty years was Master of the Free School in this village.
He was born at Kingston-upon-Hull
11th May, 1793
and died at Wilford 14th August, 1852.

(e) "The Rev[d] George Sinclair, Rector of this Parish, buried June 23rd, 1775."—Parish Register.

(f) The Rev. Owen Dinsdale was of Trinity College, Cambridge, where he graduated as B.A. in 1762, and M.A. in 1782. In 1767, he was presented to the rectory of Eastwood, in Nottinghamshire, by John Plumptre, Esq., and in 1781, he became rector of Wilford on the presentation of Sir Gervase Clifton, Bart., holding both benefices until his decease.

(g) Richard Handley, the first of this family who settled at Wilford, is stated in the pedigree given in the Visitation of Nottinghamshire, made in 1614, to have been descended from a Somersetshire family. By his will, dated September the 9th, 1592, and proved in the Prerogative Court of York, that same year, he desired to be buried at Wilford, "withoute the chauncell dore and soe nere thereunto as conveniently may be." He left four daughters and two sons, of whom Henry, the elder, settled at Bramcote, in Nottinghamshire, at which place he was married, April the 6th, 1592, to Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Bray, of Sheffield, in Yorkshire, and sister of Francis Bray, Alderman of Nottingham. His wife was buried at Bramcote, February the 20th, 1596, and he himself was buried there November the 12th, 1608. The issue of this marriage was a son Henry, who obtained a Patent of Armorial Bearings from Sir William Segar, Garter, June the 21st, 1612, and died without surviving issue, and was buried at Bramcote, June the 11th, 1650, and a daughter Alice, who was married at Sandiacre, in Derbyshire, October the 28th, 1611, to Nicholas Charlton, Esq., of that place, but died without issue, and was buried at Sandiacre, June the 25th, 1615. Gervase Handley, of Wilford, the younger son of Richard Handley, married Anne, daughter of Jerome Brand, of Staunton, in Nottinghamshire (by Bridget, his wife, the daughter of Anthony Staunton, of Staunton, Esq.), and by her he had five sons and three daughters. His second son, Gervase, had a son of his own name, whose place of interment is marked by the above-mentioned slab. This last-named Gervase was married at Radford, July the 12th, 1641, to Katherine, daughter of Thomas Wartey, otherwise Wharton, rector of Wilford, by whom he had a son and two daughters. He died intestate and was buried at Wilford, July the 28th, 1659, and his widow was buried there July the 8th, 1664. The earlier portion of the Wilford Registers has been lost, and as the burials of Gervase, the son of Gervase and Katherine Handley, and of Katherine, their daughter, are not found in the existing Registers, which only date from the year 1659, it is presumable that their deaths occurred before that time. The burial of the other daughter is thus recorded: "M[rs] Dorothy Handley buried Nov[r] 15th, 1724."

(h) "Anne Craddock buried September 14th, 1774."—Parish Register. This lady was the only daughter of Richard Ludlam, M.B., and was the second wife of Joseph Cradock, of Leicester, and of Gumley, in that county, Esq., by whom she had four sons and one daughter, all of whom died in their infancy, and a son Joseph, who inherited the Gumley property. Her husband, Joseph Cradock, Esq., was the third son of Edmund Cradock, Mayor of Leicester in 1702, and grandson of another Edmund Cradock, who was Mayor of Leicester in 1645 and 1657. He died April the 20th, 1759, and was buried in St. Martin's Church, Leicester. (Nichols' Hist. and Antiq. of Leicestershire, vol. iii., p. 1149.)

(i) "M[r] Richard Handley buried Jan[ry] 23rd, 1740,"—Parish Register. This Richard Handley was the eldest son of Huntingdon Handley, of Wilford, by his marriage (at Bilborough, October the 20th, 1691) with Margaret Bainbridge. His father was the only son of Huntingdon Handley, who (according to the pedigree in the Visitation of 1614) was the youngest son of Gervase Handley, of Wilford, by Anne, his wife, daughter of Jerome Brand, of Staunton. Richard Handley was baptised at Wilford, October the 18th, 1692. He was first married (at Wilford, by license, April the 14th, 1727) to Mrs. Hannah Parkes, who was buried at Wilford, June the 4th, 1728. By his second wife, Sarah Jackson (to whom he was married at Wilford, August the 15th, 1739), he had a son of his own name and a daughter, Mary, married to Thomas Hodgskin, of Nottingham. His widow was afterwards married to John Jackson, of Nottingham.

(j) "Yesterday afternoon, aged 67, died Mr Hodgskin, breeches-maker, of Swine's Green in this town."—Nottingham Journal, May 10th, 1805.

(k) "Monday, died Mr Thomas Hodgkin, son of Mr Hodgkin, Breeches-maker, on Swine's Green in this town. On Thursday his remains were deposited in a vault belonging to the ancient family of the Handleys, from whom he was lineally descended by his mother's side."—Nottingham Journal, April 24th, 1784.

(l) "Mr Thomas Wybert buried Decr 10th, 1735."—Parish Register.

(m) "John Deane, Esqr, and Sarah his Wife buried Augst 21st, 1761."—Parish Register.

(n) "Mrs Phebe Slack buried Augst 28, 1737."—Parish Register.

(o) According to 'Notes and Queries,' 1st s., vol. xii., pp. 491, 492; 2nd s., vol. i., pp. 81, 170, this Mr. Charles Robinson was maternally descended from John Bunyan, and had a Bible and other relics of the great allegorist in his possession.

Mitford and Ashton.—The statement made by the compiler of the old Mitford Pedigree with respect to the marriage of Robert Mitford and Anne Ashton has been repeated by Sir B. Burke in his 'Landed Gentry,' and accepted as the fact. There can, however, be no doubt that the compiler was in error, though it is certainly strange that such should have been the case. The father of Anne Ashton was brother, not son, of Sir Ralph Ashton or Assheton, as will be best seen by the accompanying extract from Collins's 'Baronetage' (1741), which agrees with the Visitation Pedigree, and is confirmed by the Mitford notes, wherein mention is made of "great-uncle, Edward Fleetwood."

Ralphe Assheton of Middleton, Esq., High Sheriff co. Lanc. 8 Car. I., died 17 Feb. 1650, bur. at Middleton. = Elizabeth, sole dau. of John Kaye of Woodsome, co. Ebor. died 22 Mar. 1662. M.I. with effigies in alabaster in St. Botolph, Aldersgate.

1. Richard, died young, 25 March, 1631.	2. Ralph, mar. Anne, dau. of Sir Ralph A. of Whalley, Bart. and was himself created 1st Baronet of Middleton, 1660.	3. John, resided at Burne, co. Ebor, and mar. Elizabeth dau. of John Fleetwood of Penwortham, co. Lanc.	Elizabeth, mar. Adam Beaumont of Whitby.	Mary, mar. Christopher Bannister.

Charles J. Robinson.

Colby.—I shall be pleased if any heraldic reader can correctly appropriate the following arms:—Party per bend sinister gules and azure a lion rampant arg. They appear upon a tombstone in Benacre Church, Suffolk, impaled with the arms of Edward North, Esq., who died 16 Dec. 1701, whose wife was Ann, relict of John Colby of Banham in Norfolk, Esq. Now the wife of John Colby was Ann, daughter and heir of John Arthur of Wigenhall St. Mary, in Norfolk, which John Arthur was buried at Wigenhall 1 Dec. 1655. Mary, one of the daughters and coheirs of this John Colby and Ann his wife, married Thomas Carthew, Esq., Serjeant-at-law, and on a silver cup still in the possession of the Carthew family is engraved a shield with the arms of Carthew impaling Colby and his quarterings, and in the place where the quartering of Arthur would properly come is the same coat as that I have mentioned. It must therefore have been adopted for the coat of Arthur; but I cannot find it so attributed in any ordinary of arms or heralds' visitation that I have been able to consult, or indeed to any other family whatever. A branch of the family of Arthur of Somersetshire did settle at Wisbech, on the borders of Norfolk, and near Wigenhall, a century earlier, but I have not been able to affiliate John Arthur of Wigenhall to it, or any other family of the name. Had he any right to that coat? If not, who had?

G. A. C.

Sutton of Sutton, co. York.—Is there any pedigree extant of such a family, and where is it to be met with? They bore for arms—Gules, on a castle or a stork proper. This coat is given in Berry's 'Encyclopædia Heraldica' for "Sutton of Kittismore, Yorkshire." Where is that place?

Doncaster. Charles Jackson.

ARMS OF WAGGETT OF CORK.

William Waggett, Esq., Q.C., and Recorder of Cork, was born in 1771, being the eldest son of Christopher Waggett, Esq., Sheriff of the City of Cork in 1786. He was elected to the Recordership of the City of Cork in 1808, and died unmarried at his seat, Kitsborough, near Cork, in Nov. 1840. His brother Captain Waggett having died without issue in July, 1848, with him ended the direct male line of the elder branch of this family, which is now jointly represented by Nicholas Dunscombe of King William's Town, co. Cork, Esq., J.P., and the Rev. Thomas W. Carson, M.A., of Beaumont, Terenure, co. Dublin. (See accompanying pedigree of Waggett, and that of Carson of Shanroe in 'M. G. et H., Vol. III., p. 156.)

A marble tablet with the following inscription stands affixed to the wall of the Court House, Cork:—

"The Mayor, Sheriffs, and Commonalty of the City of Cork have erected this Tablet to perpetuate the memory of William Waggett, Esq., Q.C., their late Recorder.

"Eminently gifted with Eloquence and Genius, possessed of sound knowledge and Experience, the high and ennobling qualities of his Mind commanded the respect and the benevolent affections of his Heart secured the esteem of all within the sphere of their influence. Purity and Integrity shone conspicuous in his Judicial character. Fondly beloved as a friend, devotedly revered as a Public Functionary, he for thirty-two years ardently devoted himself to the duties of his station, and died amidst the regrets of his friends and fellow citizens 23rd November 1840."

NOTE ON THE NAME OF LEADAM.

This name is a corruption, probably of very old date, of the name Leetham or Leatham. The following appear to have been variations of the same name, the soft sounds of dh and d belonging probably to the South, the harder th (but pronounced soft, as in "though" or "fathom") to the North: Letham (Scotland and Lancashire), Lethem, Lethom, Leathom, Lathom, Latham, Leadham, Leedham, Ledham, Ledhenham, Ledenham, Ledeham, Lideham, etc. The following are examples of some of these variations of spelling:—In the Rolls of Parliament 6 Ed. I., Isabella de Hautencote presents a petition for compensation for the manor of Lideham or Ledeham, which has been taken from her. This manor of Lideham is perhaps the manor of Leadenham in Lincolnshire, mentioned in the Abbreviatio Placitorum temp. Ric. I., in which Alan de Bosco appears as Plaintiff in respect of land in this manor. So Browne Willis's 'History of Cathedrals,' vol. iii. p. 213, "Thomas Ledham or Ledhenham or Leedham held the Prebend of Louth in Lincoln Cathedral 1446–1454, and was buried in the Cathedral with this Inscription: 'Hic jacet Thomas de Ledenham quondam Canonicus huius ecclesiæ.'" The Southern dh appears in the Domesday of 1282, "Robertus de Leedham tenet in Pampesworth dimid. Feodi et valet per annum et debet sect." (Pampsford, co. Cambridge.) And in a certain Chancery suit temp. Elizabeth, Thomas Ledham and others are plaintiffs in respect of a tennis court and premises devised to them by a testator who held them by lease from the Dean and Chapter of Saint Paul's, the tennis court being near Paul's chain. On the other hand, we have in Yorkshire, 30° Elizth. (vol. iii. of the Calendar to the Pleadings in the Duchy of Lancaster), Richard Lathom, otherwise Lethom or Ledam, plaintiff, against Anthony Leathom, defendant, as to lands in Carleton, Tanshelf, and Pomfret. There was a border manor of William Claggett.

Letham, the Escheat Rolls of Edwd. III. mentioning Edwardus de Letham as lord of the manor of Letham and other lands in Berwick-on-Tweed. A religious house called Letham, but qu. whether in the same place, is also mentioned in vol. ii. of the Calendar to the Pleadings of the Duchy of Lancaster (22 Hen. VIII.) as a cell to the Priory of Durham. It may be added as an illustration that the names of Leatham and Latham have at some time been recognised as identical, that Mr. Leatham, the present M.P. for Huddersfield, bears the Latham and Stanley crest, the eagle and child.

The name of which, as has been said, Leetham is perhaps the oldest form is of very ancient origin. The glossary at the end of vol. ii. of Thorpe's 'Ancient Laws and Institutes of England,' under the word "Laet," which forms the first syllable of the name, is as follows :—

"Laet—Litus, Lidus, Letus. One of a class between servile and free. According to Legg. Langobard. Car. Magn. 83, equivalent with 'fiscalinus' :—'Aldiones câ lege vivant in Italiâ, in servitute dominorum suorum quâ fiscalini vel liti vivunt in Franciâ.' The following passages will serve to shew the distinction between litus and servus :—'Si quis servum suum tributarium aut litum fecerit.'—Lex Rip: 62. 'Inter cxx. homines, nobiles et ingenuos, similiter et litos, servam et aucillam eidem ecclesiæ tribuant.'—Cap. de part. Sax. 15. 'Qui hominem ingenuum occiderit solidos cc., qui lidum solidos c., qui servum solidos l. componat.'—Cap. Car. an. 813. By the Frisic law cap. 15, the composition for a noble was eleven pounds, for a freeman five pounds six ounces; for a litus two pounds nine ounces; for a slave one pound four and a half ounces. These particulars are noticed because, according to some traditions, Kent was settled in part by Frisians. These Læti or Leti were Germans who voluntarily placed themselves under the Roman Government, and received lands (terræ leticæ) to cultivate, for which they probably paid rent, and were obligated to perform military service. If the enactment of Ethb. 26 be genuine, and not servilely copied from some Germanic code by the compiler of these laws, the question presents itself, at what period came this class of persons into Kent? The most obvious solution seems to be that they must have been foreigners, or their descendants settled here under the Roman Government, and that the high value set upon their lives was in consequence of their consanguinity with the Germanic conquerors of the country. See Grimm's D.R.A., pp. 305–9; Graff's Sprachschatz, vol. ii. p. 190; Eichhorn, vol. i. p. 319 (edit. 1834); Palgrave, i. p. 354."

The word "Leet" in the phrase "Court-Leet" is probably the same; and Thorpe also notices the word Laed or Lathe as a name of divisions or districts peculiar to the County of Kent. Leetham, therefore, is almost equivalent to Frankland.*

The form of spelling the name in use by the writer and his family is, he believes, exclusively confined to them. The family of Leadam were for many generations before the close of the last century owners of land in and in the neighbourhood of Walkington, East Yorks. They probably belonged to the class of substantial yeomen, though usually described in wills and deeds as "gentlemen," and occasionally even in contrast with other parties who are described as "yeomen;" and though they seem to have retained the use of a crest, a demi-griffin proper with a feather in its beak, it was perhaps scarcely customary among yeomen proper. It happens unfortunately that the Parish Registers of Walkington were carried up to London about the year 1754 as evidence in a law suit between the Rev. Randle Hancock, then Rector of Walkington, and the Corporation of Beverley, and never returned. The present Rector, the Rev. Douglas Ferguson, to whose courtesy I am much indebted, informs me that "the books are reported to have been seen by Poulson, who was searching when busy writing his History of Beverley." I have however succeeded by the means of tombstones, wills, the transcripts (very imperfect) of the Walkington Registers, preserved in the Diocesan Registry at York, the Registers of

* The writer has the authority of the late Professor Bosworth for this derivation.

Land Transfers, etc., in reconstructing the pedigree as far back as one Emma Leadam, who was buried at Walkington Nov. 22, 1661. The name therefore appears not to have varied in spelling for more than two hundred years. About the beginning of the last century, one John Leadam the younger, gentleman, of Walkington, owned freeholds and copyholds in the parishes of Walkington, Heddon, Coningston, Bishop Burton, Willerby, Swanland, Ebberston, and Snainton, besides land and houses in Hull. A younger branch of the paternal generation had settled in Beverley, but also owned land in Walkington. This branch, however, became extinct on the death of William Leadam "of Hull and Beverley, merchant," without issue in 1752. All present bearers of the name are, therefore, descended from John Leadam the younger, "of Walkington and Willerby, gentleman," born 1699, died 1752, and buried at Walkington. He was the father of ten children, and not long after his death the family possessions were sold, and the family dispersed. His eldest son appears to have settled at Beverley, and to have fallen into comparatively poor circumstances. His male descendants are believed to have become extinct before 1815. The last female descendant of this son married in 1815, George Fielding, Esq., Surgeon, of Hull. The second and third sons of John Leadam the younger, William and Robert Leadam, emigrated to Virginia. It is believed that some of their descendants are still existing in America, and that one of them is a surgeon or physician, and the writer would be glad to be brought into communication with them. The fourth son died young. The fifth son and tenth child, Christopher Leadam, great grandfather of the writer, came to London, and practised as a surgeon. He was the last male of the family buried at Walkington (1793). His male descendants down to and including the present eldest son, William Ward Leadam, M.D., have all been surgeons or physicians.

The family politics appear to have been Whig, if one may judge from the fact that the two brothers, John Leadam the younger of Walkington and Robert Leadam of Walkington and Beverley, both supported Fox, the first Lord Holland, in 1741.

The Coat is—Gu., a cross ermine between two crescents in chief or.
Crest.—A griffin's head between two wings, holding a feather proper.

In conclusion, should any of your readers meet with my spelling of the name of a date later than the Commonwealth, or with any near variation prior to that date, I should be obliged by a communication.

WORDSWORTHIANA: GRASMERE CHURCHYARD.

Permit me to rescue from the mere summary of names of those to whose memory tombstones are erected in Grasmere Churchyard, four whose holders, I think, merit that their monumental inscriptions should be recorded with others, many of whom are much less worthy of the honour conferred upon them in your number for January. There are three plain slate upright stones standing side by side: on the one we read, "Gathered to the side of kindred whom in their declining years she faithfully and affectionately tended, here lies the Body of Elizabeth Satterthwaite, late of Loughrigg Holme. She died at Stanwix, near Carlisle, the 11th day of March, 1849, aged 35 years. This stone is erected in grateful remembrance of her and Elizabeth Youdell, who died at Rydal 12th Jan^{y} 1834, aged 67 years; and of Jonathan Youdell, who died at Rydal 28th Nov. 1841, aged 79 years." This is the pair of whom Wordsworth says in 'The Excursion':—

> "High in the mountain where they long have dwelt > A wedded pair in childless solitude."

It was poor old Betty who

> "Drawn from her cottage on that aëry height,
> Bearing a lantern in her hand, she stood
> Or paced the ground to guide her husband home."

She was also the heroine of Southey's story of "The Terrible Knitters of Dent," given in 'The Doctor.'

The central slab is "In memory of John Carter of Loughrigg Holme, Ambleside, who died 28th January, 1863, aged 67 years. He was the confidential clerk and much valued friend of the late William Wordsworth, Esq., P.L., of Rydal Mount, with whose family he was connected by mutual ties of gratitude and sincere affection for a period of fifty years." Of him it is said in 'Wordsworth's Life,' vol. ii. p. 5, "Justice would not be done, and Wordsworth's feelings would be wronged, if his own name went down to posterity unaccompanied by that of one who served him faithfully, zealously, and efficiently for thirty-seven years, and by thus serving him as he did, conferred a benefit on the world."

How profound was the admiration inspired by the great poet in the breast of his friend is evidenced by a letter before me, dated Stanwix, April 23rd, 1850, in which he informs a correspondent of the death of Wordsworth, "The glory is departed from Israel! the good old man, our dear friend, expired at a quarter to twelve to-day."

The third slab is "In affectionate remembrance of James Dixon, born 19th July, 1797, died 4th April, 1873. He was for thirty-three years the faithful servant of Mr. and Mrs. Wordsworth of Rydal Mount, and for upwards of half a century the much valued friend of their family."

A fourth plain upright slate is "Sacred to the memory of James Greenwood of The Wyke, who died 2nd May, 1845, aged 57 years; also of Ann Greenwood, who died 12th May, 1852, aged 62 years; also of Richard Jones Greenwood, son of the above, who died in Liverpool 10th Sept. 1842, aged 17 years. Vita ut herba." James Greenwood was the friend of Wordsworth, Hartley Coleridge, and Professor Wilson. He assisted Wordsworth and Mr. Barber in planting the yew trees which flourish near their respective graves. (Works, ed. 1857, vol. vi. p. 7.) He it was for whom "The Westmoreland Girl" (Sarah Mackereth),

> "fulfilling her sire's office,
> Rang alone the far-heard knell,
> Tribute, by her hand in sorrow,
> Paid to one who loved her well.
>
> "When his spirit was departed,
> On that service she went forth;
> Nor did fail the like to render
> When his corse was laid in earth."

NOTES.

(1) The above pedigree has been carefully compiled from wills, court rolls, records in the College of Arms, parish registers, family documents, and local histories. Where the letters H.C. are affixed, they denote that the names of those persons are entered at the Heralds' College, though all the information here given may not be found there.

(2) There appears to be no further record of the Bedfords of Hull. Whether one of the family settled in Dewsbury or not, we have no proof. If, as is surmised, this was the case, the first John Bedford recorded as living at Dewsbury between 1480-1527 might have been the son of John Bedford of Hull, here named. The perpetuation of the name John suggests a relationship.

(3) The following is extracted from the will of William Bedford of Cridlingstubs, in com. Ebor., gent. :—"My manor and lordship of Cridlingstubs and my land at Norton to Mary Bedford, my wife, and William Savile, gent. on trust that my wife have one-third as her portion for life, the rest to my children," viz., Joshua, his eldest son, and William, his second son. He also leaves "to my younger children Thomas Bedford and Ann Bedford, each £150, to be raised out of the property above on their attaining twenty-one years of age." The seal affixed to the signature of William Bedford bears for a crest "an owl," probably the seal of William Savile, named in the will.

(4) The following are extracts from the will of John Bedford the elder, of Crownest, in the par. of Dewsbury, in com. Ebor., yeoman :—"To Alice Bedford, my wife, my house at Crownest, and a house at Dewsbury, wherein Samuel Pearson, minister, now dwelleth." "To Robert Bedford and John Bedford, my grandchildren, those two iron ranges standing in the hall and kitchen at Crownest, provided Alice my wife shall have them for her life. To Robert Bedford my son all the glasse and wainscott about Crownest and one corslett with the pike hereto belonging." "Fifty pounds to be payd to Sir John Savile, of Lupsett, knight, in truste for the use and maintenance of John Bedford, my younger son." Leaves Alice Bedford, his wife, ex'trix.

(5) Thomas Savile was great-great-grandson of Henry Savile of Thornhill and his wife Elizabeth, dau. and heiress of Sir Simon Thornhill of Thornhill, whose mother Joan was dau. of John Fitzwilliam of Emley, descended from Sir William Fitzwilliam of Emley, and his wife Ella, dau. of William, Earl of Warren and Surrey, great-grandson of William the Conqueror.

(6) There is much evidence in favour of this identity, though legal proof is as yet wanting. We find no record of John Bedford in Dewsbury after his father's death in 1636, and the first of the Bedfords of Smythey Brook, mentioned in the Thornhill Registers, bears this name. Sir John Savile, being left his trustee, it seems very probable he would place him in some farm on his estate, Smythey Brook, which is about two and half miles from Dewsbury, being then the property of the Saviles, as it is at the present time. We also find his nephew, Robert Bedford of Crownest, married one of the Riches of Bull House, in par. of Penistone, and Robert, grandson of John, of Smythey Brook, places his son John in the "Ponds Farm," near Penistone, previously in the possession of Josias Rich, a descendant of the Bull House family. This would suggest a family connection, and account for the settlement of John Bedford, last named, in the bleak district of "the Ponds." It is also worthy of notice that the family names of John and Robert were still retained almost exclusively for several generations, the name of John being still common in the family.

(7) For a complete account of these charities, see Greenwood's 'History of Dewsbury.' They were for building a schoolhouse and educating fifty poor children.

(8) A deed signed by Robert Bedford, dated April 23, 1702, and in the possession of the compiler of this pedigree, gives full particulars of the property comprised in the Crownest estate.

(9) The communion plate in the Parish Church at Dewsbury was presented by John Bedford of Thornhill Briggs. He probably died about 1730, when his elder brother Thomas became the last of the family living at Dewsbury.

(10) There is a pedigree of the family of Hall of Oughtibridge recorded in the Heralds' College, commencing in the sixteenth century.

VINCENT.—Thomas Vincent, J.P. for co. Surrey, Alderman of London, married Joanna, dau. of Thomas Burgess. She died 1654, and was buried at Camberwell, having been married twenty years. They had five sons and nine daughters. The sons appear to have died young; of the daughters, Elizabeth married Richard, Lord Blayney, Sarah married George Blount, another married Jeffrey Paul.

In Playfair's 'Irish Baronetage,' Barbara, wife of Thomas Esmonde, is said to be a daughter of the above-named Thomas Vincent, and a sister of Alderman Vincent of Limerick. I think there is a mistake here.

Thomas Vincent was High Sheriff of Meath 1656; M.P. for Monaghan 1661; died 1666. After the death of his wife Joanna, he appears to have married secondly Elizabeth? He mentions in his will an only son Nathaniel, who I suppose was grandfather to Richard Vincent of New Abbey, M.P. for Clogher, 1733.

I want to find out the connection of these Vincents and Alderman John Vincent, Sheriff of Limerick 1696, and Mayor 1703 and 1727.—W. C. VINCENT.

THE DENNYS,

Earls of Norwich, Barons Denny of Waltham, and Baronets of Ireland.

Edward Denny was returned M.P. for Kerry in 1692 and in 1695 (his cousin Barry being High Sheriff of the County in the latter year) and died in 1712, leaving issue one son, Edward, and eight daughters, viz., Anne, Ellen, and Alice, died young; Angel and Anne, died unmarried; Catherine, married William Sprigg, Esq., of Clenvoe, King's County, M.P. for Tralee in 1723; Mary, married Thomas Crosbie, Esq.; and Jane, married in 1713 her cousin John Blennerhassett, Esq., of Ballyseedy, heir by survival to his brother Arthur, who died as before mentioned in 1686.

Edward Denny, the brother of these eight sisters, had married in 1699 Lady Letitia Coningsby, daughter of Thomas, Earl Coningsby. The following entries, the next in order on the fly-leaves of the old Bible, are in the writing of the Rev. W. Stanford:—

"October 3^d^ 1700. Madam Letitia Denny y^e^ daughter of y^e^ Right Honble. Thomas, Lord Coningsby, made her entry here with divers Gentlemenn of Quality, and about three hundred Horsemenn of y^e^ Tenants, and she and her Husband were received with much Joye in y^e^ Castell of Tralye by theire father, Colonel Edward Denny and theire mother Madam Denny, and by all y^e^ noble Relations."

"8^th^ June, 1701. Y^e^ younge Ladye Letitia Denny was brought to bed of a Daughter, about one of y^e^ Clocke in y^e^ Morning, being Sundaye, who that Afternoon was Christened by Dean John Richards and named Frances Lucia. Godfathers Thomas Lord Coningsby (presented by M^r^ Barry Denny) and Colonel Edward Denny, Godmothers y^e^ Ladye Wharton (presented by M^rs^ Mary Denny) and y^e^ Lady Coningsby by Miss Ursula Coningsby."

Edward Denny represented the county of Kerry in Parliament from 1703 until 1713, and in 1715 was returned for the borough of Askeaton. He died in 1727, leaving issue by his wife Lady Letitia, with the daughter Lucia Frances abovementioned (who married Arthur, younger son of John Blennerhassett, Esq., of Ballyseedy, and had no issue), seven sons and three daughters, viz.: 1. Edward, High Sheriff of Kerry in 1723, died unmarried vitâ patris; 2. Arthur, heir by survival; 3. Thomas, died young; 4. Thomas, who succeeded his brother Arthur;

* The Burial Register of Corston Parish commences 1569.

5. Barry, in Holy Orders, Treasurer of the Cathedral Church of Ardfert (married his cousin Jane, daughter of the Reverend Maurice O'Connor, v. ante page 115), and died in September, 1751, leaving two daughters and four sons, viz., Arthur and Barry, of whom hereafter, as successors to their cousins; Edward (a) and Maynard (b); Ursula (c) and Arabella (d); 6. William, died young; 7. George, died young; 8. Lucia Frances above-mentioned; 9. Mary, died young; 10. Barbara, died young. On the death of Edward Denny in 1727, he was succeeded by his son Arthur above-mentioned, who was chosen M.P. for Kerry in the same year. He married, in August, 1725, the Lady Arabella Fitz-Maurice, second dau. of the Earl of Kerry by Lady Anne Petty, sister of the Earl of Shelburne, and died s. p. in 1742. His widow, Lady Arabella Denny, survived him a half-century, and then passed away, honoured and lamented by thousands, on the 18th of March, 1792, at the great age of eighty-four, preserving her clear intellect to the last. Like her husband's ancestress, Joan Champernoun, the protectress of the martyred Anne Askew (v. ante, p. 74), Lady Arabella Denny was no less distinguished by her ancient lineage than by her deep piety and Christian benevolence. She founded the Magdalen Asylum in Leeson Street, Dublin, and an almshouse in Tralee, and was throughout her long life the supporter and patroness of innumerable good works in different parts of Ireland. The Corporations of Dublin and Cork presented her with the freedom of their cities for her exertions on behalf of their workhouses, hospitals, and schools. Her husband, who freely supported all her generous plans, and provided her with the large sums necessary for carrying them out, was succeeded in the estates by his next brother Thomas Denny, before mentioned, who was knighted by the Duke of Devonshire, the Viceroy of Ireland, in 1743. Sir Thomas Denny took up again the broken thread of the family history in the old diary, and wrote as follows:—

"I was marry'd the 13th of 9ber, 1740, to my Cousin Agnes Blennerhassett, daughter of John Blennerhassett of Ballyshedee.(e)

"Thomas Denny.

"I had a son born y^e^ 10th of 7ber, 1741, called Thomas Coningsby, he died at about six weekes old.

"My second son Anthony Arthur, was born y^e^ 16th of 7ber, 1742, at three o'clock in the afternoon; his godfathers, William, Earl of Kerry, (f) and my cousin Thomas, Lord Southwell, (g) his godmother the Lady Arabella Denny my sister-in-law.

"My daughter Letitia Denny was born y^e^ 6th of October, 1743.

"My third son William Denny was born y^e^ 23rd of January, 1744–5, at Prospect Hall. (h)

"My fourth son Thomas was born y^e^ 25th of June, 1746, at Prospect Hall.

"My fifth son Thomas was born at Prospect Hall, y^e^ 6th of July, at one o'clock in y^e^ morning, 1747, his godfathers the Lord Kenmare, and Rowland Bateman, Esq^r^, his godmothers my cousin Helena Hedges Eyre, (i) and my Aunt Maynard.

"My daughter Jane Denny was born y^e^ 28th of August on Sunday morning at 8 o'clock, 1748, her godfathers Sir Maurice Crosbie, and my father-in-law, her godmothers my sisters Denny and Ponsonby.

"My daughter Mary Denny was born at eight o'clock on Thursday morning y^e^ 20th of July, 1749.

"My sixth son Robert Maynard Denny was born in Aungier Street, Dublin, the 2nd of January, 1750–1, in the morning, his godfather my cousin Robert Maynard, Esq^r^ of Hammersmith, and Arthur Crosbie, Esq^r^, his godmother my Aunt Catherine Sprigg, he dyed in Dublin the fourth of March, 1752 (new stile), and was buryed in St. Peter's Churchyard. God preserve y^e^ rest to me.

"My daughter Frances was born y^e^ 28th of March, 1752, and dyed at nine days old.

"My seventh son Edward Denny was born y^e^ 9th of May, new stile, 1753."

This is the last entry in the old diary begun in 1625. Sir Thomas Denny died in 1761. Two only of his seven sons, William and Thomas, and two daughters, Letitia (j) and Jane, survived him.

M. A. H.

(a) Edward Denny, third son of the Reverend Barry Denny, by his wife Jane O'Connor, married Mary, daughter of . . . Rind, Esq., of Fermanagh, and had issue Edward, died unmarried; Anthony, married his cousin Frances Blennerhassett, and had issue two sons and one daughter, viz.: 1. Edward, an officer in the 3rd Buffs, married his first cousin Georgina, daughter of Arthur Blennerhassett, Esq., of Ballyseedy, and had issue, Anthony, an officer in the 71st regiment, who married Sarah, daughter of Rev. J. Lockwood and had issue, living in 1868, three sons, Edward, Anthony, and Arthur. 2. William, Colonel in the 71st regiment, married Everetta, dau. of the Hon. J. Richardson, of Montreal. 3. Mary, married Charles O'Malley, Q.C., of Hawthorn Lodge, co. Mayo, and had issue.

(b) Maynard Denny was in Holy Orders and Rector of Church Hill, near Tralee. He married Penelope, daughter of Anthony Stoughton, Esq., of Rattoo, co. Kerry, high sheriff of that county in 1747, great grandson of Anthony Stoughton and Honora O'Brien, daughter of Lord Inchiquin (v. ante p. 160), and had issue five sons and four daughters, viz.: 1. Barry, in Holy Orders, Rector of Church Hill, married Helen, daughter of Richard Townshend Herbert, Esq., of Cahirnane, and had four sons and two daughters, viz.: Maynard; Richard, major in the 58th regiment, died unmarried; Barry, in Holy Orders, died unmarried; Arthur, married, and has no issue; Penelope, married . . . . Delmege, Esq.; and Helena, died unmarried. 2. Thomas, died unmarried. 3. Anthony, married Patience Mary, daughter and co-heiress of Admiral Lord Collingwood, and had issue two sons and one daughter, viz.: Collingwood, of Barham Wood, Herts, married and has issue a son and daughter: Arthur, married his first cousin Penelope Herbert of Cahirnane, and has issue a daughter, and two sons officers in the army: Sarah Blackett, only daughter of Anthony Denny, and his wife the Hon. Sarah Collingwood, married Sir John Stephen Robinson, Bart., of Rokeby Hall, co. Louth, and has issue. 4. Edward Maynard, in Holy Orders, Rector of Listowel, married first Millicent Blennerhassett, and had issue an only daughter Penelope (married Richard, younger son of Sir Richard O'Donnell Bart.); secondly, Jane, daughter of Townsend Gun, Esq., of Rattoo, co. Kerry, and had issue two sons, Maynard, now in Australia; William, an officer in the Royal Artillery; and a daughter. 5. Arthur, an officer in the army, died unmarried. 6. Elizabeth, married Captain Robert Steers, of Yorkshire, and had issue. 7. Jane, married Rev. Arthur Herbert, of Cahirnane, and had issue several sons and a daughter, married her cousin Arthur Denny as above mentioned. 8. Arabella, married Francis Chute, Esq., of Chute Hall, co. Kerry, and had issue two sons, Francis, died unmarried; Arthur; Penelope, died unmarried, and Arabella. 9. Penelope, youngest daughter of the Rev. Maynard Denny and his wife Penelope Stoughton, died unmarried.

(c) Ursula Denny married Samuel Morris, Esq., of Ballybeggan, co. Kerry, great grandson of Samuel Morris, of same place, by his wife Elizabeth Southwell, daughter of Richard Southwell of Callow (son of Sir Richard Southwell, Bart., of Barham Hall, Suffolk, and Court Mattrass, co. Limerick), M.P. for Askeaton in 1661, by his wife Lady Elizabeth O'Brien, dau. of the Earl of Inchiquin. Ursula Denny and Samuel Morris had issue, with an elder son Samuel, who married Sarah dau. of Townsend Gun, Esq. (and had issue two sons, Maynard and Townsend, an officer in the army, who both died s. p., and four daughters, Georgina, married Capt. De Ruvigny, Sarah and Jane, died unmarried, and Elizabeth, married Rev. . . . Davis), a younger son George, Colonel in the 3rd Regiment, K.C.B., Usher of the Black Rod, Dublin Castle, who married and left an only child, Theodosia.

(d) Arabella Denny married George Gun, Esq., and had, with a son Barry, whose only son George died s. p., two daughters, Jane, married Capt. Cashel, and secondly, William Hickman, Esq., and Arabella, married John Watts, Esq., and had issue.

(e) This is the true Irish pronunciation of the name of the Blennerhassett's estate and residence in Kerry. The meaning of the word is the place or abode of the fairies, sidhe (sheedy) being the Irish name for those imaginary creatures. The Blennerhassets came hither from Flimby, in Cumberland, in 1587, and one of the old divisions or farms of their Irish estate bears the name of Flimby in remembrance of their English home before that date.

(f) William Earl of Kerry, the brother of Lady Arabella Denny.

(g) Thomas third Baron and first Viscount Southwell, son of the second Baron by Mary dau. of Thomas Coke, Esq., of Melbourne, co. Derby, and grandson of the first Baron, who had married Lady Meliora Coningsby, dau. of Thomas Lord Coningsby and sister of Lady Letitia Denny.

(h) Prospect Hall, of which no trace now remains, stood on the shore of the lower Lake of Killarney. Dr. Smith, writing in 1759, notices the exquisite view of the lake from this Hall, then occupied by a Mr. Supple.

(i) Helena, dau. of Edward Herbert of Kilcow, Esq., and his wife Frances, dau. of Nicholas Brown, Viscount Kenmare, married Richard Hedges Eyre, Esq., of Macroom Castle (grandson maternally of Edward Eyre, Esq., of Galway, by Jane, dau. of Sir William Maynard, Bart.), and had with other issue two daughters, Frances, who married Simon White, Esq., and by him was mother of the first Earl of Bantry, and Helena, married the Rev. George Maunsell, D.D., Dean of Leighlin. The last-mentioned lady must have been the godmother of the son of Sir Thomas Denny, who was her cousin through his Maynard ancestors.

(j) Letitia Denny married Rowland Bateman, Esq., of Oak Park, co. Kerry, High Sheriff of same county in 1759, and had by him an elder son, who married his first cousin, Arabella dau. of Sir Barry Denny, Bart., as hereafter mentioned.

(a) He was of Hawkesheard, co. Stafford, 10 Hen. V., and married Edith, da. of . . . Waldief, by whom he had three sons—(1) Nicholas, who continued the line. (2) William, living 20 Ed. IV. and (3) Thomas, whose only da. and heir Edith married Richard Thickness of Sutton Cheney (see note, page 318, to Harwood's edition of Erdeswick's 'Survey of Staffordshire,' 1820). According to Erdeswick (page 171 ibidem), Humphrey Rugeley was owner of Hawkesharde, temp. Ed. III. who has issue Thomas, who had issue Nicholas, who lived 7 Hen. VI., etc.

(b) She was the da. of Ralph (not of William) Sheldon of Beoley and Aberton, co. Worcester, by Philippa, da. and coheir of Baldwin Heath of Foordhall in Wootton. She married 30 Nov., 1542, at Beoley, and is mentioned in her father's will, proved 1646, together with her husband. After his death she married Thomas Baskerville of Curdworth. These facts are correctly recorded in the pedigree of Sheldon, entered at the College of Arms in "Norfolk vj."

(c) Her mother was Ellen, da. and heir of James Thirkald of Smallwood, co. Stafford, by Jane, da. of Sir Lewis Bagot, Knt. Her brother, William Rugeley of Shenston, entered his pedigree in the Heralds' Visitation of the County of Stafford in 1583, being then the father of ten children. Shenstone Hall was built by the Rugeleys, from whom it passed to the Brandreths, who, temp. Queen Anne, sold it to Samuel Hill.

(d) He was knighted in Ireland by the Lord Deputy (Arthur Chichester, Lord Belfast) on 5 Nov., 1614. Admon. of his goods in C.P.C., wherein he is described as Sir Rowland Ridgeley, late of Clongham, co. Carmarthen, was granted 7 Oct., 1629, to Humphrey Bracebridge, "consanguineo," during the minority of his children, Lettice, Odiley, Catherine, Isabel, George, Penelope, Devereux, Dorothy, John, and Mary.

(e) She was married 20 Dec., 1604, at St. Clement Danes, Westminster, and must have died before 1629, in her husband's lifetime. Of her father, Sir Thomas Knollys, little is known, excepting that he was a mourner at the funeral of his father in Aug. 1596, and that he married Odelia, da. and heir of John de Marada, Margrave of Bergen op Zoon (a scion of the house of Nassau, and uncle to the Prince of Orange), by Maria, da. and heir of Anthony, Margrave of Bergen op Zoon, in Brabant.

(f) He was probably twenty-four at his father's death, in 1629, at all events he was of full age, as he is not mentioned among the minor children of his father, in the admon. of 1629.

(g) Arthur Warren, or Waring, born 18 Jan. and bap. 3 Feb., 1617, at Thorpe Arnold, co. Leicester, died at St. James's, Clerkenwell, and was buried at St. Marylebone, 26 Nov., 1678. His wife had died before him. Their son, another Arthur Warren, was of Stapleford, Notts, and (by his wife, the coheir of the family of Borlase, Barts.) was great-grandfather of Admiral the Right Hon. Sir John Borlase Warren, Bart., K.B., etc.

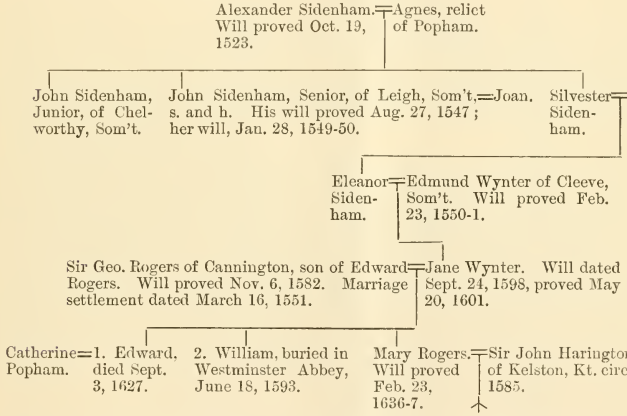
THE LADY MARY HARINGTON'S PEDIGREE (née ROGERS OF CANNINGTON, SOMERSET), Given in illustration of the preceding Registers, and other data on the connection of Rogers with Harington.

ARMS.—Argent, a chevron between three bucks passant sable. These arms appear on a tomb at Cannington.

[Note.—The manor of Cannington, etc., was granted to Edward Rogers, Esq., 30 Hen. VIII., on the suppression of the monastery. It continued with the Rogers to 1670, the date of Henry Rogers's decease, when it escheated to the Crown.]



Alexander Sidenham. = Agnes, relict of Popham. Will proved Oct. 19, 1523.
John Sidenham, Junior, of Chelworthy, Som't.
John Sidenham, Senior, of Leigh, Som't. = Joan. s. and h. His will proved Aug. 27, 1547; her will, Jan. 28, 1549-50.
Silvester Sidenham. = Joan.
Eleanor Sidenham. = Edmund Wynter of Cleeve, Som't. Will proved Feb. 23, 1550-1.
Sir Geo. Rogers of Cannington, son of Edward Rogers. Will proved Nov. 6, 1582. Marriage settlement dated March 16, 1551. = Jane Wynter. Will dated Sept. 24, 1598, proved May 20, 1601.
Catherine Popham. = 1. Edward, died Sept. 3, 1627.
2. William, buried in Westminster Abbey, June 18, 1593.
Mary Rogers. Will proved Feb. 23, 1636-7. = Sir John Harington of Kelston, Kt. circa 1585.

[N.B.—For much of the filling up in precise detail of the above illustrative pedigree, the writer on the Haringtons of Somerset acknowledges with sincere thanks his indebtedness to the Rev. Frederick Brown, F.S.A., whose stores of Somerset genealogy are very rich, and are often opened for the benefit of others with great liberality.]

* Francis Harington received a bequest, under the will of his sister-in-law. Dame Mary Harington (proved 1636), widow of Sir John, K^t^ (who died 1612), of all her "interest in a Lease of Fieldgrove in the Parish of Bitton." Though we do not know the date of this gentleman's birth, yet, since his eldest brother John was born 1561, as we gather from his entrance at College, we may fairly assume that he was born about 1563, and would therefore be about 70 years of age (not younger) when he received this bequest. We are not, therefore, surprised to find from the date of burial that he did not long enjoy it. His history has always been unknown, and hitherto no register of him discovered. I am glad to be able to set it now before the public.—F. J. P.

† This the son of Wm. and Ann Harington.

ǂ This gentleman was son of Francis Harington, the brother of Sir John, Kt., by Mary, daughter of Antony Stocker, Esq., of Chilcompton, and Margaret Capel his wife. He resided at Weymouth (Melcombe Regis), co. Dorset, and probably died there, though brought to rest with his wife and her relatives at Chilcompton. He left an only son John, matriculated at Trin. Coll. Oxford, 10th July, 1668, about whom more information is earnestly desired.

A letter (not before published) from Sir John Harington, Knt., to his mother-in-law, the Lady Jane Rogers, on presenting her with his "Orlando Furioso."

"To the Right Virtuous and kind Mother-in-law The Ladie Jane Rogers.

"Madam,—I have sent you my long promised Orlando, and that it may properly belonge to you and your heire female, I have added to it as many of the toyes I have formerly written to you and your daughter, as I could collect out of my scattered papers, supposing (though you have seene some of them long since) that now to review them againe and remember the kynde and sometimes unkynde occasions on which some of them were written will not be unpleasant: and because there was spare roome I have added a few others that were showed to our Sovereigne Lady, and some that I durst never show any ladie,* but you two. And so wishing you to lock me up as safe in your love, as I know you will lay up this booke safe in your chest, I commend me to you.

"Your son in law and in love

"(signed) JOHN HARINGTON.

(To be continued.)

PARR FAMILY OF POWDERHAM, EXETER.—Can any one help me to the ancestry of John Parr, who married Elizabeth Williton (both were of Powderham, Exeter) in 1775; of Thomas Parr, who married Esther Woollacott (both of Powderham) in 1780; and of William Parr, who was living at Powderham, and married in 1785? I cannot trace the Parr family of Powderham prior to the year 1775.

Ledbury. FRANK JOHN PARR.

NATHANIEL MAXEY.—Can any of your readers afford me any information as to the direct ancestors of this gentleman? He was a merchant in London, and married the daughter of Sir Rowland Crispe, by whom he had issue two daughters, Martha, married to Elwes Robinson, and who died in 1726 without issue; and Mary, who died in 1770, having married James Pattison of Congleton and London, by whom she left issue. Nathaniel Maxey had a brother Joseph Maxey, and a sister Martha, married to John Bockett. Joseph Maxey had two sons, William Seele Maxey and Nathaniel Edward Maxey, and a daughter Mary, wife of Samuel Bridgeman. Nathaniel Maxey bore the same arms as the Maxeys of Salinghall, co. Essex, and is believed to have been an offshoot of that family. He died in 1708. Any information regarding the ancestors of Nathaniel Maxey, or of his son-in-law James Pattison, would be acceptable.

THE LEIGH PEERAGE.—In 'Notes and Queries,' vol. v., March 26, 1870, page 316, appeared the following query:—

"BARON LEIGH.—Can any of your readers furnish me with the date and place of the marriage of Thomas, second Baron Leigh, with the daughter of Lord Rockingham? It took place somewhere about the year 1680. Also any information respecting Thomas, eldest son of the said second Baron, who was baptized at Stoneleigh, March 10, 1682, and is usually stated to have died young, but of whom it was proved on the trial of the Leigh peerage case before the House of Lords in 1828, that no register of his burial could be found. It is strongly suspected that he survived many years, and even outlived his father."

The marriage certificate referred to has been found. Can any reader of the 'Miscellanea Genealogica' give the required information respecting the said son Thomas? The smallest contribution will oblige.

S. John's College, Cambridge. J. HENRY WHITEHEAD.

The dates of birth are derived from an old family Bible (of 1679), which on the death of Selina Frances Godde—the last of her name—in 1850, passed to Miss Maria Clayfield, and was given by the latter, in 1862, to the compiler of these notes, by whom further information is sought.

* There were two other Refugees in London of this name, viz., Benjamin Godde, who m. Magdalene Chapret, and left children, of whom the eldest, Peter, was born in 1690; and Philip Godde, who m. Marie Menantean. and died, leaving issue, in 1725. No direct evidence has been found to connect them with Peter; but it may be noted, as at least a curious coincidence, that the name of Francis Duroure appears in two of these Godde wills in 1779, while the two brothers, Generals Scipio and Alexander Duroure, were successively Governors of St. Mawes' Castle till 1765, and Sir Robert Pigot and Henry Godde are found, not long after, as Keeper and Deputy-Keeper of the same remote post.

The will of Edward Cayley of Lamberhurst yeo. dated 26 Feb. 1668, is at Somerset House (Coke, 51). He therein mentions his dau'rs Judith and Mary, his dau'r Catherine ux. Valentine Ellis [son of Tho. Ellis of Pembury, qui ob. 1650], his dau'rs Gibbons and Woodgate, and his sons Josias and William. The said William of Lamberhurst made his will 3 Mch. 1693 (Box, 97) and therein mentions his cousins Larkin and Martin of Pembury, his sister Catharine Ellis, his sister

* She was d. of Stephen Ellis of Burton in Kennington, gent.

† These two were brothers and distant cousins. Her nephew Tho. Ellis of Burton, gent., the last owner of that property, alive in 1609, was then doubtless dead. There was a Tho. Ellis of Headcorne, gent., at this time who was the same as Tho. Ellis of Hothfield, who died at Canewden, co. Essex, 1636, leaving an only d. Dorothy. His will is at Somerset House.

‡ These three ancient wills rectify some mistakes in Hasted's 'History,' followed in 'Notices of the Ellises.' Hasted presumed the John Elys of Willesborough, qui ob. 1467, was the same person as John Elys of Otham, who died the same year. The latter was probably son of Thomas Elys, the Sheriff, though he does not appear to have inherited any property in Kennington or East Kent. Hasted also misread the date of the will of Richard Elys, making it 1471. The affiliation of these three testators cannot at present be correctly made.

Mary Martin, his brother Joseph deceased, his nephews Woodgate, and his kinsman Wm. Eldridge of London and his wife Anne.*

Will of John Hawtrey of Ashford co. Kent, gent. To John H. my son 2 houses in A. Philip my son—My five daughters Ursula, Joan, Elizabeth, Susan, & Barbara, £100 each. Dated 24 Aug. 1637. Proved at Canterbury (Masters, 499).

Will d. 14 July 1645 of Stephen Barton of West Peckham, yeo.—To his wife Elizabeth Rent Charge of 20s. bequeathed by his late father John Barton—Also Goods and Chattels and to be Ex'x—My friend Thomas Furner gent. and brother-in-law John Snowe overseers. Pr. 8 Nov. 1645 at Rochester.

Will d. 29 Dec. 1663 of Walter Barton senior of Hadlowe, yeo. "aged." Silver Bowle to Walter Barton son of his son Tho. Barton—Releases bond of £20 of his youngest son Walter Barton—Said Tho. B. eldest son, Executor, to whom personal estate. My worthy friend and kinsman M^r^ John Kirril, and my good friend M^r^ Geo. Hooper, overseers. Witnesses, John Kirril, Robert Dewhurst, Geo. Hooper. Pr. 27 May, 1668, at Rochester.

Will of John Barton of Poulters in Hadlow, yeo.—To Elizabeth Oliver god-daughter 20s.—To Jane ux. W^m^ Coyfe son in law £5—To Elizabeth Thorpe, god-daughter, dau. of W^m^ Thorpe 20s.—To wife of Thomas Barton's son £4.—To Jane, Testator's wife 40s.—to son Thomas, Poulters etc. D. 12 Sep. 1690. Proved 30 Apl. 1695, at Rochester.

Will of Thomas Barton of Poulters, yeo., dated 2 May 1713. To eldest son John 4 pieces of land called Cardens—To his four daughters Elizabeth, Alice, Jane, and Sarah, £50 each at 21—Poulters containing 120 acres to four sons equally between them, viz., John, Thomas, Henry, and Charles. Wife Jane and son John Exors. Proved 9 Aug. at Rochester.

Will of Thomas Barton of Hadlow, senior, cordwainer, "old & infirm," d. 11 July 1718—2 Daurs. Margaret ux., Robert Hayes, and Elizabeth ux. John Humphry—Son Thomas Barton. Witnesses,—Henry Barton, Geo. Hooper, and another. Pr. Jan. 3, 1720, at Rochester.

Will of Walter Barton of Hadlow, yeo., d. 6 Nov. 1725—To Thomas and John his sons he had advanced already of considerable value—messuage and lands wherein I dwell to wife Jane for jointure—4 sons, Walter, Thomas, John and George. Pr. 14 May 1725–6 at R.

Will of James Barton of Bexley, senior, yeo., "old."—To eldest son James B. £150—£20 each to his 2 children and Testator's grandchildren at 21 or marriage, viz., Richard and Mary—son Richard B. exor. and 2 acres of meadow land in Bexley and rest of personalty—To youngest son John £150—To d. Mary Holden £5. Pr. at Doctors' Commons 1703.

Will of Charles Barton [at Somerset House, Rudd, 118], of East Peckham, co. Kent, yeo. To the poor of E. P., West Peckham, Hadlow, and Mereworth—My god-daughter Elizabeth B., d. of my br. John B.—Godson, Tho. B., son of my br. Tho. B.—my goddaur. Elizabeth d. of Henry Fenner—my cosen John Standen—my wife Elizabeth sole Ex. [mar. at Titsey, Surrey, Charles Barton and Elizabeth Valentyne 4 Aug. 1606, d. of Humphrey V. bap. there 22 Nov. 1582]—Anthony B. and Walter B. my brothers—my four sons, Richard, John, W^m^, and George—brothers

* The said Catharine Ellis was bur. at Lamberhurst April 10, 1695. She had issue by her said husband 1 son and 2 dau'rs, bapt. at Goudhurst; but there is reason to believe she had other children previously bapt. elsewhere. She was not married at Lamberhurst. Tho. Cayley of Heathfield, co. Sussex, yeo. (brother of the aforesaid Edward Cayley), made his will 21 Feb. 1692 (Coker, 39), being "aged, weak, and infirm." It is very lengthy, and the testator therein devises several farms in Heathfield and other parishes to his son, dau'rs, and grandchildren, one of which was jointly occupied by Thomas Ellis and himself. The will is attested by six witnesses int. al., Sarah Ellis, Thomas Ellis, and Tho. Ellis, junior, apparently the issue of Valentine Ellis and his wife. These would seem to constitute the link between the Ellises of Pembury, Marden, and Heathfield, mentioned in 'Notices of the Ellises.' Wm. Valentine of Tattesfield and Westerham made his will 1635 (Sadler, 83), and therein mentions his sister Eliz. ux. Charles Barton, and his wife Anne, and dau'r Elizabeth. Anne remarried Tho. Ellis of Pembury aforesaid, and the latter, æt. 11, 1635, was the wife of Richard Hayward of Tattesfield.

Tho. and Anthony, overseers—my br. John B., Solomon Newman my uncle—a bequest to my br. Walter on the day of his marriage—mentions a recent purchase of 100 a. of land. Dated 5 June 1615, Pr. 4 July, s.y. Witnesses, Tho. Barton, Sol. Newman, John Barton, Nicholas Hooper, sen., Writer.

Will of Antone Barton [at Som. Ho. Barrington, 85], of Great Peckham, co. Kent, yeo.—my godson Anthony Swan 20s.—to Geo. Barton, son of my br. Charles B. £7 at 24—my daurs. Anne and Elizabeth—my br. Walter B. and my first wife's br. W^m^ Fayreman to be exors. during nonage of my children. Dated 4 Aug. 1624. Witnesses,— Edmund Porter, Wryter, W^m^ Raynes, his marke.

Richard Barton of Marden, co. Kent., gent., married twice. By Mary, dau. of James Alchorne of Tunbridge, he had John B. of Lydd, gent., his s. and h. His second wife was Elizabeth.—Peter Maplesden of Brookland, Kent, mar. Joan sister of the aforesaid Mary, as appears by deed between him and the said Rich. Barton, A.D. 1640 (deeds).

Will of John Barton [at Som. Ho. Skynner, 95] of East Peckham, co. Kent, yeo. Dated 5 June, 1626—wife Alice—Daurs. Anne & Elizabeth—To John B., son of my br. Charles £5 at 21—Tho. son of my bro. Tho. B.—John Richardson and his bro Tho. R., my sister's sons—Richard Fenner my sister's son—wife Alice, Ex'ix—my brothers Tho. and Walter B., overseers—lands in Hadlow. Witnesses, Daniel Pinckney, churchwarden of Tunbridge, John Hooper, notary publick—Pr. 17 Oct. 1627.

Thomas Barton of East Peckham yeo. made his will 13 Apl. 1630 (Scroop, 104) wherein he mentions his dau'r Susan ux. John Keeble ; his dau'r Margaret ; his d. Elizabeth ; John B. his nephew ; his son Tho. Barton ; his br. Mr. Tho. Oliver of Layborne and his kinsman Mr. Robert Oliver his son. Pr. 18 Nov. 1630.

John Barton of the Bourne in Hadlow yeo. made his will 20 Nov. 1628 (Ridley, 102). He therein mentions Richard son of his brother Henry, and John br. of the said Richard. His son Stephen B., his eldest son Henry B. and his wife Hellen ; also his kinsman Tho. Barton of Court Lodge in Hadlow ; and Richard and Henry the two sons of his br. Henry B. Pr. 4 Nov. 1629.

Thomas Barton of the Court Lodge in Hadlow yeo. made his will 11 Oct. 1662, wherein he mentions his wife Elizabeth, and his dau'r Elizabeth ; Tho. and Alice Newman his wife's children, his brother-in-law Mr. John Kirrell, his sons Walter and Thomas, and his br.-in-law Henry Barton of the Bourne. Proved at Rochester 5 Jan. 1672.

John Derbie of Horsmonden made his will 1653 (Alchin, 306) and therein mentions his sister Joane ux. — Barton, and their issue,—Thomas, James, Walter, John, and Peter.

A branch of Barton of Hadlow is settled at Watton co. Norfolk, of whom an account is given in Burke's 'Landed Gentry,' ed. 1858.

ABSTRACT OF WILLS RELATING TO THE FAMILY OF HARINGTON.

Summary of the Will of Lady Jane Rogers, of Cannington, Somerset. Dated 24 Sept. 1598. G. C. P. (Montague 13).

Francis, son of Edward Rogers,* Esq. to have the manor of Bodmin; he not to alienate it for more than three lives, etc.; if he do, or if he die without lawful issue, then the said manor to go to George Harington, son of John Harington, Esq., and his heirs male; and if he alienate, etc., then to James, another son of the said John Harington; if he should alienate, etc., then to George Rogers, another son of said Edward Rogers; and if he alienate, etc., or die issueless, then to testatrix heirs for ever. Said manor of Bodmin charged with £200 to each of the five daughters of said Edward Rogers.

To John Harington, my godson, son of John, Esq., the manor of Trebarveth, in parish of Tyndagell, and his heirs male, but not to alienate; otherwise to go to said Geo. Rogers. This manor, charged with "one hundred and three score pounds, to the Four Dau'rs of said John Harington—Fraunces, Jane, Ellen, Elizabeth—to be equally divided among them."

To James Harington, son of John Harington, Esq., the manors of Trembelthee, St. Jennes, Westmeadon, and Kilkhampton, in the counties of Cornwall and Devon. To him the Demaine and Barton of Allercombe, he not to alienate; if otherwise, then to George Rogers aforesaid and his heirs, etc. This property charged with £10 yearly to "my daughter Marie Harington; £10 to Jane Harington; Allercombe (in certain events) to go to James Harington, charged as above," etc.

Certain Cornish manors to Geo. Rogers; if he alienate, etc., then to Francis Rogers; Marie Harington, my dau'r, to be executor, and Francis Rogers another executor. To be buried, if I die at Cannyngton, "by my husband Sir Geo. Rogers;" to be buried, if at Bath, "by John and Robert Harington;" to be buried, if in London, "by Sir Edward Rogers and my sonne Wm. Rogers." Proved May 20, 1602. Francis Rogers was a minor at the time of his appointment to executorship.

Abstract of the Will of Dame Marie Harington (née Rogers) of Kelston, Somerset, Widow.

Will (Goare 33) made 1st June, 1634.

To be buried in Kelston Church by my mother. £5 to my son John Harington; my son George; my dau'r Lady Frances Egerton;† my dau'r Jane, wife of John Roberts; my chaplain George Ivey, Clerke, £20; to my brother-in-law Francis Harington £5, and my lease of Fillgrove, in parish of Bitton; my furniture, etc., at Kelston, all furniture in my house at Bath, lease of the (?) Tennis Court adjoining to the Crosse Bowe Inn, to my daughter Elizabeth. Proved Feb. 23, 1636.

A sententia follows on the Will, in which Elizabeth Harington, executrix, is called Digge. Lady Frances Egerton disputed the Will, not being satisfied with a mere pecuniary legacy she received. Decision is given for its validity.

Abstract of the Will of William Harington,‡ of Kelston, co. Somerset. (From the Court of Probate, Wells.) Will dated 9th Sept., 1701.

To be buried at Kelston. Gives to his son John certain plate; to his son James certain other plate; to daughter Dionis £100 and a silver tankard; to his daughter

* In Calendar of State Papers, Domestic, vol. 1619-23 A.D., p. 566, mention is made of a Star Chamber Cause (Breviat), 1604, between Edw. Rogers and Sir John Harington. Francis Rogers accuses Sir John of conveying away plate, etc., from Cannington.

† Can any genealogist say who was Sir Raphe (sic) Egerton, the husband of this Lady Frances Egerton? Their marriage is entered in the Register of Richmond, in Surrey, Dec. 21, 1606; and they had a daughter, Helenar or Eleanor, bapt. at Kelston 1st Oct. 1615.

‡ This William Harington was the second surviving son of John Harington, Esq. (the Parliamentarian), and the Hon. Lady Dioness Ley. Can any clergyman or genealogist contribute to the knowledge of Harington history, by furnishing the Register of Marriage of William and Ann Harrington, whereby her maiden-name may be ascertained? Such a communication to 'Miscellanea Genealogica et Heraldica' would greatly oblige.

Phœbe Britton, wife of John Britton, plate. Lastly makes his wife Ann sole executrix. One of the witnesses of this Will was John Broad. The Will was proved by Anne his Relict, 12th May, 1702.

Abstract of the Will of Ann Harington, of Kelweston, Widow of the preceding William Harington.

(From the Court of Probate at Wells, Somerset.) Will dated 17th July, 1707.

After specifying as to burial, and after a religious clause in usual terms of that day, she adds, "To my son John 5s.; to my dau'r Diones, wife of William Hopper, one broad piece of gold; to my dau'r Phabey (Phœbe), wife of John Britton, best bed, etc.," and names "my grandchild William Harrington,* my grandchild Anne Harington,* my grandchildren William Hopper and Mary Hopper, my grandchildren John and Mary Britton.† All residue to James my son, he to be sole executor." One of the witnesses, John Broad. Proved 8th Sept. 1707.

Abstract of the Will of Miss Phœbe Harington,‡ of Weston-near-Bath.

(From the Court of Probate, Wells, Somerset.) Will dated 1704, 25th Feb.

My sister Helena Harington 20s. for a ring. To Mary, Vertue, Arabella, Elizabeth, four daughters of my sister Vertue Higginson, of Marshfield, £10 each at 16 years. John and Amy, son and daughter of my sister Alice Fecknaham, of Marshfield, £5 each at 16 years. Geo. Adams, my godson, 40s. Sarah Pexstone, wife of Thos. Pexstone,§ my sister Amy Macie‖ to be sole executrix. Will proved 7th Nov., 1709, by Amy, her executrix. Was witnessed inter alios testes by Wm. Hall.

Abstract of the Will of Miss Rebecca Harington, of Corston, co. Somerset.

(From the Court of Probate at Wells.) Will dated 10th Dec., 1731.

"My nephew John Harington, of Corston, Esq." to have a certain estate for term of years in lands, etc., called "Babers," and a chief rent at Corston (spelt Coston) of 5s. 6d. per annum, on three messuages at Corston, to him, his heirs and assigns for ever. "My nephew Wm. Harington of the City of Bristol, Gent.," to have lands and tenements in Weston, in the possession of the proprietors of the Brass Batteries at Weston, his heirs and assigns for ever. "My sister Elizabeth Harington,¶ Widow, and Mrs. Mary Harington,¶ £1 1s. each in gold, to buy a ring. My sisters, Amy Hall and Alice Facknam, £10 each. My three nieces,†† Mary Bennet, Vertue Osborne, Arabella Bryant, £5 each. To the poor of Corston, £5. My niece, Abigail Harington,‡‡ spinster, a diamond ring. Residue to my two nieces, Abigail and Elizabeth Harington,§§ to be equally divided, and they to be joint executors. Proved — day — 1749, by said Abigail and Elizabeth.

* These were the children of John Harrington, of Bitton, her eldest son.

† The testatrix's daughter Phœbe married Mr. John Britton, of Corston, at Kelston, 24th April, 1701, so these legatees were quite young in 1707.

‡ This testatrix was youngest dau'r of William and Ann Harington, and grand-daughter of John Harington, Esq., and the Hon. Lady Dioness his wife.

§ This family of Pexstone descended from Thomas Pexstone, Vicar of Weston-near-Bath, 1599, who made a copy of the early registers of the Parish, a thing to be recorded of him.

‖ She afterwards married a Hall. The Macies descended from John Macie, Vicar of Weston, qui ob. Jan. 1595-6.

¶ "My sister Elizabeth." This was Elizabeth, the second wife of testatrix's brother Benjamin, née Elizabeth Bushell. My sister, Mary Harington, was testatrix's half-sister, the eldest daughter of her father's fourth marriage with Helena Gostlett.

 My sister, Amy Hall. This lady had first married David Macie, Esq., vicar of Weston-near-Bath from 1698 to 1701; he died probably that year, sometime after May 11th. My sister, Alice Facknam. She was wife of the Rev. Thos. Fecknaham, Vicar of Marshfield, co. Glo'ster, whom she married after the death of her first husband, Mr. Edward Chetwynd.

†† The maiden-name of all these young married ladies was Higginson. Their father was a barrister, Mr. Joshua Higginson, connected with Marshfield.

‡‡ My niece, Abigail Harington, Spinster. Her single state did not long continue; in 1740-41 she married the Rev. Mr. Martin Hudson, Rector of Saltford, co. Somerset.

§§ Elizabeth remained Elizabeth Harington for the long period of 90 years, dying in 1708.

ADAMS.

ARMS.—Argent, on a cross gules five mullets or. CREST.—Out of a ducal coronet or a demi-lion affrontée gules. MOTTO.—Sub Cruce Salus.

In the 'New England Historical and Genealogical Register,' (Boston, Mass.) vol. vii. (1853), p. 39, is found a very ancient and apparently well-anthenticated pedigree of Adams, furnished by William Downing Bruce, Esq., F.S.A., of the Middle Temple, London, from the original "discovered among the papers of the late Edward Hamlin Adams, Esq., M.P. for the county of Carmarthen, and now (1853) in the possession of his son Edward Adams, Esq., of Middleton Hall, said county."

This pedigree traces seventeen generations from —— Ap Adam, who "came out of the Marches of Wales," and had a son Sir John Ap Adam, Kt., Lord Ap Adam, who mar. Elizabeth, dau. of John Lord Gourney of Beverston, co. Gloucester, and was summoned to Parliament as a Baron of the Realm, from 1296 to 1307.

William, of the fifteenth generation, as appears, mar. —— daughter of —— "Boringston (?)," and had sons, George, Lieut. in the service of Charles I., who m. —— dau. of Mr. Conrad Streetholt,* merchant of London, and d. in Barbadoes in 1647, leaving sons Conrad, George, and John, "living in 1680."

"Henry, d. in Braintree in New England 1646," leaving sons Henry, Sam... Joseph, . . . omas, Peter, and Edward, all "living in 1680."

Ambrose, "m. and had issue."

John, m. and had issue.

As early as 1645, a George Adams, "a glover," with wife Frances, settled in Watertown, Mass., and had issue, at least, six children, as appears by Bond's 'Genealogies of Watertown,' Paige's 'History of Cambridge,' and Hudson's 'History of Lexington.' In 1664, he sold to John Chinery "my house in Watertown and land adjoining," and removed to "Cambridge Farms," then an adjoining town, now Lexington. He was killed in Watertown, Oct. 10, 1696, "by the fall of a rock."

John Adams, a settler in Cambridge, as early as 1650 then adjoining Watertown, has been supposed by some to have been a brother of George; but positive proof is wanting to establish such relationship.

Henry Adams is known to have been the ancestor of the second and sixth Presidents of the United States, John and John Quincy Adams, and several others of the name noted in American history.

An "Ambross" Adams was an inhabitant of St. Michael's, Barbadoes, in 1680. (See Hotten's Lists, p. 443.)

I trace my lineage through seven successive generations from George and Frances of Watertown. That they emigrated hither, and that they were married prior to their coming, there can be no doubt; and that they married but a short time before their arrival seems probable, as all of their children were born in Watertown (the eldest, John, b. 6 Aug. 1645) prior to removal to Lexington.

The presumptive evidence, considering dates, names, etc., is strangely in favour of George of Watertown having been a son of Lieut. George of Barbadoes, and a nephew of Henry of Braintree.

I have in preparation a genealogy of the Adams family of this line, and am very desirous of connecting with our English ancestry, and therefore invite the co-operation of all concerned.

BARNES.—Can any of your readers give me any information concerning the parents of Henry Barnes, who was filacer for London and Middlesex? He was born circ. 1670, and died at Hampstead 1731, where he was buried. Any information concerning the family of Barne or Barnes, bearing the arms—Az., three leopards' faces or,—would be most acceptable.

TURNER.—I am anxious to trace the descent of John Turner, citizen and merchant of London, will dated 18th June, 1691, who mar. a Cartwright of Leicester, and was grandfather of Sir Edward Turner, Bart., of Ambrosden, co. Oxon. In all the books I have consulted he is said to be descended from an ancient Leicestershire family; but as yet I have been unable to trace the connection. Subjoined is a portion of a parchment roll pedigree, compiled circa 1818, by Charles Murray Lane, Chester Herald. It will be observed that there is a link wanting to connect John Turner of London with the Turners written above. If any of your readers can supply me with dates, names, etc., to fill in the blanks I should be greatly obliged. Also I want to learn particulars as to birth, marriage, etc., of Ambrose, Freelove, Page, the children of Gregory Page, who was father of the 1st Sir Gregory Page of Greenwich, Bart. These Pages are in the same pedigree said to be descended from the pages of Hampshire. Where can I find a pedigree of such a family? Dugdale.—1. Christopher Dugdale, Rector of Coulston 1569, Rector of Codford St. Peter (both co. Wilts) 1609; ob. 1633.

2. Thomas Dugdale, senior (of Seend, co. Wilts), sepultus Ap. 30, A.D. 1669, æt. 85; his wife Elizabeth Ap. 26, 1664, æt. 70. [There is a monument in Seend Church to Thomas Dugdale, second of that name in this parish of Seend, ob. 1684, and to his wife Prosper, ob. 1676. Arms.—Dugdale impaling Awdry.]

3. Thomas Dugdale, civis Londinensis. [Jane, the wife of Tho. Dugdale, civis Londini, d. of Ambrose Audry of Melksham (co. Wilts), is buried in St. Lawrence Jewry; ob. Sept. 17, 1692.]

These three are mentioned on a flat stone in Seend Church, great part of which is illegible or covered by the pews; the words "John (?) Dugdale of Coventry and . . . . Dugdale eques auratus de comitatu Warvicensi" also occur.

Can any of your correspondents place these names in the pedigree of the Warwickshire Dugdales, or give some information as to enable me to do so? The parish registers tell me nothing of their origin.—A. S.

Bate of Ashby de la Zouch (see Vol. II., N.S., page 490).—I have been able to procure a copy of the tablet formerly placed over the door of the library, given to the Vicar of Ashby and his successors by the Rev. Thomas Bate. The stone is now built into a wall at the Vicarage, and as part of the inscription is hidden by the spouts, I have restored the missing letters in italics.—J. P. R.

A Letter from the 'Nugæ Antiquæ' of Harington,

In which Sir Robert Sydney writes to Sir John Harington, K^{nt}, of Kelston, A.D. 1600, as follows:—

"I hear you have taken possession of Harington Park. Our Lawyers say your title is well grounded in conscience; But that strict law doth not countenance your Recovering those lands of your ancestors as the Queen's right is somewhat exstinguished by your Cosins Stephen,† & James‡ who left issue. And hereby it comyth not straight to the Queen, whose good will toward you is ever apparent.

"I have seen ancient records wherein it appeareth that Sir James Harington, slain in Bosworth Field, did give by will all these lands to his Brother Sir Robert."

* Sir James (bro. of Sir Wm., qui ob. 5 Hen. V.), whose line ran out in Stephen Harington, and who was living 1558.

† This Stephen was third son of James Harington of Wolphege, Clerk of the Bakehouse, and he died s.p., having previously sold his rights (according to Sir John of Kelston) to him (Sir J.).

‡ This James is Sir James of Wolphege, who left issue a son William (who died s.p. 1490) and eleven daughters.

(Confer the Ped. of the Harleian MS. 1549; but in this Sir James is not mentioned.)

* The arms of John Kirriel, Esq., of Sevenoaks in Kent are engraved in Budgen's Map of Sussex, 1724, (all these coats are blazoned in an article on the subject, by the present writer, in Sussex Archæological Collections, vol. xxv.), and are, Argent 2 chevrons and a canton gules, quartering—Ermine, on a fess gules 3 annulets or [Barton], over all on an escotcheon of pretence, party per chevron arg. and sable, in chief 2 eagles displayed, in base a fleur de lis.

The arms of Kiriell are the same as those of the ancient baronial and knightly family of Criol of Kent, and are derived from the family of Albini, who early obtained them from a match with De Clare. Croxton-Criol, co. Leic. was held of D'Albini of Belvoir Castle. Sir Thomas Kiriell, descended from Bertram De Criol living 1247, was the last male of the chief line, and was slain at the battle of St. Albans, leaving a daughter and heiress, married to John Fogg, Esq.

There is no pedigree of Barton in the Kentish Visitations; but they bore for arms Ermine on a fess gules 3 annulets or, the arms of the ancient family of Barton of Yorkshire.*

Barnes.—The following may interest your correspondent, Mr. Barnes. An old "Breviarium Romanum," MDCXLVI. (penes me), bearing the signatures of "Richd. Barnes London, A.D. 1648," "Jacob. Barnes: an° 1660," and lastly "Ex libris Thomæ Barnes Armig.," contains in a Kalendar of all the Saints these entries, which are written under the printed heading of the several months:—

Janvarivs	8.	De Octaua. "Henry Barnes ob. 1634, æt. 96."
	28.	Agnetis secundo. "Mrs. Barnes dyed 1663."
		"Conversio S. Pauli. Mary Barnes was born 173$\frac{5}{6}$."
Febvarivs	10.	"Natus fuit Ricardus Barnes 1660. Hen: Arondell & my ladye Willoghby goddfath^{r} and moth^{r}."
Martivs.		"die 5° Martii natus & Baptizatus fuit Henricus Barnes 174$\frac{9}{4}$ fil. me Thom. B. S^{r} Henry Tichburn & Miss Bellasis sponsors."
	22.	"Dorothie Barnes obiit 1616 ætat. 19 an."

Junivs	4.	"Natus & baptizs. fuit Ricardus Barnes 1700 fil. Ric: S^{r} ffr: Jernham & M^{rs} Plowden sponsors & M^{r} Arundell & Miss Bedingfeild Proxies."
Julivs	3.	De Octaua Apostolorum. "Richard son of Richard Barnes born 1726 at one a.m."
September	23.	Lini Papæ & Martyris. S. Theclæ virginis & Martyris. "Ob. Rich^{d} Barnes senior esq^{r} 1745 æt. 85 an."
October	29.	"Richard Barnes Borne 1769."
December	4.	Barbaræ virginis & martyris. "Barbara Barnes nat: 1627."

I shall be glad of any information from church registers, etc., relating to this family. I should add that the book contains an excellent pen and ink drawn bookplate, the blazon of the Arms being—Quarterly, or and vert, a crescent gules. Crest: a cubit arm grasping a crescent gules. On a riband "Richard Barnes, Esq^{r} 1703." It also contains some curious private notes, including mem. of names of women to whom alms were to be given, such as "Goody Brown, Goody Mawson, Goody Smythe, Goody Selbye," etc. Its last possessor at the latter end of last century was Richard Barnes, gentleman, of St. James's, Westminster, of an ancient Roman Catholic family (of large estate in Middlesex and Surrey), often mixed up in the "popish plots" of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries.

Feltoe.—Information required respecting the Feltoe Genealogy. The family supposed to be of Wiltshire origin.

Glenwood, Thames Ditton. Charles Tett Feltoe.

* The arms of Thomas Barton, gent. of Carter's Corner, viz., Ermine on a fess gemelle gules, 3 annulets argent, are engraved on Budgen's Map of Sussex before mentioned.

The name (in Kent) seems to have been originally written Berton or Burton. Alex. De Bertona held one knight's fee in that county of Walter Maminot, 1166. He was the same person probably as Alex. De Berton, who occurs 22 Hen. II., in the Pipe Roll for Oxon, and in that reign gave, with his son and heir Sir Wm. de B., the church of Burton in that county to the monks of Eynsham. Odo de B. occurs 1166 in Oxon; his son Humphrey de B. held one knight's fee of Philip de Hampton, and he had a brother Elyas. In the first year of Richard the Second John Barton, son of Alexander Barton, proved his age (Prob. Ætatis, Kent, No. 107).

Robert Crawley, born the 20 Sept. 1713, being Sunday about 5 in the morning. Christened Tuesday the 22 by M[r] Thatch. Mad[m] Boevey,[7] John Lloyd Jun[r],[17] and Robert Longden[23] gossops.

Cornelia Crawley,[24] born the 14th January, 1714.

James and Lucy, born Saturday the 12th May, 1716, in y[e] morning & Xnd private the same day by M[r] Thache. M[r] John Lloyd and Robert Longden[23] godfathers, & . . .

(1) Thomas Crawley inherited Flaxley Abbey under the will of William Boevey (dated 1692), by whose desire he "wrote himself" Boevey, as did the successive heirs of the estate; but till lately they were always called Crawley.

(2) Daughter of John Lloyd of London, merchant (erm., on a saltire gu. a crescent or), and Susanna his wife, daughter of Thos. Holliar.

(3) Query, James Boevey, brother of William (?)

(4) William Boevey Crawley. The younger sons and daughters were both called, and wrote themselves, Crawley only.

(5) Thomas Crawley (father of Thomas Crawley Boevey) of London and Twickenham, died March, 1714.

(6) John Lloyd above mentioned. He d. April 8, 1716.

(7) Katharine, daughter of John Riches of London, merchant (ar., 3 fountains az.), married in 1685, to William Boevey above mentioned. She is said to be the "widow" mentioned in the 'Spectator' as the inexorable love of Sir Roger de Coverley. She d. 1726. M.I. at Flaxley and in Westminster Abbey.

(8) Susanna Lloyd above mentioned. She d. July 11, 1726.

(9) Elder brother of Thomas Crawley Boevey.

(10) Sister of Mrs. Crawley Boevey. She married Robert Longden of Gloucester, and was buried at Flaxley Dec. 21, 1730.

(11) Her brother William, afterwards Rector of Stowe-nine-Churches, co. Northampton. He d. cœlebs July 1, 1754. Buried at Flaxley.

(12) Married May 14, 1745, to Dr. John Lloyd, afterwards Rector of Stowe aforesaid. She d. March, 1762.

(13) Mary, wife of Thos. Crawley aforesaid, daughter of David Bonnell by Anne his wife, daughter of Andrew Boevey.

(14) Mary Holliar, sister of Susanna Lloyd, married a Mr. Foster.

(15) Cornelia, afterwards wife of Petley Ley of Deptford.

(16) Father of the first Baronet of the name. He was married May 14, 1743, to his cousin Susanna Lloyd. Buried at Flaxley Dec. 1, 1769.

(17) John Lloyd of London and Gloucester, merchant, born 1680. Married Susanna, daughter of John White by Susanna (Ayleway), his 2nd wife. Buried in Christchurch, Newgate Street, Nov. 6, 1744.

(18) John Crawley was an attorney, and died unmarried.

(19) "Madam Boevey," was then aged 46; and this was probably John Riches, her father.

(20) A daughter of John Pope of Bristol, merchant, and Margaret his wife, and half-sister to Charles Barrow of St. Kitts, father of Sir Charles Barrow, Bart., M.P. for Gloucester, whose baronetcy was granted with remainder to Mr. Thomas Crawley Boevey. She died March 24, 1746, aged 81.

(21) William Crawley was Incumbent of Flaxley, co. Glouc., and died unmarried; buried there Dec. 3, 1780.

(22) Probably Mrs. Ayleway, that is to say, Anne, sister of Mrs. John White,[17] and aunt of Mrs. John Lloyd, jun[r]. She died at Gloucester, 1720. Will proved Dec. 3. It may, however, have been one of her brothers; "Mr." Charles being in that case an error.

(23) Robert Longden of Gloucester,[10] born 1674, died 1724.

(24) Wife of James Heywood of London, merchant.

MONUMENTAL INSCRIPTIONS, ETC., IN THE CHURCH OF ST. PETER, AT ST. GEORGE'S, BERMUDA.*

In memory of Harriott Annabella, wife of Lieut.-Colonel William Lloyd, Commandant of the Royal Artillery in this garrison, who departed this life on the 26th day of July, 1830, aged 52 years.

Also of the above Lieut.-Colonel William Lloyd, R.A., who departed this life on the 26th day of May, 1831, aged 52 years.

This tablet is erected by Hugh Morris Lang, William Lang, and Jane Montgomerie Lang, Largs, N.B, to the memory of their brother John Lang, a native of Largs, Scotland, who died on board the steamer Merlin, on a voyage from St. Thomas to Bermuda, on the 25th August, 1851. Interred in the vault of Mr. John Barr.

"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord." Farewell! Sacred to the memory of Mary, wife of Commodore Sir John Poer Beresford, Kt., on whom, during a short but highly exemplary life, Providence bestowed the greatest of its blessings, true benevolence of heart, a lively imagination governed by a sound judgment, correct and pleasing manners, an attractive person, the love of an affectionate husband, and friendship that survives the tomb; she died on the 1st of July, 1813, aged 23, and lies buried near this monument.

To the memory of Margery, the beloved wife of Dr. Joseph Stuart Hunter, and fourth daughter of Major Dunn, of Maskinongé, Canada East, who died of yellow fever at St. George's, on the 27th October, 1853, aged 25 years.

Also of Dr. Oscar Dunn, her brother, who died of pulmonary consumption, on the 15th of December, 1851, aged 28 years. This tablet is erected by a bereaved husband.

Sacred to the memory of Christopher Hyland, late a Lieutenant in H.M. 62nd Regiment of Foot, who departed this life on the 14th of November, 1817, aged 34 years and 4 months, who has left an affectionate wife and infant son to lament his loss.

To the memory of Thomas Burch Tucker, M.D., born June 4th, 1778, died May 5th, 1846. This tablet is erected as a mark of filial affection, by his son-in-law Charles H. Maréchaux, Captain in H.M.'s St. Helena Regiment, and his children Julia Maréchaux and St. George W. Tucker, M.D.

* Communicated by Lieut.-Colonel VIGORS.

To the memory of John Van Norden, Esquire, late Deputy Grand-Master of the Provincial Grand Lodge, of Bermuda, and nineteen years Mayor of the town of St. George's, who departed this life, 30th September, 1823, aged 67 years. In testimony of their high regard and approbation of his conduct while acting as Master, this tablet is erected by the brethren of St. George's Lodge, No. 266.

In the adjoining churchyard lie the remains of Frederick Arabin, Lieutenant Colonel Royal Artillery, sixth son of Henry Arabin, Esq., of Moyglare, co. Meath, Ireland, who while in command of H.M. Forces in these Islands died August 17th, 1843, in his 57th year.

Eliza Arabin died in January of the same year, and is interred in Stonehouse churchyard, Devon, England. This monument is erected in loving remembrance by their children. "He that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live, and whosoever believeth in me shall never die." St. John xi. 25, 26.

Sacred to the memory of James H. Scott, first clerk, Ordnance Department, Æ: 33, who was drowned by the upsetting of his boat, in a terrific squall, 10th February, 1834. He was universally respected, and his melancholy fate most deeply deplored.

At the east end near the last is a marble tablet in memory of Martha Bascome, wife of Archibald Shedden, Esq., who departed this life, January 25th, 1839, aged 66 years.

In memory of Fanny Louisa, wife of Captain E. F. Hare, and daughter of Colonel W. H. Eden, 56th Regiment, who died at St. George's of yellow fever, on the 15th of September, 1853, aged 20 years.

Also of Captain E. F. Hare, 56th Regiment, son of Major Hare, of the Retreat, Plymouth, who died at St. George's, of yellow fever, on the 17th September, 1853, aged 30 years, having only survived his beloved wife 48 hours, and to whom he had been united scarcely one year. "Lovely and pleasant were they in their lives, and in their death they were not divided." This tablet is erected by their affectionate parents.

Sacred to the memory of Lieut. I. M. T. Borton, of H.M. 30th Regiment, who departed this life at Bermuda, April 19th, 1838, leaving an affectionate wife to mourn his loss, and sincerely regretted by his brother officers, one of whom has erected this tablet, in testimony of a friendship which was interrupted only by death.

A handsome white marble monument, thereon the figure of a woman weeping, a plant in a vase at her feet, beside her an urn inscribed W. C., and a sword, crown, etc.; in her left hand she holds a roll, on which is written, "I shall go to him, but he shall not return to me." J. Bacon, sculptor, London, 1798. Sacred to the memory of His Excellency William Campbell, Esquire, Governor of these Islands, and Lieut.-Colonel of the 24th Regiment of Foot, who was seized with a fever, and died a few days after his arrival, December 2nd, 1796, in his 46th year. Thus by one fatal stroke, the blessings of his public virtues, and the endearments of his private friendship, expired for ever, and his solitary relict, whose happiness was suspended on the tenderness of his heart, endeavours to soothe her sorrow by inscribing this marble with his much loved name.

Juxta Conduntur Reliquiæ, Adelaidæ Louisæ, Arturi Gulielmi Twiss Conjugis, Unice Dilectæ quæ in spem resurrectionis ad vitam Æternam; obiit Junii Die Vigesimo Sexto, Anno Salutis MDCCCLII, Ætatis xxii.

Died at Bermuda, Nov. 17th, 1744, in the 46th year of his age, after nine days' illness of a bilious fever, The Good Governor, Alured Popple, Esq., during the course of his administrations, which, to the inconsolable grief of the inhabitants, continued but six years. Of the many strangers who resorted thither for their health, the observing easily discovered in him, under the graceful veil of modesty, an understanding and abilities equal to a more important trust. The gay and polite were charmed with the unaffected elegance and amiable simplicity of his manners; and all were chear'd by his hospitality and diffusive benevolence, which steadily flowed, and undisturbed, from the heart. To praise according to his merit the deceased, would be but too sensible a reproach to the living, and to enumerate the many rare virtues which shone united in the Governor of that little spot, were to tell how many great talents and excellent endowments are wanting in some, whom the capriciousness of fortune exposes in a more elevated and conspicuous station.

Arms.—Quarterly, 1 and 4. Or on a bend gules three eagles displayed of the first. 2 and 3. A chevron argent between three heads (?) erased of the second; impaling two coats per fess. 1*st*, ... ? 2*nd*, Azure a lion passant gardant gules.

To the memory of Alexander George Woodford, Lieutenant 56th Regiment (third son of Lieutenant-General Sir Alexander, and Lady Woodford), who was cut off in the 29th year of his age, by yellow fever, when in the performance of his regimental duties, at St. George's, the 12th of September, 1853. This tablet is inscribed by his afflicted widow and parents. His remains are interred in the churchyard.

ABSTRACT OF THE LAST WILL OF LADY DOUGLAS SHEFFIELD, THE REPUDIATED WIFE OF ROBERT DUDLEY, EARL OF LEICESTER.*

But few notices are recorded by heralds and historians of the eventful life of the Lady Douglas Sheffield—as she was commonly called—the repudiated wife of Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester. Almost all that we know of her is contained in Camden's 'Annals of the Reign of Elizabeth,' Gervase Holles's 'Memoirs of the Holles Family,' and Dugdale's 'Abstracts (see his 'Warwickshire' and 'Baronage') of the Depositions and Judgment in the Court of Star Chamber in a suit commenced in February, 1603–4, by Lettice, widow of the Earl of Leicester, against Sir Robert Dudley, Kt., and Alice his wife, the Lady Douglas Sheffield (then wife of Sir Edward Stafford, Kt.), mother of the said Sir Robert Dudley, Sir Thomas Leigh (father of Alice Lady Dudley), and others.

After the close of those proceedings in Easter term, 3 Jac. 1605, the only further mention of her is made in a News letter of John Chamberlain to Dudley Carleton, under date of 16 December, 1608, wherein he remarks "that the old Lady Sheffield is dead."

The following is a summary of the information derived from these sources:—Lady Douglas Sheffield was born about the year 1545, eldest daughter of Lord William Howard, Lord Howard of Effingham, by his second wife, Margaret, second daughter of Sir Thomas Gamage, Kt., of Coity, co. Glamorgan. She married first, about 1562, when she was seventeen years old, John, second Baron Sheffield, by whom she had a son and daughter, viz., Edmund, third Baron, and Elizabeth, who became the second wife of Thomas Butler, Earl of Ormonde. The Earl of Leicester—attracted by Lady Sheffield's youth and beauty—had an intrigue with her in her husband's life-time; and after Lord Sheffield's death,—which occurred in December, 1568, not without suspicion of poison,—she entered into a contract of marriage with the Earl of Leicester, in Cannon Row, Westminster; and two years after they were married at Esher, Surrey, according to the rite of the Church of England, about the year 1572, the Earl binding her to secrecy for fear of the Queen's displeasure. In 1573, she gave birth, at Shene, near Richmond, Surrey, to their only son, afterwards Sir Robert Dudley, Kt. Walter Devereux, Earl of Essex,—dying in September, 1576,—the Earl of Leicester, being captivated by the beauty of Lettice, the widowed Countess of Essex, tried to persuade Douglas, his wife, to disclaim her marriage with him, offering to settle £700 per annum upon her if she would do so, and to give her a further sum of £1000 if she would give up the custody of their son. The consequence of her refusal was that the Earl of Leicester repudiated his marriage with her, and married the Countess of Essex at Wanstead House, Essex, in September, 1578; and so terrified his repudiated wife that she, for protection, and the security of her life, contracted marriage with Sir Edward Stafford, Kt., of Chebsey, the Queen's Ambassador at the French Court. Of this marriage there does not appear to have been any issue; and she died in December, 1608.

* Communicated by B. W. Greenfield, Esq.

To these particulars, I am able to add the following:—In Additional MS. 15,506, in the Brit. Museum, are three letters, dated in October, 1594, from Lady Sheffield and her husband, Sir Edward Stafford, addressed to Sir Julius Cæsar, then Judge of the Court of Admiralty, which throw a ray of light on her life. No. 323, without date, is written from Richmond, (probably from her house at Shene, where her son Robert Dudley was born), by "Dougless Sheffield," inviting Dr. Cæsar to go down to have an interview with her own brother upon her affairs, and offering the use of her horses for the journey, and that he can obtain them at her house at Westminster.

No. 368, dated 16 October, 1594, is in the handwriting of Sir Edward Stafford, and signed by both himself and his wife, "Dougless Sheffield." Therein, Sir Edward asks—in the names of "my wife and I"—Sir Julius Cæsar to interest himself with his father-in-law, the Lord Mayor (Martin), to shew a favour to a prisoner in Newgate, one "oolde" (old) Captain Moffet, that his friends may be allowed to visit and speak with him.

No. 456, dated from Drury House, 22 October, 1594, is from Sir Edward Stafford, thanking Dr. Cæsar for his attention to Sir Edward's and his wife's request, and stating that his wife is at Highgate. The dating from Drury House is explained by the fact that his sister Elizabeth Stafford, one of the Ladies of the Queen's Bedchamber, was widow of Sir William Drury, Kt., of Hawsted, to whom she was married in the Royal Chapel at Greenwich.

Both Sir Edward Stafford and his wife, Lady Sheffield, were buried in the parish church of St. Margaret's, Westminster, as is shewn by the following extracts from the Burials Register of that Church:—

1604[–5]. February 5th. ✠Sir Edward Stafford, Knight.✠
1608. December 11th. The Lady Dugleys Sheaffeilde.

Her last Will has never been published in type, and seems, hitherto, to have escaped the notice of genealogists. I discovered it among the Wills registered in the Court of the Commissary of the Dean and Chapter of Westminster. All its chief points of interest are contained in the following abstract.

Dowglas Lady Sheffield, in health of body and mind, make this my Will. To be buried at Rigate (Reigate, Surrey) with my father and mother, or in the parish Church of Westminster (sic), by my sister Dudley,* as shall seem good to my children and my executor. To the poor of Kenelworth £5, and to Timothy Delayne the preacher there £4. To my beloved son the right honorable Edmund, Lord Sheffield† (some great chairs of silk needlework, etc.). I give to my honorable and beloved son Sir Robert Dudley, Kt. (a black velvet bed, etc.). To my daughter-in-law Lady Ursula Sheffield* (a velvet gown with buttons of pearl). To my daughter Lady Elizabeth Swift,† whom I brought up from infancy (chairs, etc.). To my daughter Mrs. Frances Fairfax,‡ (a great chair, etc.). To my daughter Mistress Marie Sheffeild,‖ a border of gold pearl and stone of seventeen pieces whereof eight be rubies and diamonds and pearl (etc.). To my beloved friend the Lady Waller, my hatband. To my friend Mr. Crawshawe, preacher of the Temple (a bed, etc.). To William Lenthall, my old servant, my silver candlestick. To Mrs. Salisbury.§ To Mary Morton my woman. I give my body linen to Mrs. Savile and Mrs. Salisbury and my two maids to be divided into four parts: one part to Marie Morton; one part to Mrs. Savile; and the other two parts equally between Mrs. Salisbury and my two maids. To Humfry Browne my servant £20 over his wages; and to my other servants half a year's wages extra. To my woman Saule a kirtle. To Mary Turner my ancient. Whereas I have certain Jewels mortgaged to Lenthall, my will is that my executors shall redeem the same. All Residue to William Crawshawe, preacher, and I make him executor of this my Will, and Edmund Lord Sheffeild my son, and Sir Edward Swift, Kt.,¶ overseers of the same. Dated 14 September, 1608. I give to my beloved niece Mrs. Diana Drurie a carknet†† with rubies, diamonds and pearle, which is in Lenthall's hands. Douglas Sheffield. Register Elsam, folio 575.

* Mary Howard, married 1st, as third wife, to Edward Sutton, Lord Dudley, who died 1586, and was buried in St. Margaret's, Westminster; married 2nd, Richard Mompesson, Esq. She died 21 Aug. 1600, and was buried in the same church, where a monument was erected to her memory.

N.B.—In the Act Book, folio 135, the place for the Probate of this Will is left blank: the preceding Probate is dated 1 July, 1609, and that following, 30 June, 1609.

Williams.—In Prendergast's 'Cromwellian Settlement of Ireland,' p. 433, is given the name of "John Williams, ffeltmaker," recorded as No. 919 in the "List of Adventurers" who advanced money towards the War Fund, and were repaid in land. John Williams subscribed £50, and received therefor lands in Monaghan Co. called—either then or subsequently—"The Groves." This John Williams was from a family in Glamorganshire, Wales. I will be very grateful for any information as to his descent, or other particulars regarding his family in Wales.

‖ This was Magdalene Salisbury, who, according to the sentence pronounced in Easter Term, 1605, in the Court of Star Chamber, asserted that she was present at Lady Sheffield's marriage with the Earl of Leicester, and for which assertion she was fined £100, and condemned to be ever after held suspected touching the marriage and legitimation of Sir Robert Dudley, Kt., the son of Lady Sheffield by the Earl of Leicester.

¶ Husband of her granddaughter, Elizabeth Sheffield.

 Diana Drury was niece of Lady Sheffield's husband, Sir Edward Stafford, being the third daughter of Sir William Drury, Kt., of Hawsted, Suffolk, who was slain in a duel by Sir John Borough, Kt., in 1589, by his wife Elizabeth Stafford. Diana Drury, in April, 1615, became, with her two elder sisters, Frances, Lady Wray of Glentworth, and Elizabeth, wife of William, Lord Burghley (afterwards 2nd Earl of Exeter), one of the three coheirs of the Drury estates, by the death, without issue, of her only brother, Sir Robert Drury, Kt. In December, 1616, she married Sir Edward Cecil (brother of her sister's husband, Lord Burghley), and brought to her husband a fortune of £10,000 or £12,000. She was his second wife. In 1625, he was created Baron Cecil of Putney, and in 1626, Viscount Wimbledon. Lady Wimbledon died without issue, and was buried at Wimbledon 5 May, 1631.

Carey and Young.—I shall be glad if any of your correspondents can give me any information concerning the family of a maid of honour of Queen Elizabeth of the name of . . . . Carey or Cary, who married a merchant of London named Christopher Young, whose eldest son Christopher was possessor of and known as of Ethardacres (Edderacres or Edward's Acres), parish of Easington, co. Pal., who married Jane, dau. of . . . . Reed, Esq., of Shotton, co. Pal.; whose son Robert married Jane, dau. of Edward Johnson, merchant of Newcastle (Mr. Robert Young died circa 1665), and his son, Christopher Young, a Doctor of Physic at Newcastle, who in 1666 was aged 29. He married Sarah, dau. of Ralph Maddison, merchant of Newcastle. In addition to daughters, he had surviving of a family of fourteen children, five sons—Ralph, Christopher, Thomas, Robert, and Lionel—all christened at the Church of St. Nicholas at Newcastle. What became of his descendants?

The Huguenot Refugee Family of Guillemard.

Communicated by HENRY WAGNER, Esq., F.S.A.

According to family tradition, John Guillemard was brought over to England as a child from the neighbourhood of Caudebec (probably Bolbec) in Normandy, in the care of a grandfather, his father having "shortly before the emigration dropped down dead in the market place." By his will he left £100, "if the Protestant subjects residing in Bollebec, in Upper Normandy, obtain leave to erect and build a church before or by the expiration of 1780," towards that object, and, failing this, to go in equal shares to the French Church in Threadneedle Street and the French Hospital of "La Providence," Old Street Road.*

* Mr. Samuel Smiles ('The Huguenots,' 1870), alleges John Guillemard, refugee from Champdeniers, where he had been minister, who "abjura le Protestantisme, & fut dépogé au Synode de Charenton en 1613," to have been ancestor of this family. This appears more than doubtful. But probably Marie Guillemard, "femme de Jaques Beuzeville de Bolbec, refugiée en Angleterre, en 1711," by whom she left issue, belonged to it.

† John Guillemard was a remarkable man, and on terms of friendship with Louis Philippe, Talleyrand, Washington, etc. He travelled much in his youth with the Duc de la Rochefoucauld-Liancourt, in whose volumes he is frequently mentioned, especially in America ; and was appointed (about 1800) one of the Commissioners for settling disputed points between Great Britain and the United States of America.

* Abraham Wesselowski, a Russian of noble birth, was somewhile Ambassador of Peter the Great to the Court of Vienna, but fled thence on his summons to St. Petersburgh, after the sentence and supposed violent death, in 1718, of the Czarevitch Alexis, whose personal friend he had been. He proposed to settle in England, where his brother Theodore was Russian Ambassador from 1717 to 1720, and, some years after, obtained an Act of Naturalization, but finally elected to settle at Geneva (when he changed the form of his name to De Wesselow, and), where he married into the family of Fabri, and died, in his 100th year, in 1782. HARINGTON OF SOMERSET.

In returning from Devon to the main line of Harington in Somerset, we give

A Brief Memoir and some other Notes of John Harington, Esq., of Kelston.

M.P. for Bath 1646–54–56.

John Harington, Esq., Member of Parliament for Bath, Justice of the Peace for the county of Somerset, son and heir of Sir John Harington, Knt., was born in 1589, and succeeded to the family estates in 1612. By some strange fatality—whether by the teaching of his tutor, as some allege, or by the force of his own inward promptings—he adopted Puritan principles, and to the great surprise of his father's friends and connection at large, remained a strong Parliamentarian through life. His political bias enables us to attribute to him, for distinction among many John Haringtons in succession, the sobriquet of "the Parliamentarian," and henceforth we intend to particularize him by that designation, just as we distinguished the John Harington who was father of the Knight by calling him "John of Stepney."*

The future "Parliamentarian" matriculated at Oxford 7 Dec. 1604, from Trinity College (which was also the college of James Harington, the author of the 'Republic of Oceana'), as a Knight's son, at the early age of thirteen. After taking his degree, he became a member of Lincoln's Inn, and spent much of his early life there engaged in literary pursuits. It is said that besides Law and Mathematics, he then took up the study of Hebrew, which special study would seem to point him out as the John Harington whose name is associated with some metrical translations of the Psalms from the original Hebrew.

The tone and character of this Son were in complete contrast with his father. The Knight had been everything by turns,—courtier, soldier, wit, poet, country squire, mechanician, satirist, church restorer,—nay more, it was by no means his own fault that he had not late in his life taken Holy Orders, like his ancestor the Dean of York, Sir James Harington of Brierley, and become per saltum Archbishop of Dublin and Governor of Ireland, for which, according to his own shewing in his 'Treatise on the State of Ireland,' he was in every way supremely qualified. John Harington, the son, was on the other hand careful, cautious, sober-minded in everything. If he retained the family taste for poetry and music, he took care to apply it to psalms and psalm-tunes. He never wrote such a stave as that from the Black Sanctus of John of Stepney, which we are told used to haunt King Henry, the Defender of the Faith, and move him to whistle or hum it as he reflected on Monks, Religion, and Reform. John the Parliamentarian was the writer of 'Essays and Dialogues in favour of the Presbyterian Doctrine.' We cannot by any stretch of imagination suppose him to have been the author of the fugitive pieces printed in the 'Nugæ,' entitled Polindor and Flostella. Nor do we suppose that he ever wrote sonnets for ladies of the county when engaged at Quarter Sessions, which would have been quite "the thing" for his father to do. Much less could

* To set up a clear distinction between the successive John Haringtons would seem to be the more needful, because some confusion in their biographies has been already created by various writers. For instance, the learned authoress of 'The Queens of England,' in treating of the reigns of the Queens Mary and Elizabeth, and the confidential doings of the Lord High Admiral Seymour, has usually spoken of John Harington the elder (who was in the household of the Lord Admiral) as Sir John Harington, thus leading many to think of the son, who was a Knight and courtier during the close of Queen Elizabeth's reign, and for a short time in that of King James. But that the elder Harington was not a Knight is indisputably proved by the wording of the grant of arms made to him in 1568, in which he is expressly described as John Harington, Esquire, we conceive that any index-maker* would give us a reference to him as Sir "Ajax" Harington. There was not a spark in him of such humour as the Ajax contained. The bent of his mind, after pursuit of studies, was sedulously to discharge his public and private duties.

Indeed it is said (and the tradition may be true?) that he had a rigid ruler in Dionysia his wife, one of the daughters of James Ley, first Earl of Marlborough. Moreover, he became connected by the alliance of his daughter with such families as Pym and Rous. He was certainly the only Harington of Kelston with so grave a temperament, but the Puritan was unmistakeable in him. [His name may be seen recorded in Prestwich's 'Republic.'] There is a story on record about this John Harington, that he once sought an audience with King Charles at Carisbrooke Castle; and the audience having been granted, the King said of him after the interview, that he could "see that man's pride through the hole in a stocking!"

We will only say further that this is the John Harington named in the Herald's note at the end of the County Visit. 1613, under "Bath Forum Hundred"—"John Harington Ar will be at London. He married the Lord Chief Justice's daughter" [Dionysia Ley]. His matrimonial connection is further testified to in State Papers (Domestic), Sept. 24, 1626, where the Lord Treasurer Ley desired that his "son-in-law Mr Harington might serve as Deputy and give the Charge at the Sessions held at Bridgewater."

He died, we know, in April, 1654, but we can find no register of his burial, nor any tablet to his memory. We are guided to the date of his decease by the probate of his will in July of that year. He is supposed to have been buried at Kelston, but the registral entry is wanting, as already stated, and it seems most remarkable that with such county position there should be no tomb nor mural monument erected, either to his memory or to that of the witty Knight his father, either at Kelston or in Bath Abbey.†

Oct. 28th,	,,	I spake in the Debate with approbatn. (I Thank God.)

An Enumeration of Lands belonging to John Harington of Kelston, Esq., taken from a MS. in his handwriting in the early part of 17th century,—probably made in 1612, when he succeeded his father the Knight.

(Compare with this the estates named in Lady Rogers' Will, 'Mis. Gen. et Her.,' Vol. III., p. 228.)

* Cf. Cal. State Papers, Dom. 1599 (Vol. 1598–1601), p. 306—"Sir Ajax Harington."

† The monument attributed to Sir John Harington's memory by Collinson, in his 'History of Somerset,' is extant still at Kelston. It is, however, a ledger stone of no real antiquity (laid down as a record of their genealogy by some late member of the family?) upon which reference is made to their Cumberland origin, and the name of Sir John Harington, Kt., is inscribed. (See 'Mis. Gen. et Her.' Vol. III., p. 34.)

* "Trembletier." Query this the same with Trembelthee of Lady Rogers' will?

† In this enumeration of Cornish estates the absence of Trebarveth is to be noticed. It certainly belonged to John Harington the Parliamentarian (see his will). Perhaps the explanation may be that Trebarveth Manor passed to him direct (1598) from his grandmother; whereas the properties now enumerated came to him at his father's death only (1612). His mother (née Mary Rogers) may have been dowered out of them even then, and later, down to 1634, the date of her death.

‡ "Maran." Can this be the Westmeadon of Lady Rogers' will?

Contents in Brief of the Will of John Harington, Esq., of Kelston (The Parliamentarian).

(Will Aylett 300.) Dated 21st April, 1654.

Confirms the settlement of Kelston on his wife for life. And as to Corston Manor farm and parsonage—my meadow, etc., at Compton—my manor of Trebarveth, co. Cornwall—the Parsonage of Weston—Rents of £20 per An^{m} out of Catherine's [near Bath]—I bequeath these all wholly to my eldest son John, on condition that he provide for my dau'r Phœbe's marriage* portion £1500, and for my son William £1000, and to him I give the lands I purchased according to Parliamentary proposition in co. Waterford, Ireland, for £200. My wife to be Ex^{x}.

Signed in the presence of Griffin Smith (Minister of the Parish from 1653 to 1681) and John Merewether. Proved 6th July, 1654, by Dionis Harington, relict.

Memorandum in John Harington's Private Papers.

Briant.—I should be very much obliged for any notes or suggestions relating to the pedigree of William and Elizabeth Briant, and also for any advice as to the means of obtaining information about this Swedish family of Nyberg. Is it possible that L. T. Nyberg was related to the great Swedish General Torstenson?

William Briant of New York. [? of Huguenot descent.] = Elizabeth . . . . died aged 44, either at New York or Bethlehem, P^{a}. [Her mother, who died in London, came of a Huguenot family—name unknown—which emigrated from France to London circ. 1700.]

Martha Briant, born at New York 4 Feb. 1725; marr. at Bethlehem, P^{a}, 23 May, 1745; bur. at Fulneck, Yorkshire, 25 June, 1803. = Laurence Torstenson Nyberg, born in Sweden 4 March, 1720; probably graduated at Upsala; went to Lancaster, P^{a}, as a Lutheran minister, but became a Moravian minister at Bethlehem in 1746 or 1748. In the course of his ministry visited London, Herrnhut, Dublin, Bristol, Leominster, and Fulneck. Returned to Sweden in 1774, and again became a Lutheran minister. Died in Sweden 30 May, 1792.

Jeremiah Carter of Hill Top House, Pudsey, great-grandson of Jeremiah Carter, who in 1664, mar. Mary Miller at Elland Church, Yorkshire. = Mary Agnes Nyberg, born at Dublin 13 Oct. 1766; mar. at Parish Church of Calverley Yorkshire, 24 July, 1780.

Hazelwood. William F. Carter.

* His eldest daughter, Mary, had been provided for at marriage. See Memorandum.

† She was probably married by civil ceremony, of which marriages there are no records extant at Kelston. The same remark will apply to the marriage of his dau'r Phœbe with Robert Rous of Wotton, co. Cornub.

Armorial Bookplate.

Motto.—Vertuti Vigila.

The Ven^ble William Jackson, D.D., younger son of the Rev. Thomas Jackson, Rector of Grasmere. Westmorland, by Sarah, dau. and heiress of Thomas Partridge, Esq., was born at the Rectory, Grasmere, 17th Dec. 1792. In 1811 he took his degree of B.A. with honours (2nd class lit. hum.) at Queen's College, Oxford, of which he was a scholar, and subsequently fellow, tutor, and bursar. In 1827 he was Whitehall preacher. Domestic Chaplain to the Earl of Verulam and the Earl of Lonsdale; he was presented by the latter in 1828 to the living of Lowther, Westmorland, which he held up to the time of his death. At various times he also held the livings of Cliburn, St. John's, Whitehaven, and Penrith. From 1846–1855 he was Chancellor of the Diocese of Carlisle, Archdeacon from 1856–1862, and Canon of Carlisle 1858–1862, in which year he was elected Provost of Queen's College, Oxford. He was also a J.P. for the counties of Westmorland and Cumberland.

Dr. Jackson married 9th May, 1829, Julia Eliza, eldest dau. of John Gregory Crump of Allan Bank, Westmoreland, Esq., by his wife Mary, only dau. and eventually heiress of John Hamerton, Esq., by whom he had issue four daughters: (1) Julia-Marian, (2) Louisa-Lilias, both died young, (3) Georgiana-Isabella, and (4) Agnes-Beatrice, married 17 April, 1879, her cousin John Hamerton Crump, 2nd son of the late George Hamerton Crump of Chorlton, Cheshire, Esq., J.P. for co. Salop, by his 2nd wife Harriet-Fanny, dau. and heiress of Lieut.-Col. Thomas Maddock.

The Ven^ble Archdeacon Jackson died 13th Sept. 1878, his wife having died 7th March, 1873. Both are buried at Lowther. Dr. Jackson quartered with his paternal coat the arms of Partridge, Dalton, and Braithwayte.

SCOTT FAMILY.*

Signature of Elizabeth Scott, daughter of Richard Scott of Smeeth, Esq., to an Indenture dated 1 July, 1621, between Sir Thomas Derham of West Derham, co. Norfolk, Kt., and Dame Anne his wife of the first part; and Thomas Derham, Esq., sone and heir apparent of the said Sir Thomas Derham, and Hugh Hamersley, Alderman of the City of London, of the second part; and Elizabeth Scott, da. of Richard Scott, late of Smeeth, co. Kent, Esq., deceased, Sir Richard Smyth of Leeds Castle, co. Kent, Kt., and Edward Scott of Scotts Hall in said county of Kent, Esq., of the third part: being settlement on marriage of Thomas Derham with Elizabeth Scott.

To make this extremely interesting instrument thoroughly intelligible, it is merely necessary to append the following genealogical table, which exhibits the relationship and family connection of the principal persons mentioned in the deed.

The family of Derham of West Dereham in the county of Norfolk were some three or four centuries ago people of county consideration, and one would judge from the tenor of the terms of the settlement that the Dame Anne mentioned as the wife of Sir Thomas Derham was either a daughter or sister of Sir Hugh Hammersley, Alderman of London,—doubtless of the same family as the Hammersleys recently, if not now, Bankers in London. The eldest branch of the Smythe family has come to an end, the Viscount Strangford, who died a few years ago, having been the last male heir of that branch. The importance of the family of Smythe of Ostenhanger and Leeds Castles in Kent is indicated below. Ostenhanger Castle, with its 126 rooms and 365 windows, now only exists as an interesting ruin,—the tower in which Rosamond Clifford (Fair Rosamond) is traditionally said to have been some time concealed by her Royal lover being still a portion of the embattled walls;—whilst Leeds Castle remains the most interesting moated and castellated mansion in Kent.

Sir John Scott of Nettlested, uncle of Elizabeth Scott, wife to Thomas Derham, was employed in high situations of trust in the military enterprizes of the unfortunate Earl of Essex, in Flanders, Spain, and Ireland, and was with that unhappy nobleman confined in the Tower of London, and doomed to death for participation in the quixotic conspiracy of the favourite of Queen Elizabeth. Sir John Scott's life was however spared at the intercession of his first wife (granddaughter of Edward, last Duke of Buckingham of the Stafford line) with the Queen, Elizabeth Stafford being one of the Ladies of the Bedchamber to that monarch. Sir John Scott, as an expiation of his treasonable offence, served the Queen in Flanders for the remainder of that monarch's existence, and then returned to England.

my Executor within the space of five yeares after my decease. And I make and ordaine my said brother Richard Penne the sole Executor of this my last will and testament. In witness whereof I have to this my last will and testament subscribed and sett my hande and seale the two and twentieth day of Aprill aforesaid, Anno Dm. 1651 by me—JOHN PENNE.

Sealed and subscribed in the p'sence of William Penne, Edmund Kettle, Thomas Penne.

[Proved in common form May 13, 1653.]

THE WILL OF WILLIAM PENNE, OF HARBOROUGH, 1664.*

In the name of God, Amen. The thirteenth day of Aprill, 1664, and in the 16th yeare of the raigne of our sou'raine Lord Charles the Second, by the grace of God King of England, Scotland, France, and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, etc. I William Penne, of Harborrough, in the p'ish of Hagley, in the county of Worcester, gent., being weake in bodye but of sound and perfect memory, prayse be given to God for the same, and knowing the uncertainty of this life on earth, and being desirous to settle things in order, doe make this my last will and testam't in manner and forme following, that is to say. First and principally I commend my soule to Almighty God my creator, assuredly believing that I shall receive full pardon and free remission of my sins, and be saved by the precious death and meritts of my blessed Saviour and Redeemer Christ Jesus, and my body to the earth from whence it was taken to be buried in such decent and Christian manner as to my Executor hereafter named shall be thought meet and convenient. And as touching such worldly estate as the Lord in mercie hath lent me, my will and meaning is the same shalbe imployed and bestowed as hereafter by this my will is expressed. And first I doe revoke, renounce, frustrate, and make void all wills by me formerly made, and declare and appoint this my last will and testam't. Item I give and bequeath unto my grandchild William Penne, son of my son Thomas Penne, one great brass pot and one two-yeared postnett, and my meaning is that they shall remaine as chieves to the house so long as there is an heire male of my name to make use of them. Item I give and bequeath to my son Gervase Penne the bed in the porch chamber and all its furniture w'tsoever, two coffers which now he maketh use of, one other bed in the buttery chamber and all its furniture whatsoever, one trunke in the said chamber now standing, and all my cattell after my heriots are discharged. Item I give and bequeath unto my beloved sonne Thomas Penne the bed in the great chamber and all furniture thereunto belonging, the bed over the parlour and all furniture thereunto belonging, the coffer at my son Gervase his bed's feet wherein my writings are, and all my sheep. All the rest of my goods, chattells, and debts undisposed of I doe give and bequeath unto my said son Thomas Penne, and I doe make him the said Thomas Penne my sole Execut'r to see this my last will and testament truly executed and performed. In witness whereof I have hereunto put my hand and seale the day and yeare first above written in the p'sence of Richard Amphlett, Thomas Nash.—WILLIAM PENN.

THE WILL OF WILLIAM PENN, 1729.

In the name of God, Amen. I William Penn the elder, of Harborow in the p'ish of Hagley and county of Worcester, being of sound and perfect mind and memory, thanks be to God therefore, and calling to mind the uncertainty of this mortal life, do make and ordain this my last will and testament in manner and form following, viz. Impr'is I give and bequeath my soul into the hands of Almighty God my Creator, and my body to be buried in a decent and Christian manner, hoping through the merits of Jesus Christ my blessed Saviour and Redeemer for a happy resurrection to eternal life. And as for that worldly estate with which it has pleased God to bless me, my will is as followeth. Item I give and bequeath unto my only son William Penn, his exec'rs or assigns, all those my lands, tenem'ts, and p'misses with their appurtenances now in the possession of William Hornblower and the Widow Powell or their underten'ts, situate and being in Romsley, in the parish of Halesowen and county of Salop, granted by lease for the term of a thousand years save one to Thomas Cookes and William Cookes his brother jointly from Thomas Blount and George Tuckey, Esq'rs, Comm'rs appointed for that purpose; and also all assignm'ts thereof made and executed, and all the term of years which shall be to come and unexpired at my decease; and also all that messuage house called Adam's Hill now in the possession of William Hall or his underten'ts together with the barn, stables, buildings, gardens, orchards, and backsides thereunto belonging, situate and being in the parish of Clent and county of Stafford, granted by lease for the term of ninety and nine years from Richard Amphlett Esq. to Thomas Penn my father deceased; both which aforesaid leases and all the lands, tenem'ts, and p'misses therein demised, with all and singular their appurten'ces, and all my right, title, or interest in the same or in any part thereof, I do freely give unto my said son William Penn, his exec'rs and assigns, on condition that he my said son shall pay all my debts, discharge all my legacies, and fulfill and perform faithfully all this my last will and testament as it is hereinafter specifyed and declared. Item my said son shall pay unto my sister Esther Penn the sum'e of one hundred pounds which I owe her upon bond. Item my said son shall pay unto my son-in-law Mr. Thomas Dolman* the sum'e of one hundred pounds at such time as I have engaged it shall be paid in the marriage articles of the said Mr. Thomas Dolman. Item I give unto my eldest daughter Ann Shenston† the sum'e of one hundred pounds . . . . on the day of the marriage of my said son William Penn, if he my said son shall happen to be unmarried at the time of my decease. Item I give unto my second daughter Mary Dolman that feather bed, blanketts, and all things belonging to it that stands in the buttery chamber. Item I give to my youngest daughter Sarah Penn the sum'e of three hundred and fifty pounds. Item I give to my said youngest daughter Sarah Penn, her exec'rs or assigns, all my right, title, and interest in certain lands, tenem'ts, and p'misses situate in the parish of Pedmore and county of Worcester now in the possession of Richard Lowe or his underten'ts held by a lease of one hundred ninety and nine years from the feoffees of the hospital of Thomas Foley Esq. deceased. Item I give unto my said youngest daughter Sarah one half of my household goods. All the rest of my goods, chattells, and credits whatsoever I give and bequeath unto my said son William Penn, whom I make and ordain sole execut'r of this my last will and testam't revoking all other wills by me heretofore made. In witness whereof I have hereunto put my hand and seal this 28th day of August Anno Dom. 1729.—William Penn.

Sealed and delivered and declared by the testator to be his last will and testam't in the p'sence of Thomas Dolman, Edward Oldnall.

[Administration with will annexed granted at Worcester on the eighth day of March, 1731, to Anne Shenston, Mary Dolman, and Sarah Penn, the natural and lawful daughters and legatees named in the said will; Wiiliam Penn, the Executor therein named, having died in the lifetime of the said testator.‡]

VARIAN.—I should be pleased if any of your readers could furnish me with information concerning the place of origin of this family, a branch of which (Thomas Varian) was settled at Cork, Ireland, about 100 years since.

Cleveland, Ohio, U.S.A. SAM. BRIGGS.

FINISTON FAMILY.—Since inserting my query in the 'Misc. Gen. et Heraldica,' I have ascertained the following particulars respecting this family, and shall be much obliged to any correspondent who can give me any further information, especially with regard to the parentage of Dorothea, wife of the Rev. Joseph Finiston. The names of Finiston and Mackay seem in a list of families connected with the O'Neills of Clannaboy. The "Rev^{d} Skeffington Bristow, Clerk," and "James Stewart, Esq., Counsellor at Law," were trustees of the will of the Rev. Joseph Finiston.

John Finiston of the City of Dublin.=. . . .

Rev. Joseph Finiston, Vicar of Antrim, B.A. Trin. Coll. Dublin, 1701; M.A. 1714. Will dated 4 Dec. 1754. Born about 1676-7; died about 1754-5. =Dorothea, dau. of . . . . ?

PRICE AND BROWN.—A marriage settlement dated 16 January, 1626, discloses the following pedigree :—

John Price the elder of Kingston-upon-Thames, gent. =

Sir Anthony Brown of Kingston-upon-Thames, Knight. =

John Price the younger of Kingston-upon-Thames, son and heir. =Mary, about to be married to John Price.

The above-mentioned John Price, father and son, convey lands, etc., in Kingston-upon-Thames, to Sir Anthony Brown and Thomas Haward the elder, also of Kingston, gent., to secure a jointure of £100 per an. to Mary, the da. of Sir Anthony Brown. The seal affixed by John Price the elder is indistinct, but the arms appear to be,—Quarterly, 1. A lion rampant regardant, a canton . . . . 2. A lion rampant. 3. Indistinct (3 roses, and on a canton a fleur de lys ?). 4. A lion rampant issuing from a mural crown (holding 3 roses ?). On the seal of John Price the younger is a lion rampant issuing out of a mural crown, holding in the paw three roses. Manning and Bray mention a Sir Anthony Brown at this period who was comptroller to Kings James and Charles. From what families did this Sir Anthony and the Prices descend ? The witnesses to the deed were Edw. Hurst, Brian Blomely, and Joane Ward.—T. N.

GIDLEY.—Wanted, to find record of the marriage and burial of John Gidley, "of London, Chirurgeon," whose eldest son was born in 1669. By his will dated 21st September, 1712, proved in London 24th April, 1713, John Gidley (who therein describes himself as "of Winckley in co. Devon, gentleman") gives unto his wife "the use of all my goods I left in my house in London when I last came from thence for the term of her natural life and after her decease unto my son John Gidley and daughter Rebecca Graham for ever that is to say All my Silver Plate then there All my Tapestry & other hangings in cleaven rooms and eight closetts there All my Bedding Bed and Table linnen then there, and all my pewter and brass there, and all other my implements of household and household goods then there but not elsewhere." There is no record of his burial at Winkleigh, and it is probable that after making his will he returned to his house in London, and there he died. The name of his wife is not mentioned in the will.—B. G.

Martis xxij^to die Novembris Anno R^s Caroli nono inter Will'm Cage & Thomam Bull Gardian' Edwardi Cage Will'mi Cage et Anne Cage Querent' et Johem Montford Sacræ Theolog doctor defet.

By M^r Lanie beinge of the p'ts councell in the presence of Mr. Bullock being of the def't his councell that Forasmuch as this court was this daie informed that Margaret Cage deceased naturall sister of the said Will'm Cage did by her last will & testam^t in writinge give and bequeath vnto the said Edward William and Ann Cage the children of the said William Cage Twentie pounds a peace to be paid into the hands of her brother Anthonie Cage late Doctor of Divinitie deceased to be imployed usered & bestowed for their benefitt & preferm^t accordinge to his discretion: and did name and appoint Martha Cage her sister to be her onelie executrix and died: that the said Martha Cage p'ved the will, and did paie & deliver into the hands of the said Anthonie Cage threescoare pounds in monie to the use of the said children who received the same and did imploye it to and for the benefitt of the said children accordinge to the trust reposed in him; and raised the said some of Threescoare pounds to Fower scoare & Fower pounds: that the said Anthonie Cage made his last will & testam^t and did thereby nominate the def't his sole executor and died possessed of a good p'sonall estate, who p'ved the said will and tooke upon him the execution of the same. But forasmuch as the said def't was unwillinge to be charged with the said severall porcions, or to ymploye the same for the benefitt & use of the said children as his said Testator had formerlie done Thereupon the said Will'm Cage the Father and the said Thomas Bull the uncle to them on the mothers side did exhibit their bill into this court that the said def't might paie the said Fourscoare & fower pounds to them or one of them vpon sufficient securitie to paie the same to the said Children & to ymploye the same Fowerscoare & Fower pounds for the benefitt & encrease of their said porc'ons as this Court should think fitt, unto which Bill the said deft hath annswered & confesseth the effect & substance of the pl'ts informac'on and saith that he is willinge to paye in the said Fowerscoare & Fower pounds into this honorable court or to such p'sone & p'sons as will give good and sufficient securitie to this honorable court, and that maie discharge the said deft and the said Martha their executors & administrators against the said children, and that the said some of monie maye be ymployed for the encrease thereof to their best benefitt and be paied to the said children accordinge to the true intent & meaninge of the last will & testam^t of the said Margaret. It is therefore this present daie ordered that the said def't shall forthw^th satisfie & paie unto y^e said Thomas Bull one of the said Compl^ts who is esteemed an able & sufficient man to answere the same to the said children the said some of Fowerscoare & Fower pounds & upon paiem't of the same yt is ordered that the said def't and the said Martha Cage shall from thenceforth be absolutelie acquitted and discharged of the said several porc'ons and the encrease of them against the said children & the said compl^t Thom. Bull vpon the receipt of the said Fowerscoare & Fower pounds from the said def't shall presentlie enter into a Recognizance of two hundred pounds, to this Court for the paiement of the said and Fowerscoare Fower pounds to the said children parte & parte like, and for the vse

Pedigree of the Longs of Semington,

ROOD ASHTON AND PRESHAW BRANCHES.

(CURANTE GULIELMO LONG, A.D. 1878.)

MR. WALTER LONG of Preshaw, M.P., communication, 1879.—

"Inter alia from loose parts of Pedigree recently received would read exactly for Thomas of Semington to be the son of Richard, and of Robert of Wraxall and Draycot (had 1440), who had the manor of Semington, etc., as well as Wraxall. It is presumed that he, Richard, survived over 1490, and that he was preceded for by his father Robert, and brother Henry, Long, as the manor of Semington, by deeds for terms of himself and sons, there have remainder. After the dutchdom of monasteries we find a Court Roll under Sir Thomas Seymour, Lord Sudley, 1547, vesting grants in Semington, manor in favour of Thomas Long, and Johanna, and her undoubted, and one of her sons," etc., etc.

Lady of the Manor of Liscard, co. Chester.

The above short Pedigree is copied from a MS. in the handwriting of the late Robert Maddock of Chester, a son of the Rev. Thos. Maddock, M.A., Prebendary of Chester, and Rector of Northenden, and grandson of the Rev. Thos. Maddock, Rector of Liverpool, above-mentioned, and a zealous antiquary and genealogist, the later dates being filled in on the information of Mrs. J. D. Maddock of Liscard Manor.

The compiler of the above also writes:—"Dovaston is in the parish of Kinnerley, seven and a half miles S.E. of Oswestry. Peter Corbet, Baron 1295, died seized of the manor of Dinoreweston, a member of the Barony of Caus, 28th Edward I., A.D. 1300. Robert Corbet, Lord of Caus, etc., ob. 1221; his son and heir Thos. Several pieces of plate bearing the Corbet Crest—the elephant and castle—were recently in possession of the descendants of Richard Penkett.

This family is supposed to be descended from the Penketh, Lords of Penketh, co. Lancaster, and bears the same Arms:—"Argent, 3 Kingfishers ppr." "The Lord of Penketh, says the ancient Duchy Feodary, holds of Sir W^m^ Boteler, the 5^th^ part of a Knight's fee in Penketh, which Roger Penketh formerly held." This Lord was probably Jordan de Penket, who, in 1363, gave to his son Robert all his lands in Penket. Among the witnesses is Richard de Ashton.

Lucas says: "The Lordship of that name in the parish of Prescot was held by them till Margaret, dau. and heir of Richard Penketh of Penketh, mar. Richard Ashton, and became seized thereof."

In King's 'Vale Royal' (Ormerod, vol. i., 38), we find in the list of "Cheshire Knights and gentlemen who compounded with parliament for their Estates" the name of "Thomas Penkett of Sutton £66 : 5 : 0." Is not this the Thomas Penkett of Great Neston at the head of the above Pedigree, or his father?

Any information regarding the families above mentioned will be very acceptable to me.
